Lane Wins, But Mahoney Polls Larger Popular Vote

Maryland Governor Has Electoral Edge; Butler-Markey Race Is Still Undecided

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19.—William Preston Lane, jr., today squeaked through a major political crisis to secure the Democratic nomination for Governor of Maryland over the strong bid of George P. Mahoney, 48, Baltimore contractor.

Lane, 58, seeking his second term, apparently had captured control of the party convention that makes the formal nomination.

But Mahoney led Lane in the popular vote.

Latest tabulations showed Lane had 84 convention votes, with 77 necessary to nominate. Mahoney had 68. Both figures were subject to change.

On a popular vote basis, with 1278 of 1429 polling places reporting, Lane had 157,628 votes to 166,526 for Mahoney.

More Close Races

The three minor candidates in the race had these totals: Harry Kemper, 5072; Herbert W. Larrabee, 5485, and Stephen B. Peddicord, 4237.

Two other photo finishes are being staged by Republicans.

In a see-saw battle for the GOP Senatorial nomination, John Marshall Butler, 53, a Baltimore attorney claimed victory at 7 p. m. tonight over D. John Markey, 67, retired Brigader General of Walkersville.

Although Butler, like Lane, trailed in popular votes, he claimed 78 convention votes, one more than the deciding margin. In his statement to newspapers, he appealed to Marylanders "regardless of party" to support him in a drive to change policies of our national administration and eliminate "confusion and mismanagement." He predicted victory for a "well-coordinated" GOP campaign.

One Extra Vote

Butler captured 42 convention votes in Baltimore City and was sure of 10 more votes from the counties. Together with his leads under the unit system, he had 78 votes, one more than needed for nomination. Markey was sure of 37 convention votes from the counties, had good leads for 12 others. In two counties with a total of 11 votes, the battle between the two was so close that less than a ten-vote margin existed at latest counting.

Observers said the issue might remain in the air until the official count is given at the end of this week or early next week.

The second close GOP race was for the attorney general nomination.

Post Ad Makes Sale

A Lt. Col. phoned us the other Wednesday. Said he wanted to place an ad in the Post classified section to sell his house in North Arlington. So he dictated the ad, and ordered it to run four times—from Thursday to Sunday.

At 4 P.M. on Thursday (the day the ad first appeared) the colonel called again. Seems he just wanted to tell us that the ad was a great success, and as a result of it, he had sold the house.

We were very glad to hear it, but frankly, not too surprised. So many of our want ad advertisers get Same Day Action from their Post ads that we're kind of used to stories of rapid results.

If you've got something to sell, or buy or rent, try a Post want ad yourself. All you have to do is call NAtional 4200 and ask for Classifed.

Depressed Since Sander Trial

'Mercy Death' Doctor's Aide Found Dead at Brook's Edge

HOOKSETT, N. H., Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Dr. Hermann N. Sander's pretty nurse, who stood by him during his famed "mercy murder" trial, apparently committed suicide during a fit of despondency, the Merrimack County solicitor said tonight.

"It has all indications of a suicide," said Raymond K. Perkins of Concord, referring to the death of blonde 25-year-old Helen A. Maciolek, whose body was found late today on her parents' farm, an empty glass clutched in her hand.

Perkins said he was investigating a report that the young nurse had quarreled recently with a boy friend.

Officials believed Miss Maciolek took her life shortly after she disappeared yesterday. She was reported to have been depressed since Dr. Sander's arrest and subsequent acquittal last March on a first degree murder charge in the death of a cancer patient.

Two members of a posse found her body lying at the bottom of a steep embankment near the edge of a woodland brook. State police reported an envelope containing a white powder lay beside her.

Miss Maciolek lay on her back on a bed of dry leaves, indicating she had lain there during last night's rain.

She was seen strolling away from her parents' home into the nearby woods, accompanied by her pet dog Laddie. The dog later returned to the house alone.

Russell Zela, 28, of South Hooksett, and John Nordell said they found the young nurse's body northwest of her parents' farm home and a half-mile off the Daniel Wesbter highway. They said Miss Maciolek was fully clothed.

Attlee Wins By 6 Votes on Steel Issue

Commons Debate Reaches Heights of Anger in Crucial Decision for Labor

LONDON, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor government won 306 to 300, a dramatic vote of confidence in Commons tonight and beat off one more Conservative attempt to force a new general election.

Attlee staked the life of his government on its decision to go ahead with nationalization of Britain's huge steel industry. And the House rejected a Conservative motion censuring the government for going ahead with nationalization when Britain is starting rearmament.

Approval of the Labor government's policy meant that steel will come under public ownership shortly after the first of the year.

Closest Since May 1 Tie

The six-vote margin of victory was the slimmest since the tie, broken by the Speaker in favor of the government, on May 1 on a road transport appropriations bill and the five-vote majority April 26 on increasing the gasoline tax.

But those issues were small as compared with state ownership of steel, which Winston Churchill, Conservative Party leader, said would be condemned "all over the free and friendly world as both reckless and unworthy."

It was a tense moment as the jammed house emptied shortly after 10 p. m. (5 p. m. EDT), while the members marched to the lobbies to be counted and then reassembled.

Then there was a tremendous burst of cheering from the government benches when the Labor chief whip, William Whiteley, came marching back in the right-hand position, which signified that the government had won. Then the Speaker, Col. Clifton Brown, announced the vote.

Cheered by 3000

Soon after the result was announced, the house adjourned until October 17. Its members filed out into the streets of Westminster to the cheers of the crowd of some 3000 persons assembled there.

The Government has announced it would resign and call for new elections if it lost in this most crucial vote of confidence in the history of Britain's 5-year-old experiment with socialism.

Labor and Conservative whips summoned ailing members from hospital beds and the absent from Gibraltar to Greenland. One Conservative interrupted a cruise to Austrailia to fly back. Several members of Parliament appeared with physicians.

Study Voted By Chamber; Vote Is 42-9

Acheson Move Wins; Vishinsky Defeated But Doesn't Walk Out Of Tense Chamber

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP). The United Nations General Assembly opened its fifth session today and immediately rejected a Russian-supported Indian proposal to give China's seat to the Communist Peiping government.

Instead, it adopted a Canadian proposal to set up a seven-nation committee to study the question of Chinese representation and report back to the Assembly with its recommendations.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky declared the Assembly's action was "illegal and incorrect," but he didn't walk out of the jammed and tense chamber.

After the Assembly adjourned last December, the Soviet delegation boycotted meetings of other U. N. groups for seven months rather than sit with Chinese Nationalist representatives.

United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson led the opposition to the plan submitted by India's Sir Benegal Rau.

"Vote on it now and vote it down," he demanded of the delegates from 59 nations a few minutes after the session opened at 2:15 p. m. (EST).

After almost three hours of debate, the Assembly defeated the resolution 33-16 with 10 abstentions.

The assembly also voted down two Russian resolutions, one calling for the ousting of the Chinese Nationalists and the other for the seating of the Chinese Communists. The votes were 38-10 with eight abstentions on the first, and 37-11 with eight abstentions on the second.

The vote on the Canadian proposal was 42 for, nine against and six abstentions.

This was the first time the Assembly has ever taken up a major issue before disposing of routine organizational problems. The first day of each session has always been devoted to election of officers and speeches by leading delegates setting forth, in general terms, the position they will take on various questions.

After disposing of the Chinese question, the Assembly elected Nasrollah Entezam of Iran as president of the fifth session to succeed Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines. He won on the first ballot over Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan of Pakistan. Viliam Siroky of Czechoslovakia and Stefan Wierblowski of Poland.

He said he realized it was "unprecedented" to take up such a matter immediately after convening, but felt that the urgency of the issue which has split the

Craft Headed for Far East

26 Die as Navy Air Transport Plunges in Sea at Kwajalein

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 19 (U.P.).—A four-engined Navy air transport crashed and sank in 7200 feet of water off Kwajalein in the Marshall Islands today, killing all 26 Navy personnel aboard, the Navy announced here.

A Fourteenth Naval District headquarters spokesman said that only 4 bodies from among the 19 Navy passengers and 7 crewmen had been recovered. No sign of the others was found by rescue craft that raced to the scene just outside of the lagoon at Kwajalein a few minutes after the accident occurred at 7:18 a. m. (HST), (1:18 p. m. EDT).

The Navy said witnesses reported that the plane had made a normal takeoff on a routine flight to the Far East. The tower operator at Kwajalein reported the pilot had just advised that he was making a routine shift of his radio frequency when the plane suddenly dived toward the water. An explosion was heard and a flash of fire was visible to those ashore before the plane sank in 1200 fathoms of water.

The four bodies were found amid a litter of two empty liferafts and debris that drifted over the spot where the plane sank.

The Navy said the names of those aboard the craft would not be released until relatives were notified.

The plane, attacned to the fleet logistics air wing of the Pacific, had departed from Barber's Point Naval Air Station in Hawaii late Monday afternoon.

Enemy Lines In Southern Perimeter Are Falling

Yanks Block Off Foe Racing Northward; 4 Beachheads Set Up West of Naktong

By Don Huth

TOKYO (Wednesday), Sept. 20 (AP).—Thousands of United States Marines swarmed across the Han River today and a confident Marine officer predicted they would be in Seoul before the day was over.

Right behind them were tanks and artillery.

While this jaw of a nutcracker was extended from Korea's west coast, attacking United Nations forces but new teeth into the other jaw along the old southeastern beachhead.

They sent two companies into Pohang, the east coast anchor. They poured "steel and flamethrowers" at the southern end. In between, they carved out a fourth beachhead across the Naktong River and occupied the walled city of Kasan—for long a hotly-defended high position 12 miles north of Taegu.

Reds Rushing Northward

Truckloads of Reds from the 140,000 man army in the old beachhead risked a gauntlet of aerial bombs to rush north toward Seoul.

Associated Press Correspondent Russell Brines reported that the first wave went across the Han at 6:45 a. m. (5:45 p. m. EDT Tuesday).

An attempt last night to get across with amphibious tractors was repelled by entrenched Communists firing machine guns. Today the guns of United Nations cruisers loosed a terrific aerial bombardment which wiped out the 200 Reds prior to the morning crossing.

Planes Cover Attack

Low-flying planes covered the Marines as they reached the east bank and began pushing toward Seoul.

(A Navy dispatch from Korea to Pacific fleet headquarters in Pearl Harbor said North Korean troops were in flight from Seoul and were running north and east of the capital. Marine Corsair pilots reported that many trucks and smaller vehicles were caught on the open road and destroyed. Two tanks were knocked out in the Kimpo area and others damaged.)

The crossings were made in amphibious tractors.

Artillery joined the cruisers in the preparatory barrage.

Clogging roads in the immediate rear of the Marines were tanks and other equipment, ready to add their weight to the bid for Seoul, city of 1,000,000.

The first crossings were northwest of Seoul.

Coolidge Wins Bay State Race For Governor

Former President's Kin Will Oppose Dever; Denfeld Poor Second

BOSTON, Sept. 20 (Wednesday) (AP).—A cousin of the late President Calvin Coolidge early today won the Republican nomination for Governor of Massachusetts in a six-way fight.

Sixty-nine-year-old Arthur W. Coolidge, a former lieutenant governor, had piled up a commanding two-to-one lead with one-third of the vote counted when his three leading opponents conceded.

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, making his first bid for political office, ran second in the Republican race for Governor but trailed Coolidge by more than 13,000 votes.

Coolidge will meet Democratic Gov. Paul A. Dever, 45, in the November election. Dever, who led his party to its biggest sweep in Bay State history two years ago, was renominated without opposition.

The count in 928 precincts of 1858 including 359 of 362 in Boston, gave: Republican Governor: Barnes 22,639; Coolidge 48,036; Denfeld 25,011; Miles 13,802; Needham 21,998; Rowe 2960.

Massachusetts' 14 Representatives in Congress—eight Republicans and six Democrats—sought renomination. Majority Floor Leader John W. McCormack (D) won easily.

Four of the other Representatives in Congress were renominated without primary opposition—Joseph W. Martin, Republican Floor Leader, Thomas J. Lane (D), John W. Heselton (R), Richard B. Wigglesworth (R) and Mrs. Edith N. Rogers (R).

The other Representatives seeking renomination were out front in their races—Donald W. Nicholson (R), Christian A. Herter (R), Foster Furcolo (D), Harold Donohue (D), Philip J. Philbin (D), and Angier Goodwin (R).

Tax Bill Nears Its Final Form; Session to End

Manner of Wind-Up, Probably Saturday, Remains Unsettled

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Virtual conference agreement on a five-billion-dollar tax bill last night cleared the way for a leadership drive for adjournment of Congress, probably by Saturday night.

With only two relatively minor tax points in dispute, House-Senate conferees called a final meeting this morning to complete the long deadlocked "Korean war" revenue bill.

Agreement on House provisions for collecting taxes on corporate dividends at the source, through a 10-percent withholding levy, helped break the tax stalemate.

The withholding tax on dividends would pick up about 190 million dollars a year from persons who have been failing to report such returns. This, plus other changes in the $4,508,000,000 bill passed by the Senate, brought an upward revision in revenue from the measure to five billion dollars.

With the tax agreement in sight, and slated for House action Friday, leaders ordered an 11 a. m. session of the House today in an effort to clear these two other big items of unfinished business through that chamber before nightfall:

1. The McCarran-Wood Communist control bill completed Monday by House-Senate conferees. This still could be a stumb-

Montgomery Survey Urges Campaign to Erase Slums

By Don Olesen
Post Reporter

A special citizens committee on housing yesterday handed the Montgomery County Council a 98-page survey of the county housing situation.

In its report, the 15-member Citizens Housing Advisory Committee—set up last April by the Council—found "numerous" examples of substandard housing and made these recommendations:

1. A county educational and home finance program to rehabilitate "many" of Montgomery's existing slum homes.

2. "Total replacement" of houses which are a "health and fire hazard" to the community.

3. Operation of the county's three veterans housing projects "on an efficient, businesslike basis," better rent collection, and "reasonable" standards of veteran elegibility.

4. Adoption of a "limited" program of public low-cost housing construction in Montgomery.

5. Coordination of the above program under a reactivated County Housing Authority. The old Housing Authority, headed by Col. E. Brooke Lee, was disbanded by the Council July 1.

Lee, who heard yesterday's report, called it "good" and said he was "in general agreement" with it.

Montgomery has "numerous small groups" of substandard houses—325 dwelling units according to County Welfare Board figures quoted in the report.

In commenting on his committee's survey, Chairman Pilip Schiff said the groud found "a good deal of confusion" in the old Housing Authority's management of the three veterans' housing projects—a lack of "efficient management."

There were no audit reports, only sketchy standards governing eligibility of veterans, and an out-of-date waiting list of veteran applicants, the committee found.

Colonel Lee replied that the developments were operated on eligibility standards recommended by the Federal Government, that the projects were "well run, well operated and decently managed."

Referring to criticism of the agency's management, Lee added that there was "no excuse for the things said and intimated in the (committee) report "insofar as the attack on the agency was concerned.

Lee and the County Council recently ended a tiff over possession of records of the old Housing Authority after the former chairman finally agreed to turn them over to the council.

A total of 234 veterans now live in 199 houses and apartments and 50 trailers of the three veterans projects, the committee found.

Harriman Says Taft Furthers Kremlin Goals

Charge Before AFL Convention Arouses Storm at Capitol

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

W. Averell Harriman accused Senator Taft (R., Ohio), of furthering "the designs of the Kremlin" yesterday, and provoked an uproar on Capitol Hill.

Senate Republicans said that Harriman's charge against the Ohioan was "stupid," "unfortunate" for bipartisanship on foreign policy and smacked of Moscow tactics.

Harriman, Special Assistant to the President, who heretofore has taken little part in the rough-and-tumble of politics, went after Taft in a speech before the American Federation of Labor convention in Houston, Tex. The text of his speech was released in advance at the White House. It was assumed, therefore, that his was the voice of the Administration calling for Taft's defeat this fall.

Harriman told the AFL that he was naming Taft because the Ohioan had tried to block Gen. George C. Marshall's return to service as Secretary of Defense. He cited Taft's voting record—his votes to slash Marshall Plan appropriations, against the North Atlantic Treaty, and against arms for America's allies— and said:

"When you look at his record, you cannot escape the conclusion that if Congress had adopted his positions, Communist objectives would thereby have been furthered.

Big 3 Call End To Germany's Enemy Status

Curb Removals Bring Full Nationhood Near; Police Unit Approved

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The Big Three Foreign Ministers brought the West Germans nearer to full nationhood today by removing a whole series of restrictions and controls over their former enemies.

They agreed to end the technical state of war without a peace treaty at this time. Each of the three occupying powers, the United States, Britain and France, will take this legal step in its own constitutional fashion—the British by an order in council, which can be issued almost overnight; the Americans by congressional action involving the repeal of much domestic legislation.

Foreign Affairs Ministry

The Foreign Ministers decided, too, to let the West German Republic set up its own Ministry of Foreign Affairs and conduct its foreign relations through its own ambassadors "in all suitable cases." There will be no German ambassador for the present in Washington, London or Paris, the intention being to avoid confusion with the authority of the three Allied high commissioners in Germany.

To enable the German republic to cope with its internal Communist enemies, the Ministers approved the creation of a new mobile police force of 30,000 men under an inspector-general of police in Bonn, the federal capital.

The new force would be stationed in the 11 states, along with the existing state police totaling 113,000, but it could be rushed from state to state on federal orders in the event of trouble.

As for Germany's external defense, the issue that had snagged the conferences here for the past week, the Ministers set their faces firmly against reviving a German national army. They said in a formal statement that such an army "would not serve the best interests of Germany or Europe," and was not even wanted by the majority of the German people.

But they did promise to study "German participation in an integrated force for the defense of European freedom." The French Defense Minister, Jules Moch, the most stubborn opponent of using German troop units in a combined army, will fly to New York next week with the British Minister of Defense, Emanuel Shinwell, for further conferences on this issue.

They are expected to meet here or in Washington with Gen.

Vivien Kellems Ill; Drinks Cleaning Fluid by Mistake

STONINGTON, Conn., Sept. 19 (AP).—Miss Vivien Kellems, an independent candidate for United States Senator in the Connecticut election, became seriously ill today after mistakenly swallowing two teaspoonsful of a cleaning fluid.

Her physician, Dr. Roger N. Ryley, called her condition "serious but not critical."

Dr. Ryley said Miss Kellems had mistaken the cleaning fluid for medicine which was in a bottle of similar appearance, and swallowed the two teaspoonsful very quickly.

The cleaning fluid contained carbon tetrachloride, and Dr. Ryley said Miss Kellems had taken what amounted to "very nearly a fatal dose" of that chemical.

She was taken to a hospital in New London.

Palestine Ruins Identified as Old City of Jericho

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP).—An archeologist said today that ruins found in Palestine had been identified as those of the ancient city of Jericho, which served as the winter capital of Herod the Great.

Dr. James Kelso, professor of Biblical archaeology of the Pittsburgh-Xenia Theological Seminary, said as he returned aboard the liner Saturnia that "nothing like it has ever been found in Palestine."

Kelso, who also is director of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, said the excavation project was made possible by United Nations Funds.

The type of architecture provided positive identification of Jericho, Kilso said. It is near the present city of that name. Some of the ruins were at the surface, but identification went as deep as 15 feet below the surface.

Health Dept. Asks $12,391,340 For District Hospital Budget

By N. S. Haseltine

(District Seeks 22.8 Million Welfare Budget, Page B-1)

District Health Department officials want an extra dollar next year for each $2 allotted them this year to operate and improve their hospitals.

Specifically, they ask for $12,391,340 for the hospitals for the budget year beginning next July 1, in contrast with $8,097,875 allowed for the current fiscal year.

The increases sought are almost evenly divided between capital improvements to the present hospital plants and salary authorizations to pay for some 457 new employes the hospital heads want to hire.

District Commissioners made the hospitals' budget requests public last night. The budgets for District hospitals are separate from the Health Department's own budget, expected to be released today.

The requests include:

1. The sum of $6,517,000 to run Gallinger Municipal Hospital, plus another $1,476,233 for capital improvements of the hospital. For the current fiscal year, Gallinger was allotted $4,775,000 for operations, and $47,875 in capital outlay (to repair elevators and stairwells).

2. A total of $2,572,607 to operate the District's tuberculosis sanatorium at Glenn Dale, Md.,

Bar Head Says 'Spoils System' Is Basis for Picking Judges

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

(Other Bar Association news on Pages 11 and B-6)

Federal judges are chosen by a "spoils system" which has kept some of the Nation's best legal minds off the bench, Harold J. Gallagher, retiring president of the American Bar Association, charged yesterday.

Gallagher made his accusations before more than 500 persons including numerous legal dignitaries among whom were over 70 judges at the annual Judiciary Dinner of the ABA at the Statler. There were five Supreme Court Justices present.

When Gallagher was through, some of the judges applauded, but many did not.

He accused the Democratic Administration of appointing party workhorses to judicial posts. This, he said, was impairing public confidence in the judiciary.

Gallagher, who is a member of the late Wendell Willkie's New York law firm, declared:

"The policy of restricting Federal appointments to the membership of the party in power is contrary to our best precedents and marks a reversion to a spoils system policy from which lawyers have sought escape through the course of many years."

To back up his claim, Gallagher cited figures showing that, since 1932, only 8 out of nearly 200

New Red Attacks Hit French Posts

SAIGON, Indochina, Sept. 19 (AP).—Two more French outposts near the border of Red China were under attack by Communist-led Vietminh forces tonight and reliable sources said there were rebel troop movements all along the frontier.

The possibility increased that the attacks were the prelude to the long-predicted Vietminh offensive, but this was not yet clear.

The French announced that Vietminh rebel units, "newly armed in China," had been used for the first time in the capture of the northern outpost of Dongkhe, 100 miles northeast of Hanoi. The fall of Dongkhe was announced yesterday.

Tonight, it was learned that Pakha, a French army post 125 miles west of Dongkhe, has been under attack for three days.

Thatkhe, 10 miles south of Dongkhe, also was being attacked.

Hanoi was the scene of intense air activity, as the French hastily assembled a force of transport and fighter planes.

A French communique said the forces which captured Dongkhe had not been completely identified, raising speculation that Chinese Communist troops participated. French sources at Hanoi declared, however, that the attackers were exclusively Ho Chi-Minh's Vietminh troops.

The rebels were using machineguns, field artillery and heavy mortars of American make which apparently had been given to Chinese Nationalists and captured by Chinese Communists.

Other Communist-led Vietminh troop concentrations were said by a French spokesman to be near Moncay, Langson and Laokay. French outposts stretching from the coast for 300 miles along the border of Red China.

These concentrations could mean a general Communist offensive all along the frontier is in the making.

Rentzel Named

CAB Gets First Flying Chairman

President Truman yesterday gave the Civil Aeronautics Board its first "flying chairman" yesterday and named a Government career man as Civil Aeronautics Administrator.

Delos W. Rentzel, present CAA Administrator, was nominated as CAB member to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell, jr. He is expected to be named chairman in O'Connell's place. The latter quit weeks ago after the White House overruled a controversial CAB decision.

Nominated to succeed Rentzel was Donald W. Nyrop, now deputy CAA Administrator. Before the war, he was with the CAB, and after Air Force service took a post with the CAA. He has also served with the Air Transport Association.

Rentzel is both a pilot and an aeronautical engineer. He was an expert in aeronautical radio before entering the Government. CAB officials said last night the reaction to his nomination in aviation circles was quick and overwhelmingly favorable. Previous CAB chairmen largely have been lawyers without prior aviation experience.

The CAB is an independent Federal body which lays down aviation regulations and passes judgment on compliance with them. The CAA is a Commerce Department agency handling airways, aviation operations, planning and development.

The dispute which brought about O'Connell's resignation was over a 3-to-2 decision, in which the Chairman concurred, rejecting a plan to sell American Overseas Airline to its competitor, Pan American World Airways. President Truman set aside the decision and approved the merger.

American Troops Pay Grimly but Cross Naktong Under Heavy Enemy Fire

By Bem Price

WITH THE UNITED STATES TWENTY-FOURTH DIVISION, Korea, Sept. 19 (AP).—One spur on a bald hill across the Naktong River was owned by the GIs at noon today—but they paid a price for it.

The coin was blood, hands and legs—and life. But for the soldiers it was put up or shut up. For rumor had it that this was "the Sunday punch" designed to shake loose the whole United Nations beachhead.

So with the simplicity of men who have been ordered to do something, they did it.

They waded, swam and boated across the bloody Naktong, smack into an ambush of crossfire from machineguns, mortars and some artillery.

Just to reach the river itself required a march, often laden with heavy wooden assault boats, across 300 yards of an open sand bar.

Originally, the attack was planned for dusk the previous day. It was going to be a surprise strike across the Naktong to outflank embattled Waegwan, seven miles to the North.

But at dusk troops were trying to reach the assembly area over clogged closed, broken down South Korean roads. When early morning came, many of the GIs, sleepless and hungry, struggled to find out in the darkness where they were supposed to be.

Meanwhile, the artillery fired round after round at the low-lying hills west. But, added up, the barrage didn't amount to much in terms of European warfare.

Just as dawn broke—just enough light to make good targets—the first assault boats were hefted into the water.

The first wave, led by Second Lieut. Loran Chambers of Mount Sterling, Pa., got half-way across when there was hell to pay. Throughout the night the hills on the opposite shore had been quiet. But now they crackled with fire.

Many of the men in the boats were hit. Some leaped into the water to swim only to find that, in spots, the river was but waist deep.

The fire fight started precisely at 5:45 a. m.

I watched the whole operation, sweating it out in an apple orchard overnight in the dank, cold air with four officers in a heavy weapons platoon.

I wandered in the darkness to the staging area for the boats, where engineer First Lieut. George Schriner of Norfolk, Va., was doing yoeman work in creating order out of confusion and getting the boats moving. At the first crack of dawn and with the first fire from the opposite shore, I crouched atop a bank with a magnificent panoramic view of the whole show.

Some men dropped on their bellies in the sand at the first shot but others plugged steadily ahead with their boats. On the opposite shore there was a burst of rifle fire and then the heavy chug of an American light machinegun.

It was possible to see men dropping in their tracks.

Marines Across Han At Seoul, Is Report

A Virginian

Marines Led Seoul-ward By Col. Puller

ON THE ROAD TO SEOUL, Sept. 19 (AP).—The North Korean soldier came marching down the road—stark naked. He was young and stockily built and limped painfully into captivity.

The bullet had hit the fleshy part of his left leg, leaving a small hole where it entered and a jagged wound where it had emerged. The Marine bullet had felled him when he tried to run away.

A Leatherneck walked behind him with a rifle pointed at his back. And then the Marine ordered the naked soldier to sit beside the road while an interpreter questioned him.

The Leatherneck glared at the young Communist who had blood smeared on his face and who cowered with his hands clasped behind his head.

Pfc. Joseph Saia of Sacramento, Calif., said:

"That guy shot the sergeant. He got the sergeant right above the heart. He didn't live long.

Young Saia stared at the Red.

"He had on civilian clothes when we shot him but the boys stripped him and sent him down the hill," Saia said.

The interpreter finished his questions and the Marine snarled:

"Take him to the stockade. Take him back before I . . . "

And they took the Red soldier away.

Up on a hillside in his command post Col. Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller of Saluda, Va., sat in a graveyard looking at his maps. The colonel is a tough, leathery little man who still is fighting at 50 years of age after 33 years with the Marines. He could wear a chest full of medals from heroism on such places as New Britain, Pelellieu and other Pacific spots.

On his maps Colonel Puller traced the progress of his men from the point of their dawn attack to the hill where the sergeant was shot down late in the day.

Except for the sergeant, it had been a good day—and his men on the ridges could look across the valley and see Seoul in the distance.

[Colonel Puller, whose home is in Middlesex County, Va., commanded a Marine battalion on Guadalcanal during World War II. He was wounded seven times in the fighting there and received a Gold Star in lieu of a fourth Navy Cross for his leadership on New Britain. He was the first Marine so honored in the war.

[An enlisted man in World War I, Colonel Puller won his first two Navy Crosses in Nicaragua in 1931 and 1932. The third came on Guadalcanal in October, 1942, when his battalion defended a 2300 yard line for five hours against repeated mass attacks by the Japs.

[In addition, his decorations include the Cross of Valor and Medal of Merit of Nicaragua, the Military Medal of Haiti, the Purple Heart and the Presidential Unit Citation.—Editor's Note.]

estimated at 4000 men of the Communist 18th Division — were reported dug in at four places. Other Reds were reported racing north toward Seoul from the old Pusan beachhead.

Big Pershing and Patton tanks and heavy guns were right behind the Marines. The Leathernecks who first crossed the Han were vanguards of a force of 40,000 men Poured ashore at Inchon, port for Seoul, starting last Friday.

Near Hills Defending Seoul

The Marines, on reaching the east bank, crossed rice paddy fields toward hill positions defending Seoul.

As the Reds pulled out at points along the old southeast beachhead, a fourth crossing of the Naktong River by United Nations troops was reported today by Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton.

He said the new crossing was made before dawn today in the U. S. Second Division area. It is 6 miles south of one forged Tuesday west of Changnyong. Changnyong is 40 miles northwest of Pusan.

North Korean troops, caught flat-footed in the southeast by the Inchon landings last weekend, stepped up their withdrawal from the old Pusan perimeter in a scramble to rush reinforcements into the Seoul area, 140 miles to the northwest.

The nearest Red motorized columns were described as "several hours" from Seoul and being pounded by Allied war planes.

Yanks Blocking Off Road

But this movement appeared too late. United States Seventh Infantry Division forces, following hard on the heels of the advancing First Marine Division spearhead, moved athwart the main highway leading from Seoul to the south.

They drew up a strong line bulwarked by heavy guns and powerful Pershing tanks. This slammed the door on the northbound Red columns headed for Seoul, city of 1 million population which the Communists seized June 28.

More men and heavy equipment were pouring ashore at nearby Inchon. Flying boxcars in a giant airlift from Japan brought in more men and supplies at Seoul's Kimpo airfield.

The weakened North Korean defenses around the 125-mile Pusan perimeter appeared to be crumbling. United Nations forces battling there made major gains in the past 24 hours.

Summary of the Gains

Associated Press field dispatches and headquarters communique from Tokyo and the Eighth Army showed the following gains by late Tuesday:

1. Waegwan, 12 air miles northwest of Taegu, was seized by United States First Cavalry units, against scattered enemy resistance.

2. The walled city of Kasan, 12 air miles due north of Taegu, was entered by First Cavalry troopers.

3. South Korean Third Division troops sent patrols into Pohang, the battered east coast port.

The 16-inch guns of the U.S.S. Missouri, mightiest warship in the world blasted the way.

4. South Korean Capital Division troops gained high ground overlooking Kigye, strategic hill town eight miles southwest of Pohang where the Reds in the past broke through the northeast end of the United Nations defense line.

Four Naktong Bridgeheads

5. Four bridgeheads were forged across the Naktong River line by American forces plunging westward along the one-time west wall of the defense perimeter. United States Engineers bridged the rain-swollen river barrier at one point. More than 4000 United States troops built up strength in two crossings in the United States Second Division sector west of Changnyong, and a third six miles south of Waegwon in the north.

Changnyong is southwest of Taegu.

6. In the southwest Negro troops of the United States Twenty-fifth Division west of Haman regained bloody "Battle Mountain"—whose scarred crest changed hands a score of times in the past month. Other division troops eliminating pockets of Red resistance, found the North Korean Seventh Division had followed the Red Sixth Division in an abrupt retreat. There appeared to be little in front of the Twenty-fifth Division.

Philippine Troops Are Landed

Ground troops of four nations were now in the United Nations offensive to shove the Reds out of invaded South Korea. A Philippine combat team of about 1200 men landed at a southeast Korean port Tuesday to join American, British and South Korean forces fighting their way out of the Pusan perimeter.

The Communist line of retreat was following the route of conquest it took during July and August.

The road back led over "Heartbreak Highway." The paved roadway runs 90 miles south of Seoul across the Kum River to the devastated town of Taejon, then turns eastward for 58 miles to cross the Naktong River at Waegwan and enter Taegu. Mile by bloody mile the United States Twenty-fourth Division slowly gave ground over this highway in the opening phases of the war.

U.S. Marines Take Over Kimpo Airfield After Reds Flee

(AP) Wirephoto via radio from Tokyo

WRECKAGE OF WAR—Marines who seized Kimpo Airfield, near Seoul, after a dash from Inchon, inspect debris left on field by retreating North Korean Communists. Airport, once the best field in Korea, is in use again in huge airlift

Air observers located at least three Communist columns wheeling northwest en route to Seoul. The nearest column to Seoul was moving north of Taejon, within 90 miles of the capital.

Other Columns Far Behind

The other two columns were far behind this one. They still were on the highway between Taejon and the front.

The column north of Taejon was hit yesterday by Allied warplanes. They also caught up with the rear convoy near Kumchon and hammered it with bullets and rockets. Kumchon is 18 miles northwest of Waegwan.

Navy and Marine carrier-based fighters also pounded hard at the "avenues of reinforcements," knocking out nine locomotives and blowing up an ammunition train.

The carrier-based planes are providing close support for the advancing ground forces in the Inchon beachhead.

Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Smith, commanding the First Marine Division, also took the first steps to restore civil government in Inchon, a city of 250,000. He issued a proclamation placing the government temporarily back in the hands of its former mayor, Pyo Yng Moon, who had been jailed by the Communists. He was released last Friday after the Marines landed.

Two More D. C. Guard Units Off to Camp

They are Headquarters Battery, 260th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group, sent to Camp Edwards, Mass., and the 171st MP Battalion, sent to Camp McCoy, Wis.

In enlistments, meantime yesterday, 13 men signed up for the Army; 13 for the Air Force, and 14 for the Navy. Three of the Navy's total were reenlistments. The Marie Corps reported seven applications.

Army Inducts 117 Here Today

The third and largest contingent of District draftees called up during the Korean war will be inducted into the Army today.

One hundred and seventeen men are to be processed at the induction station, Arlington Farms Va., and then sent to Fort Meade, Md., for training. William E. Leahy, director of District Selective Service, will address the men in a brief ceremony at 3 p. m.

Alexandria's first 15 draftees of the war will be given a sendoff at 8:15 a. m. Thursday with a ceremony at the Federal Building in Alexandria.

Mayor Franklin P. Backus will speak briefly and Councilman Roy C. Bragg will present the inductees with gifts from the Alexandria Optimist Club.

Dr. Roy H. Case, who was present at every induction during World War II, will call the roll. The group will go by bus to the Arlington Farms induction station after the ceremony.

At Arlington Farms yesterday 16 draftees from Arlington, Va., and four from Rockville, Md., were inducted.

On Capitol Hill Representative Carl Vinson (D., Ga.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, confirmed a story in The Washington Post last Sunday that his committee plans to take a look-see into Selective Service charges the rejection among draftees failing the Army's mental qualification test is "abnormally high."

Woman Biologist Named for Stalin Top Science Honor

MOSCOW, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—The Stalin science prize committee today recommended that the first prize honors be awarded to Olga Lepeshinskaya, woman biologist, for her "revolutionary" discovery of the nature of living matter.

Experimenting since 1933, Prof. Lepeshinskaya proved that new life cells originate not only by division of existing cells, but also from any living matter that does not possess cellular structure, the committee said.

Her work explaining the existence of life outside the cell is embodied in an opus called "Evolution of Cells from Living matter and the Role of Living Matter in Organism."

Soviet biologists consider her discovery complete refutation of the generally accepted views of German pathologists and geneticists Rudolf Virchow and August Weissman.

Unit to Tell Troops In Korea How To Avoid Trenchfoot

N. Y. Herald Tribune News Service

A team from the Army Quartermaster Corps will leave for Korea today to demonstrate to the men fighting their winter equipment to avoid trenchfoot, which took such a heavy toll of casualties during World War II.

This equipment, which includes lightweight wool and cotton garments that will be worn in five layers as insulation against the wet-cold Korean winter, was demonstrated yesterday by the departing team at Quartermaster headquarters here.

Three-Way Trade Pact Approved by Czechs

PRAGUE, Sept. 19 (AP).—The government today approved a new trade agreement among Czechoslovakia, The Netherlands and the United States of Indonesia.

The agreement will give Czechoslovakia tin, rubber and copra from Indonesia and industrial products from The Netherlands in exchange for light metal goods, textiles, paper and other items.

25 West Berlin Police Seized in Soviet Zone

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Twenty five uniformed West Berlin police were seized by Soviet zone police today when the subway trains they were riding crossed into the Russian sector of the city.

The Soviet police probably were acting in retaliation for the seizure in West Berlin yesterday of six armed Russian zone police who said they had "strayed" into the American sector by mistake.

Marshall Approved In Senate Committee

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Gen. George C. Marshall was approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday for the post of Secretary of Defense, 9 to 2.

The committee sent his nomination to the floor after the former Army Chief of Staff and Secretary of State answered in public a long series of questions—some of them "loaded."

He spelled out for the Senators his views on the role of military men in foreign affairs and the relationship of the State and Defense Secretaries. Summed up, they call for close cooperation, careful consideration of the possible military consequences of every international action, decision by the Secretary of State in most matters, with the President as the "final arbiter" on vital issues.

Johnson Steps Out

Marshall's confirmation is expected today, and he probably will take over the reins at the Pentagon Thursday. He will succeed Secretary Louis Johnson who quietly stepped out of office yesterday. Undersecretary Stephen Early will serve as Acting Secretary until Marshall qualifies.

Johnson left the Department yesterday without any of the fanfare usually accompanying the departure of a top military chief. He turned down all requests of the Army, Navy and Air Force Secretaries that they be allowed to "put on a proper ceremony."

Marshall was questioned in the lofty Senate Caucus Room for an hour, while kleig lights glowed and flash-bulbs popped. He answered almost all of the queries calmly even those for which Chairman Millard Tydings (D., Md.) apologized in advance.

They were a long list of questions submitted by Senator William Jenner (R., Ind.), who was present but is not a member of the committee, Jenner recently attacked Marshall as a "stooge" and a "front for traitors," and the queries reflected his viewpoint.

Senator is Rebuked

Halfway through, Senator Richard Russell (D., Ga.) asked Jenner why he didn't ask Marshall "when did he stop beating his wife."

Only one of Jenner's questions did Marshall refuse to answer. It was: "Will you assure the American people unequivocally that as Secretary of Defense you will not be dominated by or carry out the policies of Secretary of State Dean Acheson who will not turn his back on Alger Hiss?"

But when Senator Saltonstall asked his concept of the relationship between the Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense, Marshall answered at some length:

The Secretary of State is the "natural leader, up to the President, in matters of international relations." He has the job of reconciling various points of view.

The Secretary of Defense "is deeply concerned" with the effect of negotiations, treaties, etc. on "our defense posture." His job is "to make clear to the Secretary of State what the military situation is."

Where there are disagreements between the two Secretaries on serious matters, the President must be the final arbiter. Today, the National Security Council affords a good means of settling such problems.

The two votes cast against the five-star general's nomination were by Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) and Harry Cain (R., Wash.) Both have objected to the appointment of a professional military man as Defense Chief.

Marshall indicated he agreed with them in principle. He said that as a second lieutenant, he had believed that the Secretary of War should be a general, but that later came to the fixed conclusion that he should never be a soldier".

To one of Jenner's questions—"Why did you join in the suppression of the Wedemeyer report on China?"—Marshall snapped that he hadn't "joined in it, I personally suppressed it." He explained that he had sent Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer to China two years ago as "a last resort" to solve the Chinese problem. In his report, Wedemeyer proposed a U. N. trusteeship for Manchuria and Marshall said this was what he objected to.

He explained that Russia would have vetoed such a plan and publicity about it would only confuse the Greek issue then in the forefront. Also Chiang Kai-shek was dead set against any United States, British or Russian commission concerning Manchuria and would have been 'inflamed" about it.

No Comment on Formosa

During the session, Marshall declined to answer questions about arming Germany, bringing Spain into the North Atlantic Pact, or the strategic value of Formosa.

Some of Jenner's questions Marshall obviously considered insulting, but answered most of them without showing his feelings. Some he replied to laughingly. To a query as to whether he considered himself physically fit for the job, the General replied that he'd just come from a check-up at Walter Reed Hospital and that the doctors felt "the machinery was all right."

His Confirmation Expected Today

George C. Marshall, the new Secretary of Defense, in the hope of reaching an agreement before the Foreign Ministers leave New York.

The British at one time favored setting up a full-fledged federal police to match the Soviet-armed forces in the East. But the French and Americans firmly opposed anything that might look like a disguised army.

They drew a sharp distinction between Germany's internal policing and her external defense, and insisted it would be dangerous to set up a big police force under federal control.

The decision announced today was a compromise that did no violence to the existing state structure in western Germany. The new police will be organized on a land, or state, basis, but the federal government will be able to use all or part of it in emergencies.

The Allies also agreed to make "far-reaching reductions" in existing economic controls over Germany, and to modify their present powers to review German domestic legislation.

Ship Restrictions to Go

All restrictions of the size, speed and number of German cargo ships built for export will be removed at once. And, in view of European rearmament, which is getting under way, the Allies will waive existing limits on German steel production "where this will facilitate the defense effort of the West."

The United States has already proposed using German factories to produce steel, trucks, electronic equipment and other non-combat material for a combined army of the West, although Germany would still be forbidden to make actual war material.

The three ministers reaffirmed their desire to integrate the west German republic into "the community of free nations," and said that "the overwhelming majority of the German people want to take part in building the European community and in strengthening its common civilization."

Their statement paid an especially warm tribute to the people of Berlin for their "continued steadfastness" in "the valiant struggle of the city to preserve its freedom."

It promised that the three allied governments would continue "to oppose aggression in any form" against the people of Berlin, and said allied forces would be strengthened. And it promised to go on with economic help "in view of the heavy price Berlin has had to pay to defend its freedom."

Health Dept. Asks $12,391,340 For D. C. Hospital Budget

and another $713,000 for new facilities there. This year, $2,235,000 was allowed to run the sanatorium, and nothing allotted for capital improvements.

3. The sum of $707,500, an increase of $72,500 over this year's fund, for use of the Health Department to pay local hospitals under contract to treat a share of the District's indigent patients.

In new help, Gallinger hospital asks for 395 employes to augment its present staff of 1250. The majority of those sought are in patient treatment departments.

30 Percent Boost

Pay authorizations needed to finance the hiring of Gallinger's requested new personnel totals $1,067,557, or about 30 percent of the hospital's present annual payroll.

To justify the requests, particularly in nursing personnel, hospital heads said the new numbers sought represent "a realistic recognition between what should be an adequate nursing staff and actual nursing personnel available."

In capital outlay requests, the Gallinger heads ask $600,000 to build a residence there for its doctors and internes; $39,600 to furnish the proposed residence; $205,000 in construction costs and $116,133 in new equipment to double the hospital's operating room facilities.

Flood Correction

Finally, they ask $150,000 for correcting flood water conditions resulting after heavy rains in the roadway pocket between the surgery and medical buildings. The $150,000 needed, they said, was estimated by engineers from other District and Federal departments.

The Gallup Poll

GOP Is Found Gaining Favor Since Outbreak of Korean War

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 19.—The Republican Party has gained strength since the beginning of the Korean war—with a consequent improvement of its chances to win more seats in the congressional elections this fall—but the gains percentage-wise amount to only two points.

As of this date, the Republicans are still far behind their popular vote percentage of the last mid-term election, in 1946, when they got control of the House, and only very slightly ahead of their congressional voting strength in 1948.

The Republicans now poll 51½ percent of the major party vote, to the Democrats 48½ percent, in areas outside the South. In these same areas the Republicans polled 50 percent in 1948.

Since our entry into the Korean war, the Republicans have improved their position by two percentage points. They now poll 51½ percent of the major party vote to the Democrat's 48½ percent in areas outside the South.

Whether the Democratic Party will continue to slip and the GOP to gain, now that the tide has begun to turn in Korea and the President has changed his Cabinet by the appointment of Gen. George C. Marshall as Secretary of Defense, remains to be seen.

Here is the trend up to now in surveys by the American Institute of Public Opinion. Figures are for outside the South only.

"If the elections for Congress were being held TODAY, which party would you like to see win this State—the Republican Party or the Democratic Party?"

	Rep.	Dem.
1946 election	57%	43%
1948 election	50	50
Apr., 1950 survey	49½	50½
June survey (before Korea)	49½	50½
TODAY	51½	48½

A total of 17 percent in the latest survey was "undecided."

It can be seen that the Republican figure today, while far below 1946, is ahead of 1948 when the Democrats took control of the House by a comfortable margin.

Russell Silent at Crime Hearing

Harry Russell, the Chicagoan who reputedly muscled into the lucrative Miami Beach gambling business, finally appeared before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee yesterday but not for long.

Russell was first wanted as a witness at the July hearings in Miami but couldn't be located by subpena servers. He finally was served last week.

Yesterday he turned up, nattily dressed in a double-breasted blue serge suit, at an open hearing in the Senate Office Building. But the hearing bogged down on practically the first question.

Already Under Indictment

Committee Counsel Rudolph Halley asked why he didn't come to Florida when he knew, by his own admission, that he was wanted. At this he replied:

"I refuse to answer because the answer might incriminat me."

Russell already is under indictment in Florida for violating gambling laws as one of the six partners in the S & G syndicate which paid Federal income taxes on an admitted gross business in 1948 of $26,500,000.

After some sparring, Russell was ordered to return Friday morning with a lawyer if he wants one. He said he probably would have one by then.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) told Russell he would personally recommend that the committee hold him in contempt of the Senate for refusing to answer the question. He advised Russell to get a lawyer in a hurry. Russell kept saying that "as an merican I must have some rights."

Earlier in the day Kefauver, in a speech before an American Bar Association meeting, referred to Russell as "a Chicago mobster" whose take in the S & G was nearly $100,000 in 1949.

'Sacrifice' Is Hinted

A Chicago newspaper recently reported that the word in that city's underworld was that the big gambling bosses "reluctantly have decided that they may have to sacrifice Russell to a prison term in order to keep themselves in the clear."

The Kefauver committee already has issued subpenas for many Chicago underworld figures including the Capone gang of which Russell is generally credited with being a member.

At yesterday's hearing, Russell did get far enough to deny that he authorized a Chicago attorney, at the time of the Miami hearing, to telegraph the committee. That telegram said that Russell wouldn't appear because he was afraid of the same fate as that of Charles Binaggio, the Kansas City Democratic boss and gambling figure who was murdered last April. One report was that he "talked" to a grand jury shortly before his death.

Lewis Seeks To Ban Taft From Mines

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

John L. Lewis yesterday planted his considerable bulk—figuratively—into the Ohio raging senatorial battle.

The head of the United Mine Workers gave notice to Ohio's mine owners that union diggers would be incited to striking should any of the operators dare invite Senator Robert A. Taft to visit any of the shafts.

Lewis charged that "Taft's secret political handlers propose to have him enter coal mines to cozen the men underground." Such an action, Lewis warned, "will be bad from the standpoint of coal production."

Taft, Republican leader in the Senate, is campaigning for reelection against Democratic Nominee Joe Ferguson. Organized labor, which has branded Taft the No. 1 enemy of the unions, is working hard to defeat Taft. A few days ago, some 200 CIO United Steelworkers of America walked out a Ohio plant to picket when Taft arrived for a visit.

Lewis' warning yesterday was issued in a letter to R. Livingston Ireland, president of the Ohio Coal Operators Association. The United Mine Workers has 20,000 members in Ohio, including virtually all the mines.

"Taft was born encased in velvet pants, and has lived to rivet an iron collar around the necks of millions of Americans," Lewis wrote, referring to the Taft-Hartley management-labor relations act, which he and other labor leaders call the "Slave Labor Act." Taft, he said, is the "relentless, albeit witless, tool of the oppressors of labor."

Therefore, Lewis insisted, the mine operators better had refuse Taft entry to the mines. Lewis said:

"The underground workings are necessarily confined, and the air therein is easily contaminated. The effluvia of the oppressor is ever disagreeable and could enrage the men to a point of evacuation of the mine. This we would both deplore."

3-Year-Old Girl Mixes Answers, Man Goes Free

Leo Brantley, 27, 909 10th st. ne., was cleared of two sex charges involving a 3-year-old girl yesterday, when District Court Judge F. Dickinson Latts ruled that the girl was incompetent to testify.

In seeking to qualify the girl as a witness, Prosecutor John C. Conliff asked the girl what would happen to her if she told a lie.

"My mamma will spank me," the girl replied.

Defense Attorney Harry Ahearn jumped up and asked the girl what would happen to her if she told the truth.

"My mamma will spank me," she said again.

U. N. Nations to Be Asked to Help Feed Korea After Reds Are Ousted

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Member nations of the United Nations will be asked to help feed Korea after the Communists are ousted, Dr. Dennis A. FitzGerald, agriculture director of the Economic Cooperation Administration, said yesterday.

ECA hopes that the funds it has earmarked for Korea may be devoted to reconstruction and rehabilitation, FitzGerald said.

"Nobody can make a firm estimate yet of what Korea will need," he said. "Korea normally exports about 200,000 tons of rice. The war has reversed that situation. It will now need grain."

Most of the rice Korea produces for export comes from sections now occupied by North Koreans, he added. Harvesting has already started, and may run into October or November. "But the Reds may make off with a good deal of it," Fitzgerald added.

(The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization has already offered its services to the U. N. in raising food supplies for Korea in event of its early liberation.)

Easing the situation for ECA, FitzGerald said, is a marked improvement in farm production in Western Europe, which he called "better than good this year."

Last year agricultural production was about 97 percent of prewar on a gross basis, he said. This year—the 12 months ending next June 30—FitzGerald predicted may run "between 100 and 105 percent of prewar."

Root crops—sugar beets, potatoes, etc.—FitzGerald predicted will be "perhaps 15 percent better—maybe more." Livestock production, always slow to recover, will be "appreciably better." In the 1949-1950 crop year, he said, livestock was about 90 percent of prewar, compared with 82 percent in the year ending June 30, 1948. This year he expects it to go to 95 percent.

However, crop production has not kept pace with population increases in Western Europe, he said, largely due to nine million Displaced Persons. But by 1953, he said, food production may be so speeded up that it will match the population rate.

FitzGerald predicted that American exports of food grains, wheat, rye and rice, to Europe may be slightly lower this year, but that feed grains, corn, oats, etc., will be increased "due to a very short corn crop in Argentina."

A Smiling Vishinsky Says Yes

RED LETTER DAY—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky waves after giving his autograph to 7-year-old Richard Frank of Great Neck, N. U. N. Assembly Rejects Plan To Seat Chinese Communists

U. N. for almost a year demanded consideration at once.

The Indian proposal led to a dramatic clash between Vishinsky and Acheson who were both loudly applauded by delegates and the crowd which jammed the public gallery.

Vishinsky Supports India

The Soviet Foreign Minister led off when he mounted the rostrum to support India's resolution.

He said it was "intolerable" that the 475 million people of China should be represented in the United Nations by the "remnants of a group" whom they had driven out of power, and demanded that the U. N. recognize the "true government of China and look the truth in the face."

Acheson retorted that 43 of the U. N.'s 59 members recognized the Nationalists as the true government of China.

He demanded that the Assembly reject the Indian proposal today and then study the problem more carefully, since action would set a precedent for the future.

The Secretary of State did not discuss the merits of the case one way or another, but confined himself to the procedural aspect.

Vishinsky, full of high good humor, returned to the attack with a quiet speech unlike his usual vituperative harangues.

'You Were Right Then'

He quoted from Acheson's white paper on China which, he said, proved that the United States also thought the "Kuomintang group does not represent the people of China."

"Mr. Acheson," the Soviet delegate declared, "you were right then and wrong today."

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, chief Chinese Nationalist delegate, delivered a slashing attack on the proposal to unseat him. It drew thunderous applause.

"Mine is the only legal government in China," he said, "legally elected by the people—both the executives and the legislature."

Tsiang denounced the "puppet regime in Peiping" for being under Kremlin control and said "it has never departed from the line dictated by Moscow."

In scathing tones he said that only Russian help had put into power what he called the "Chinese Quislings."

"The present session is the political equivalent of the military action which the United Nations forces are carrying out in Korea," said retiring President Romulo.

Afghanistan, Burma, White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, India, Israel, Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, Poland, Sweden, Ukraine, Soviet Union, United Kingdom, Yugoslavia.

Against (33):

Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Greece, Haiti, Honduras, Iceland, Iran, Iraq, Liberia, Luxembourg, Mexico, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, South Africa, United States, Uruguay, Venezuela.

Abstain (10):

Rise and Fight, Russian Radio Exhorts Kurds

LONDON, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Russia's propaganda radio today offered to support Kurdish minorities in Iraq, Turkey and Iran that "rise and fight for freedom."

The Soviet radio at Baku, in a broadcast heard here, appealed to the "broad masses of the Kurdish people" to be ready to "fight for peace and independence."

The broadcast warned Iran's recent conflict with a Kurdish tribe was "only a foretaste of what is to come."

Soviet broadcasts from Baku also have referred recently to the arrival in Tehran of a detachment of United States Marines to guard the American Embassy. The arrival of "armed forces of any power" is a violation of the Soviet-Iranian treaty of 1921, the Baku broadcasts said.

Shah Expected to Sign Irano-Soviet Trade Pact

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 19 (U.P.). The text of a new Irano-Soviet trade agreement calling for barter exchange of 30 million dollars to 45 million dollars worth of goods has been handed to the Shah and probably will be signed within a few days, a government source said today.

The source said the Russians agreed to supply Iran with one-third of her sugar needs and also to buy one-third of Iran's exports. This may block American importers who have been buying large quantities of Iranian gum tragacanth, the source said. Russia would get rice, wool, hides, gum tragacanth, dried fruits and cotton in return for Soviet sugar, cotton goods and industrial equipment.

Tax Measure Nears Its Final Form

bling block to adjournment. Administration leaders are urging Mr. Truman to sign it, even if he does so reluctantly and calls for major revisions in November. But proponents are marshalling votes to override a veto just in case. They will try to hold Congress in session until the President acts.

2. The 17-billion-dollar rearmament bill, conference catch-all for eleventh-hour appropriations. The House will vote separately on the Senate-approved Wherry amendment withholding ECA aid from countries selling strategic items to Russia and her satellites. House Administration forces are out to lick it as a self-defeating restriction on Marshall plan funds.

House and Senate leaders, meanwhile, were scheduled to hold informal talks today on the form of the congressional sign-off—whether by recess or formal adjournment.

House leaders still favored a sine die adjournment but rooters for excess profits tax action before January may try to block that arrangement.

Advocating a recess until November 15, or some other date after the election, they stress a pledge made by House-Senate tax conferees to bring in an excess profits tax bill late this session or early next.

Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills, passed by the House but threatened with filibuster in the Senate, presented still another adjournment pitfall.

Serving notice that he will move to call up both bills, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) cited statements from the State and Defense Departments that the Korean situation and developments in the Pacific have "increased the urgency" for passing both bills.

In another tenth-inning development, Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), one of the seven Senators who voted against the McCarran anti-Red measure, introduced a new Communist control bill removing registration features and some other controversial provisions of the conference-approved measure.

Kefauver said he intends to discuss it when the conference-approved subversive control bill comes before the Senate. He said he wants it before the Senate in case the conference measure is vetoed and the veto sustained, or on the chance the McCarran-Wood bill itself is sent back to conference.

Linked to U. N. Finding

The Tennessee Democrat keyed Red detention features of his bill to a finding by the United Nations that any country was guilty of "unprovoked aggression." Anti-sabotage features, keyed to action by United States armed forces in behalf of U. N., would go into effect immediately.

Besides agreeing to a 10 percent withholding levy on dividends, the House-Senate tax conferees:

Dcided to tax life insurance companies some 140 million dollars for the years 1948, 1949 and 1950. Prior to the settlement, the House wanted to tax them retroactively to 1947, while the Senate dated the tax from 1949.

Agreed to a Senate provision designed to spur war production by permitting corporations to amortize the cost of defense plant facilities in five years, for tax purposes.

Earlier the tax conferees had agreed without difficulty on the two pivotal revenue-producing features of the bill, namely:

A $3,000,000,000 increase in individual income taxes, to near near World War II peaks, starting with an October 1 boost increase in individual withholding rates, from 15 percent to 18 percent.

A $1,500,000,000 increase in corporation taxes, retroactive to half of 1950 earnings, and raising the top corporate rates from 38 percent to 45 percent.

Wiley, Kohler Lead Primary In Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 19 (AP).—U. S. Senator Alexander Wiley appeared sure tonight of the Republican nomination for Senate again.

It was uncertain, however, who his Democratic opponent in the November election would be as return from today's primary were counted from about one-fourth of the State.

With returns in from 1097 of 3179 precincts, Wiley had 63,937 votes to 19,373 for Edward J. Finan, boilermaker and farmer, who is comparatively unknown in Wisconsin politics.

Neither Wiley nor Finan conducted active campaigns for the nomination and no issues were brought up.

In the race for the Democratic nomination, however, four men campaigned actively, all assailing Wiley and what they termed his "isolationist record" in the Senate.

With 1074 precincts reporting, the Democratic race had developed into a two-man affair between William E. Sanderson, a former Progressive and secretary to Republican Rep. Merlin Hull of Wisconsin, and Thomas E. Fairchild, Democratic Attorney General.

The winner probably will not be known until the heavily populated Lakeshore industrial area returns are reported. No early returns were from this area.

Fairchild had 8,918 votes and Sanderson 7,624 in the 1074 precincts.

Sanderson had the support of leaders of the State Federation of Labor (AFL) and some Cooperative groups, while CIO unions generally were backing Fairchild.

Harriman Says Sen. Taft Furthers Reds' Aims

signs of the Kremlin cannot be forgiven on the ground that they were taken unwittingly. The most charitable thing one can say about Taft is that he knows not what he does."

Senator Taft, who was campaigning for a third six-year term in Columbus, brushed aside inquiries about Harriman's speech, saying:

"I don't want to say anything about it. He's just talking."

Wherry Heatedly Replies

Senator Wherry, the Republican floor leader, said Harriman had "taken a leaf from the textbook of Moscow's Pravda," and that it was "an old Russian dodge to charge one's own guilt to others." He added:

"The Administration, of which Mr. Harriman has been a part and parcel all through these tragic years, has paved the way for war in Korea and has led us to the brink of another world war. Mr. Harriman is trying to blame others for the Administration's betrayals, in the hope of escaping the finger of guilt that aroused, indignant American people are pointing at him."

Senator Salstonstall (R., Mass.), said that while he had often disagreed with Taft on foreign policy, he respected the Ohioan's "frank expression and his intellectual honesty." Salstonstall said that Taft certainly was "needed in our system of two-party government."

Senator Wiley (D., Wisc.), predicted that the Ohio voters would "resent" Harriman's speech, and added that it was "unfortunate" for bipartisanship that a presidential assistant in foreign affairs "should mess in domestic politics."

Milliken Calls it Stupid

Senator Milliken (R., Colo.), said Harriman's attack was "amazingly stupid." He added:

"It shows ignorance in our system of government. The people will elect their own choice for congressional office without the advice of Mr. Harriman. If that is the kind of stuff that pours into the President's ear and to which he listens, it is no wonder we are in the terrible situation in which we find ourselves.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.), said Harriman's speech was designed "to please the people to whom he talked"—the AFL delegation, who are out to defeat the co-author of the Taft-Hartley law.

"I assume he was echoing his chief's desire in a speech which was approved by the President," Ferguson said. "This is how they believe bipartisanship in foreign relations should be operated."

Connally Hits GOP Claims

Senator Connally (D., Tex.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said that the GOP claim that Harriman's speech would undermine bipartisanship was "trash."

In Houston, the AFL delegates cheered loudly when Harriman went after Taft. At a later session, they heard a message from the White House in which Mr. Truman urged repeal of the Taft-Hartley law and expressed confidence that all Americans would sacrifice willingly to win he fight against world communism.

Harriman's speech, it was noted here, effectively disposed of a theory that was given wide credence last spring. This was to the effect that Mr. Truman hoped that Taft would win this year, and thus be a likely opponent in the battle for the Presidency in 1952.

Harriman Feels Stalin Sees No 'Profit' in War

W. Averell Harriman revealed something yesterday of his "many talks" with Stalin. He said he did not believe that the Russian leader would start World War III unless he was certain of victory. He said, also, that he doubted if Stalin saw any "profit" in a long and grueling war.

Harriman, Ambassador to Russia during part of World War II and now Special Assistant to the President, told the American Federation of Labor at Houston, Tex., that he was "convinced" that another great war can be prevented if the United States and its allies build up their military strength and work for a better life in the free world.

Then, in a passage that was overshadowed by his attack on Senator Taft (R., Ohio), Harriman said:

"Stalin is a realist. I do not believe he wants to start another world war unless he feels sure of victory.

"I had many talks with Stalin over a period of nearly five years. On several occasions, he referred to the mistakes he considered Hitler had made. Hitler was too impatient, Stalin said. Hitler was gaining his objectives by penetration and intimidation—taking over country after country. Stalin pointed out that dictators in the past had been overthrown when they resorted to war. Their control of their own people was tenuous, and was endangered by the strain of a grueling war. He said Hitler also miscalculated the United States, its will and capacity. On another occasion, Stalin said that United State' industrial capacity would defeat Hitler.

"Stalin knows better than we do the weakness of the Kremlin hold on the Russian people and its still weaker hold on the people of the satellites. That is why purge after purge has been necessary to maintain control. Stalin knows that when the German armies overran the Ukraine, they were at first welcomed by many. It was the brutality of the S.S. troops dealing with the occupation that turned the Ukranians against the Germans.

"The Kremlin is also convinced, I believe, of two things: first, that the free countries will not be able to achieve unity, that there will be clashes of interest among them; second, that capitalist countries cannot maintain economic stability, that with another depression the ensuing economic misery will give communism another opportunity to make large advances.

"In this manner, the Kremlin calculates it can attain its aim of world domination.

"I could not help thinking while Stalin was talking about Hitler that he had in mind his own post-war policies. I doubt if he sees profit to the Soviet Union in a long and grueling world war."

Auto and Other Prices Advance

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP).—Price increases announced today on electrical appliances and automobiles top off a diversified list of products boosted this week.

General Electric posted increases of 6 to 13 percent on five major appliances—refrigerators, home freezers, electric ranges, water heaters, and automatic dishwashers.

Said a spokesman "Our prices are being raised purely and simply to offset the recent increases in wages. . . ."

Kaiser-Frazer raised prices from one-half of one percent to 6 percent on its special and deluxe models because of "substantial increases in the cost of labor, materials and components. . . ."

At the same time, there were predictions in business circles that the price of steel would be raised to offset any increase in wages resulting from official negotiations starting November 1 in the steel industry. Leaders have contended for some time that added costs due to higher wages would have to be passed on in higher prices.

Mohawk Carpet Mills, Inc., yesterday increased prices on two types of carpet cushions by 5 percent. Carpet cushions are mats placed under carpets. "Steadily rising cost of raw materials" was the reason assigned.

Hills Bros., an independent roaster of vacuum-packed coffee, raised prices 3 cents a pound yesterday to 87 cents a pound wholesale. Some in the trade said this may start the seventh round of coffee price increases since June.

On the other hand, Thor Corp. cut the price on its ironer to $79.50 from $99.50 for the duration of a 30-day sales campaign.

West Germans to Fire Reds

BONN, Germany, Sept. 19 (U.P.). The West German government today ordered the dismissal of all federal employes who belong to the Communist Party or to any of 10 Communist-front organizations or two neo-Nazi organizations.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Interior Minister Gustave Heinemann said the order will be applied immediately to some 700,000 federal employes, including railway and postal workers.

"The Soviet government and the SED (East zone Communist Party) in their National Congress called in naked words for revolution in Western Germany," Adenauer said. "We will use all available means to combat this action." He did not elaborate on the inclusion of Nazi-type organizations in the order.

The directive followed a Justice Ministry announcement that West Germany soon will set up a new court empowered to conduct treason trials of persons who work for the Communist East German state. Presumably some of them will be tried in absentia.

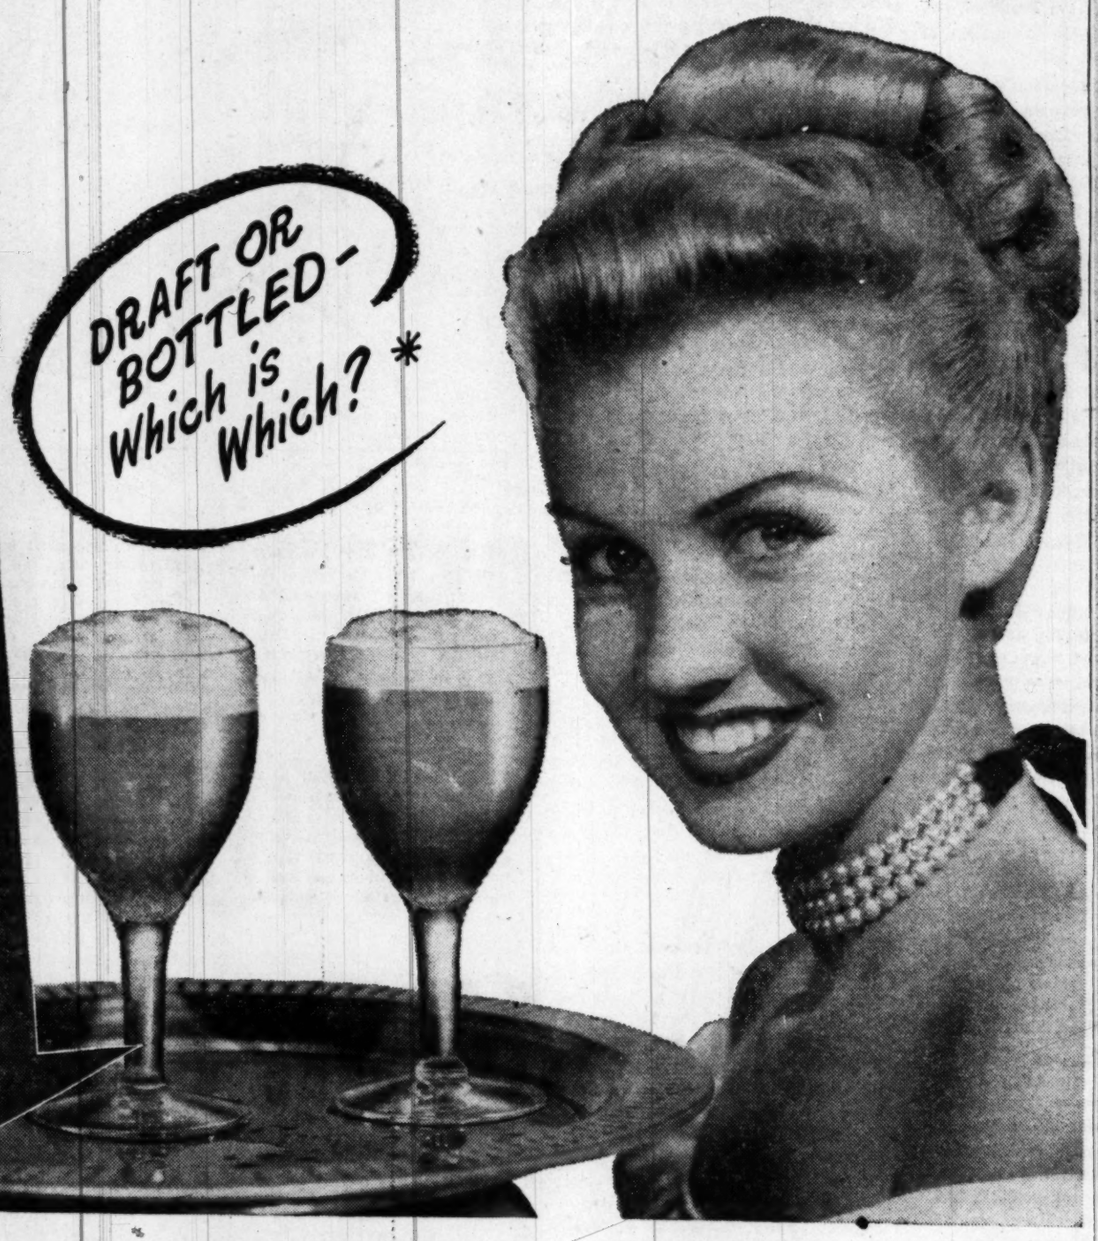
DRAFT BEER FLAVOR
in bottles and cans



OLD GEORGETOWN

Here's Why No Other Beer Tastes as Good

*IT'S ALL THE SAME -ON DRAFT -IN BOTTLES -IN CANS

Even the experts agree: Draft or bottled—it's the same extra-fine beer! Are you skeptical? Try the "Behind-the-Bar Test" yourself. It does two things for you. ONE—it proves that Old Georgetown has captured keg flavor in bottles and cans. TWO—it shows you how to enjoy premium quality beer without paying a premium price.

Now! Drink the beer that puts Keg Flavor "On Tap" at home

Once you compare the refreshing goodness of a glass of golden, foamy Old Georgetown with any other beer, bar none, you'll keep Old Georgetown always available for home enjoyment. Ask for it in your favorite package store today—and when you visit your favorite tavern enjoy Old Georgetown on draft too.

Try it today and you'll agree—no other beer tastes as good. Enjoy Old Georgetown Premium Quality Beer on draft or in bottles and cans . . . it's all the same extra-fine beer.

Bottled Draft Beer Flavor Discovered Here!

Draft Flavor Sealed In!

An exciting innovation in the art of brewing! Old Georgetown's draft beer flavor was created through constant laboratory testing right in our own brewery. The result is precision, split-second control that drops temperature 25 degrees in less than 2 minutes (impossible by any other known method), Pasteurization ceases that instant; "seals in" the true keg flavor of draft beer.

Right Of Counsel

Judge George D. Neilson of the Municipal Court has earned the commendation of the public as well as the bar by his forthright announcement that "it will henceforth be my policy to assign counsel in every case in the United States branch of this court where the more serious offenses are tried." The present practice of Federal judges in asking defendants whether they wish to be represented by an attorney may lead to confusion unless the judge takes extraordinary pains to make the prisoner understand his rights. Ignorant men before the bar of justice may even be suspicious of any assignment of counsel by the court. But if a conscientious lawyer is actually appointed in such cases, he can usually make the defendant understand the value of having legal aid. Certainly, as Judge Neilson points out, a lawyer examining such cases from the viewpoint of the defendant can be of great assistance to the court in making its decision. This high regard for individual rights is especially heartening at a moment when so many forces are working to undermine our liberties and the orderly processes of justice.

Maryland Surprises

The returns from the Maryland primary elections must have been a bit of a shock to the organization Democrats of that State. They must also have been a source of some personal gratification to Mr. William Curran of Baltimore, formerly a boss of some power, who had, however, been maneuvered into a kind of political limbo by his factional rivals.

Some time ago Mr. Curran and a few other native politicos, who were like himself in a state of involuntary desuetude, made a concordat to contest the governorship and various other offices with the dominant faction supporting Governor Lane. They put themselves behind Mr. George P. Mahoney, sometime racing commissioner. Not many politically sophisticated Marylanders expected Mr. Mahoney to win; but as the campaign progressed it became evident that Governor Lane and his supporters were badly worried. Both sides threw decorum to the winds; both decided that the surest way to the hearts of the Maryland electorate was to insult its intelligence as grossly as was possible.

Mr. Mahoney's principal target was the unpopular sales tax. He promised all sorts of reductions in it, and at one time came close to promising virtual abolition of it. At the same time he promised to do as much in the way of building and repairing of schools, hospitals, roads and so on as Mr. Lane has been doing. Mr. Lane was driven to protesting that when he got around to it he would reduce as many taxes with his left hand as Mr. Mahoney could hope to do with both, and yet go on with his vast program of improvements. Finally, the whole business degenerated into a contest of personal abuse with the candidates having at each other like a pair of hair-pulling viragoes.

Well, the returns have proved the efficacy of Mr. Mahoney's technique of attack, silly as it may have seemed to some. He carried Baltimore City and Baltimore County and five other counties besides. At this writing, indeed, he has even a slight plurality of the popular vote. Nevertheless, Mr. Lane will be renominated, because the voting in the State Convention is by electoral units.

The clear inference, therefore, is that Mr. Lane has lost favor with a very large portion of the Democratic voters of the State. How many of those who voted against him on Monday will go to the length of voting for his Republican opponent, Mr. Theodore McKeldin, in the general election next November would be difficult to say. The question becomes even more complicated when it is remembered that the greater part of the electorate did not bother to vote in the primary at all.

A similar reservation must be made in the case of Mr. Millard Tydings, who astonished most observers, and probably himself, by piling up more votes than all the other candidates, whether Republican or Democratic, for his seat in the Senate. Mr. Tydings had been under noisy attack for his conduct of the investigation into the charges of subversion in the State Department; and for this reason his fate in the primary was being watched very closely by the whole country.

Munitions Lag

Hubert E. Howard's resignation as chairman of the Munitions Board cannot be dissociated from the critical report of the board's activities by the Senate Subcommittee on Preparedness of which Senator Lyndon Johnson is chairman. Shortly after the war broke out in Korea this new watchdog committee, which is following in the footsteps of the Truman Committee of the Second World War, became alarmed over the laxity of the Munitions Board in building up the country's natural rubber stockpile. On August 15 the committee wrote to Mr. Howard that the rubber stockpile was inadequate and asked what plans he had to rectify the situation. Three weeks later it had had no reply. The committee found other strong evidence that the Munitions Board has been asleep at the switch, and this congressional finding, of course, went into the hands of the President, and no doubt precipitated the resignation of Mr. Howard.

Now the stockpiling program was undertaken for the specific purpose of avoiding in any future emergency the critical shortages that plagued our war efforts in the early forties. It is shocking in view of this experience that the job has been neglected. But no other conclusion is possible. Before Korea the Munitions Board missed an excellent opportunity to acquire large supplies of natural rubber at prices which last fall were 16 cents a pound. Under the stimulus of the Korean war the price of natural rubber jumped to 55 cents, and then the board appears to have revised downward its inadequate stockpiling plans! This record seems to show neither business prudence nor recognition of national need. In issuing its first report recently the Preparedness Subcommittee sharply criticized this lack of foresight and commented that "we need more imaginative and far-sighted men responsible for the attainment of the stockpiling objectives."

Mr. Howard was asked to appear before the Preparedness Committee yesterday, but the hearing was canceled because of his resignation. Mr. Truman's prompt acceptance of the resignation affords further evidence that he is working with the congressional investigators to correct weaknesses in the defense effort as quickly as they are brought to light. He had previously arrested the disposal of Government rubber-producing plants and his interest in the work of the committee probably stimulated various departments to revise "business as usual" policies under prodding from the committee. Senator Morse highly commended the President for his enlightened attitude toward the fact-finders and said that the President's promptness had set a "magnificent example" for other governmental agencies.

In this there is evidence of strength. The bipartisan subcommittee is turning the spotlight on mistakes that need correction without fanfare or political bias, and the White House is responding with a largeness of spirit. We hope this singleness of devotion to building up our national security will carry over into the selection of a new chairman for the Munitions Board, for the board serves as a sort of joint chiefs of staff for industry. From the Munitions Board, specifically, must come the military requirements program for setting in motion the new National Production Authority.

German Future

The communique by the Big Three on Germany should be read in the light of the agreement in principle on the American plan for the defense of Europe as a whole. Against this background the relaxation of the servitudes on Germany was necessary because Germany is scheduled as a copartner in that ambitious undertaking. The occupying powers pledge themselves to terminate the state of war with Germany according to their different legislative practices, to allow the Bonn government to set up its own minister of foreign affairs, and to post embassies in any capital except Washington, London, and Paris, which, of course, will still retain High Commissioners in Germany.

This was all inevitable. Of main interest was what the occupying powers would do with respect to the Adenauer plea for permission to set up a police establishment. The component states of the Federated Republic in Western Germany will from now on be allowed to have their own constabulary. All told the number will be 30,000, and the forces will be "mobile," meaning, presumably, they will get the equipment required to put down any internal riots fomented by Eastern Germany's "people's police." The ban remains on the creation of a national army. This is as it should be, for the remilitarization of Germany is part of the problem of the remilitarization of Europe, and must be treated as a piece. While this issue is still under discussion, the Germans are invited to study ways and means of participation.

The response in Bonn is bound to be favorable. Chancellor Adenauer and the opposition leader, the Socialist Schumacher, had come to an agreement on the request for police powers for Western Germany. Schumacher was at first hostile to the idea, but then swung around to it, though, as a party gesture, added that the occupying powers ought to include in the aims of the new defense organization the restoration of the old eastern frontiers of Germany. Thus the way is being cleared at a rapid rate for the return of Germany to the community of nations. This liberation, while promoted by the menace from the East, is dictated on commonsense grounds of pacification. If you cannot exterminate your enemy, you must live with him, especially if the object is to give him a copartnership in the common defense and in the restoration of a European order. The hope of mankind will be that the tortured continent will find in the budding coequal status of Germany another impetus to consolidation.

Hard Choice

The internal security bill agreed upon by House and Senate conferees will impose upon the President a most difficult duty. It contains provisions which he specifically asked Congress to adopt and which are needed to protect the country from the danger of espionage and sabotage. It contains drastic provisions for the internment of dangerously disloyal persons in case of war, insurrection or invasion—provisions which the President did not think it necessary to request but which might well seem acceptable to him. And it contains the substance of the Wood bill which, when it was adopted by the House as a separate measure a fortnight ago, the President said he would veto. The Wood bill has not been made any less objectionable by virtue of being packaged with other more reasonable measures.

The difficulty of the President's choice stems only in part from the fact that he must veto the entire internal security act if he wishes to keep the Wood bill from becoming law. The difficulty is compounded by the fact that most of his own supporters on Capitol Hill voted for the omnibus legislation in the final showdown. No doubt it would be embarrassing to him as well as to them if he should publicly dissociate himself from their decision. Moreover, any temperance or rationality in dealing with the Communists is considered politically disastrous today.

Nevertheless, it is precisely in such a situation that a presidential veto serves its most significant constitutional function. The bill passed so overwhelmingly by Congress is panic legislation. It contains features of which this country will be ashamed when sobriety returns. The prestige of the President's office ought to be interposed in an effort to stem the panic—even if the effort now seems a hopeless one and overriding of the veto is considered inescapable. For the sake of the historical record, if for no other reason, the President of the United States ought to register his opposition to an act which flouts the Nation's best traditions. And perhaps it is not too much to hope that leadership of this sort will inspire the palsied members of the Senate who saddled the President with this painful responsibility. Courage, no less than panic, can be contagious.

Europe's Defense

The communique that was issued after the meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the Atlantic powers is more promising than it looks. The American proposal for the defense of Europe is welcomed, but it is far-reaching enough to call for a reference of the grand project to Cabinets and Parliaments. France in particular wants time to think it through. Yet the American policy was developed in response to an urgent French request for the kind of initiative that this country has now supplied. The French wanted us to reinforce the American garrison in Europe; we accept. They wanted us to sponsor a European army; we accept. They want an American to be the head of it; we accept. They wanted to build upon this unity—a common foreign policy, a common economic policy, a common fiscal policy. These should follow as a matter of course when the foundation has been laid for the edifice of the new Europe.

French hesitation over the immediate acceptance of a project which they helped to engineer may cause some misunderstanding. Some may wonder whether the French are equal to the task of making decisions on the basis of their own formulations. It is now up to the French to dispel any such idea. This can be done contemporaneously with the task of coming to a decision on the American plan. France needs to energize her own arms industry and to activate new fighting divisions and to cope with her internal security problem as a contribution to the Europeanization of defense. She can do that with renewed confidence that America has put her own frontier on the Elbe. An indication that no grass will be allowed to grow under the feet of the principal powers is the report that defense ministers Marshall, Shinwell and Moch will shortly confer in New York.

It is difficult to make out whether the United States is committed to the defense of the Elbe in case France doesn't play the partnership role that the United States expects. Our policy has hitherto been conditional. The fear has been that a "Let Uncle do it" attitude would prevail if there were no conditions. But now the feeling here is that time is of the essence. Thus in the United States neither production nor enlistment nor any other preparation for the carrying out of the defense policy in Europe will await decision in France. The hope is that the same determination not to lose another minute will be shown in France.

THE BLIND

The mole that burrows underground
Knows not how blue the sky can be;
The fish that plumbs phosphorent depths,
Sightless, sees not the sea.

Imprisoned in his silken cell,
The worm in chrysalis,
House-proud, forgets that there can be Another world than this.

The far horizons earth has flung,
Oh must they be less fair,
That blind as worm, as fish, as mole
Man passes unaware?

Mission To The Vatican

Judging from his rather copious newspaper comments of September 15, Mr. Holton Small's religion must be "Anti-Catholicism." Regarding "Mission to the Vatican," it is a matter of absolutely no consequence to Catholics, as such, whether or not the United States sends a representative to the Vatican. Catholics, as such, from hierarchy to laity, gain absolutely nothing by such a mission. Moreover, Catholics find in their religion positive spiritual values that are more than fully absorbing and as an antidote to Mr. Small's unhappiness, I would suggest that he "latch onto" some positive values, spiritual and otherwise.

As United States citizens, on the other hand, Catholics want their country to have every possible advantage foreign representation can afford. The Vatican is and has been for centuries an excellent vantage point. Catholics, as United States citizens, do not want to see their country hamstrung by the ignorance, prejudice and smallness of certain individuals.

Your editorial dealing with the Vatican envoy came to me as a great surprise. It was a keen disappointment to 550 Protestant Churches in this area.

I am very proud of the position of the Washington Post on many of the great issues of our day, but I think your position relative to the Vatican envoy goes far afield.

N.T.S. Schedule

If, as the news accounts in your newspaper indicated, the seven white schools found convenient alibis for not scheduling the National Training School football team because colored and white boys were members of the same team, what effect will this have on citizenship training of these youth in school? At a time when Negro athletes are being accepted in almost every phase of national sport to refuse games with the boys at N. T. S. who are trying to make adjustment to life after getting a wrong start seems almost criminal; at least it is antisocial.

As a matter of fact N. T. S. leadership has had to be careful to schedule games with gentlemanly opponents, but often have found their opponents showing characteristics of unsportsmanly conduct and rowdiness that would not be tolerated by N. T. S. Games with outsiders have had splendid influence on these boys who are wards of the Nation.

Of course, some of our colored public high schools, who have always played the teams from N. T. S., will be glad to schedule games with them. The fact that half the squad is composed of white and the other half colored will not make any difference because every year our colored schools are playing more and more teams on which there are white players.

Again we say, shame on such leadership that passes up National Training School teams because they are following true American ideals. Colored athletes have played against our Redskins, "Nats" and local colleges. This year the "Caps" have two colored players. The best player on the Richmond, Va., pro football team is a colored player. Gonzaga has played against colored boys several years. Bigotry in sports is fast becoming out-of-date.

Merging Schools

As a native-born Washingtonian, deprived of one of the essential rights of citizenship, that of franchise, I have long deplored many of the practices in our Nation's Capital which have made a farce and a mockery of our democratic principles. As Americans, we must realize that before we can hope to bring the message of democracy effectively to other people, we must practice it here at home.

Dr. Walter E. Hager of Wilson Teachers' College is to be congratulated and commended for his report to the Board of Education recommending the merger of our two local normal schools. This is a far-reaching step in the right direction. Our teachers who are responsible for molding the character of our youngsters must be given the means and conditions with which to inculcate a respect and understanding of all people.

All responsible citizens, with a sense of fairness and justice, must applaud Dr. Hager's forthright statement and employ whatever effective means are at hand to indicate their approval and support for the merger.

Tax-Exempt Income

I wonder if Mrs. M. Anderson is familiar with the President's expense account. I doubt it, for if she were she would not worry about his tax-exempt salary.

Truman spends $2000 a month for presents to his help in the White House. He must provide meals for 31 servants. That's three meals a day at present prices.

He also must foot the bill for the numerous teas, luncheons, and fetes for personnel and newspapermen. He pays for his family's laundry, cleaning, clothes, books, and magazines. And don't forget that the President is supposed to signify the pomp and glory of our country with his clothes.

Our Chief Executive must set an example in buying war bonds, leading drives, and donating to charities. And he must pay his State and Federal taxes.

Every President has had to dig into his personal funds so that he could adequately meet his financial duties. Throughout the years they have expressed their delight on leaving the White House and its bills. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson exclaimed that she was happy that her husband planned to leave the White House and go into law practice because of the accumulation of unpaid bills.

So, Mrs. Anderson, I wouldn't worry about the President's untaxable salary. Washington and Jefferson received far more than Truman.

"Anticommunism"

The average American, complacently aware that he is neither a Communist nor a sympathizer, sees no reason why a bill directed against Communist activity would affect his life and, like "Realist" (Saturday, September 16), approves of drastic anti-Red legislation. Such an individual, despite attacks on public figures far removed from him, continues to believe he personally is in no danger. Too often he lightly dismisses any defending action taken by public-figure victims, shrugging it off with, "Where there's so much smoke, there must be some fire. They probably are guilty."

What such a person fails to realize is that under the revised McCarran bill, through skillful interpretation of its provisions, the very same thing can happen to him. Listed below are some of the conditions under which he is endangered.

1. If you are an ordinary, conservative citizen active in promoting, for the public interest, any social or political reforms that may step on the toes of the local politicians, all your opponents have to do to stop you cold is publicly and loudly call you and your committee a Communist-front, sticking to their story against all your denials. If you, being innocent, sue, by the time your committee is eventually cleared (technically) and retraction made in small print, the public will be convinced your idea is communistic, killing any chance of success. You are branded as "red" to the public reading the headlines and can even lose your job as "disloyal."

2. If you are a non-conformist who disapproves the way the country is run as not living up to the American ideal of freedom and democracy, and as a free citizen have said so out loud, unashamed, any neighbor who may disagree with your views and possibly dislike you, has only to report you to your boss as a Communist or fellow-traveler, and if your boss is a conservative businessman he may easily consider you a dangerous risk for his prosperity and fire you without recommendation. His fear denies you any real appeal to prove your innocence. You may be able to get another job, provided you change your nature and concept of free speech, trimming down your thoughts and ideas to appear to think no differently from your conservative neighbors, who accept as "perfect" both good and bad in the administration.

3. If you (white or colored) are connected with any group actively engaged in fighting against segregation and are having too much success to suit Jim Crow supporters, all they have to do to brand you as disloyal is accuse you loudly of being communistic. A great many unenlightened people consider being anti-Jim Crow as automatically pro - Communist, since Negro segregation is an old-established American custom.

4. This McCarran bill is an ideal instrument to break up established unions on the ground of their communistic influence. Of course, any attempt to organize a new union might be killed by the Red label before it could get started.

5. If you have ever been brought, however innocently, into association with an organization which might number a few Communists (unknown to you) among its members, or if you have ever attended, if only through curiosity, a Progressive Party or Liberal, Socialist or "pink" meeting or rally, then, under this legislation, on the basis of "guilt by association," any enemy or job-rival can charge you with being a Communist sympathizer and, with the Korean background of fear hysteria, make the charge stick sufficiently to ruin your name, lose your job, possibly your apartment, and generally ruin your life just as much as if you were a public figure.

6. Any person of foreign birth, naturalized or not or of a minority group, is especially liable to these dangers.

Smear Campaigns

By Marquis Childs

American Birthright

ANOTHER in the long series of Communist purges occurred recently, this time in East Germany. It was announced officially that the purge would continue until all traces of "foul liberalism" were rooted out.

It is important to understand what the Communist overlords and high executioners mean by "foul liberalism." They mean, above all, the right of the individual to make a free choice—the choice of an idea, a faith, a job, a place to live. The slightest deviation from the iron slavery of mind and body brings swift and terrible reprisal.

The greatness of this country has been built on freedom of choice. The ancestors of most of us came seeking a free choice. Often this has been abused, and freedom has become license or reckless indifference to the welfare of the Nation. Nevertheless, the ideal of a free choice has been the guiding light that burned bright for all the world to see.

Now there are deeply disturbing signs that some Americans are willing and even eager to barter this birthright. Out of fear, out of a drive for power, out of greed and hate, or for whatever reason, they want to shut the door on the right of choice and, above all, on the free choice of ideas.

SOMETHING of this is in the antisubversives bill that Congress has adopted. It goes beyond the obvious need to tighten the present inadequate laws to prevent espionage and possible sabotage. It undertakes to legislate what Americans may or may not think.

The same attempt to prescribe the free choice of ideas is in the zeal of professional patrioteers. Many organizations are attempting to presume to say who shall and who shall not be heard on the radio and on television.

This has been carried down to the point of attempting to blacklist actors and actresses whose roles have nothing to do with politics. In some instances the blacklisting has been done on the flimsiest evidence or on no evidence at all.

It has been going on for some time. A year and a half ago Fredric March and his wife, Florence Eldridge, sued Counterattack for libel. The suit cost them more than $50,000. They finally got a grudging retraction. Since then many others have been subjected to the same treatment, without warning or without any chance to examine the charges or the evidence that may or may not be back of the charges.

If you deprive an individual of his livelihood, you purge him or her. You liquidate the individual.

When Senator Schoeppel of Kansas read a speech prepared for him by others smearing Secretary of the Interior Chapman, he was using the same technique. The motive, however, appears to have been somewhat different. Because he has faithfully carried out public power policies duly approved by Congress, Chapman has angered powerful interests.

THE SPEECH Schoeppel read was a hash of old and previously repudiated charges cooked over by Frederick Bow, Schoeppel's administrative assistant. Chapman answered back with the vigor and the courage of his profound belief in the rights of the individual.

He had made a choice. The choice was public service, a Government career. He has never attempted to be heroic about it because he was doing what he wanted to do.

Yet the audience in the Senate hearing room that heard him reply could not know of all that his choice has meant in both reward and sacrifice. Although few except his family have known it, Chapman received such serious wounds in World War I that he has never been able to get life insurance. When he said that what he could leave his son was not the security of money but the honor of a name, he was speaking the literal truth.

The Schoeppel smear has reacted strongly against those responsible for it. In the privacy of the committee room the Republicans are jokingly accusing the Democrats of having planted it themselves.

I believe that when the American people understand the meaning of the present attempt to circumscribe and suppress freedom of choice, they will always react against it. They may react in violence and anger against those engineering it and that reaction can in itself be harmful. If the American birthright is bartered away, there will be little left to defend and few who will be zealous to defend it.

Malvina Lindsay is on vacation. Her column will be resumed October 11.

"Well, Really!"

So Hollywood has banned a movie on the life of Hiawatha because his efforts as a peacemaker among the Indians might be interpreted as following the Communist line.

Will someone please write a good warlike Christmas carol so that I can sing this year without appearing to endorse the Stockholm Peace Petition?

How They Took Kimpo: I

WITH THE MARINES ON THE SEOUL FRONT—It is all but impossible to convey the mingled flavors of an actual combat operation—the tension when things go ill, the exhilaration when they go well, the humor and the boredom, the exhaustion and the excitement. But having marched with the Marines from the Inchon landing area to Kimpo airport, this reporter will at least struggle to tell what it was like.

"The problem," as the regimental S-3 (operations officer) explained it, "was to march about 11 miles through enemy territory and seize Kimpo, the main airfield of Seoul, before dusk could fall." The Marine battalion that did the job did not quite solve the problem according to the rules laid down by the S-3, but they solved it all the same.

For our battalion (one develops these possessive feelings rather rapidly in the field), the day began at dawn, with an attack by six enemy tanks and supporting infantry on the battalion's positions on the hills just above Inchon port. The tanks were ambushed in a pass. The Russian T-34s rumbled up the road in file. The 90mm. cannon of the Pershings spoke angrily and efficiently. The Marines in the forward foxholes picked off the North Korean infantry as they leaped from the suddenly flaming, crazily careening T-34s. The first part of the road was decorated with smoking tank hulks and twisted corpses when the long file of infantry began to form in the pass for the forward march.

IN THE EARLY morning sunlight, the rolling country toward Seoul shone green and golden; but the air was still sharply chilly. The men of Easy Company, who were to form the point of the attacking column all the way to Kimpo, stamped their feet to warm themselves. In the squad with which this reporter fell in, they were proudly reminiscing about the battle of No Name Ridge, the Marines' worst in Korea, where this little handful of men had been the first up the hill. "He got to the top," remarked Pfc. Marion De Shong, pointing to Corpl. Paul Navarro, who looked too young to be in the service at all. "There was 42 of us went up and only one came down in one piece."

At this Easy Company's commander, Capt. Samuel Jaskilka, an officer who had made a great name in this fighting, passed the word for the march to begin. The column stepped smartly along the road. There was a sharp rattle of firing in the hills to the right, where a partner battalion was working forward as flank support for the main attack. But the men were more interested in the burning tanks. "If they was C-rations inside, they'd make good hot chow," someone said, raising a laugh.

The first trouble started at the little railroad town of Bupyong, which was to be cleared by the wiry little American-uniformed South Korean marines. The tiled roofs of the town lay below the road, which was under sharp fire. Easy Company worked its way along the dusty roadside ditch until they reached the turn for Kimpo, where they scuttled across the road in groups to help the South Koreans. A hidden group of the enemy with automatic weapons were firing bursts onto the road up a gully filled with vegetable patches. The company mortars laid a couple of shells into the area, and as the North Koreans scattered, the Marines got them with rifles. The first obstruction was out of the way, and Captain Jaskilka led the column down the Kimpo road, meanwhile sending a fire party through the houses along the flank, where brisk fighting was still in progress.

AN ENEMY mortar shell landed in a buckwheat patch by the roadside, setting it on fire, and the road suddenly echoed again with the nasty singing zip-zip of bullets passing. Once more the Marines went into the ditch, while Jaskilka coolly swept the town and nearby bluffs with field glasses, to try to locate the source of the new trouble. Such was the pattern of the passage through Bupyong. The South Koreans and the Marine fire parties ferreted through the houses, occasionally capturing a prisoner who would be sent out onto the road stark naked and shivering. The main body moved when it could, and when pinned down, quickly took the guessed-at enemy positions under fire.

The enemy firing was perfectly unpredictable—one of the worst bursts came when everything seemed to be over, and Captain Jaskilka was conferring about the next stage of the road with the business-like battalion commander, Lieut. Col. Harold Roise. By methods incomprehensible to the untrained observer, Roise and Jaskilka methodically eliminated all the many pockets of an enemy who was never visible except at the closest quarters. It was a tense, slow business, but it worked. Jaskilka only betrayed strain once, when someone repeated an unfounded rumor of heavy casualties in Easy Company's rear platoon.

"Dammit," he said, when the rumor proved unfounded, "don't tell me things again that just aren't true."

Beyond the Bupyong railroad station, the firing died in a final crackle, just at the moment when a local Korean elder rushed out rather irrelevantly to shake the embarrassed Jaskilka's hand. In the suburbs, lines of white-clad people waved newly made South Korean flags and cheered the Marines. We trudged past old signs indicating installations of the prewar American military advisory group, which the Communists had not bothered to take down. Then, stepping out swiftly, we took a narrow country road that passed through paddies just turning golden.

HERE CAME the real turning point of the march on Kimpo. It was already almost noon when the three tanks going forward with Easy Company reached an impossibly rickety bridge over a swampy irrigation canal. The people of the nearby village poured out to see what was happening, and tried to help by covering the blue-violet water hyacinths in the canal bed with a dirt causeway. But the tanks still could not get through. At this point, Chung Yong Duk, an American military group interpreter who had taken refuge in the village, appeared providentially to suggest a better alternative road that did not show on our eccentric maps.

Colonel Roise, impatiently watching operations by the canal bank, made a swift decision. The tanks and transport, with a small body of supporting infantry, would go by the alternative road. The main body of the infantry would continue on the planned route. The lumbering tanks turned off through the sticky rice paddies. The column was reordered by radio. Again Easy Company started onward, marching cheerfully and swiftly into unknown enemy country with no seeming thought of the lost tank support. Now, however, it was too late to reach Kimpo before dusk.

Ban on Making Slot Machines Is Considered

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois said yesterday he was considering an attempt to end the manufacturing of slot machines in Chicago, home of all 10 American firms which make the one-armed bandits.

He said his administration was considering a court move under an old law which forbids manufacture of gambling devices near military installations. He noted that Chicago is now an Army headquarters.

The Governor's remarks came at the close of an address to the criminal law section of the American Bar Association meeting at the Justice Department.

He noted with satisfaction that Congress is about to finish enactment of a bill to ban interstate shipment of slot machines except into States where they are legal under local law. Since the slot machine manufacturers also make legitimate coin machines as well, such as music and soft drink dispensers, the move to bar them in Chicago might result in an end to their manufacture by the present makers at least.

Action Seen Today

The Senate yesterday considered a conference report on the slot machine bill but was unable to reach a vote because of objections from Senator Malone (R., Nev.). He objected because the bill will make it illegal for any of Nevada's 7000 slot machines to be shipped back to Chicago for repair. A Senate vote today and quick House action are in prospect, however.

Stevenson told of his use as "a last resort" of State Police to break up the slots in Illinois where Federal taxes are paid on 2700 machines although they are illegal under State law.

He said the real obstacles to law enforcement are "public indifference and apathy." He added that lawyers might also use the disbarment weapon to "discipline" attorneys who hold local law enforcement posts but don't enforce the laws.

Outline by Kefauver

Chairman Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee told the lawyers something about his committee's work. He declared that a 15 billion dollar illegal gambling business is being run by the same big city gangs which grew up in prohibition days. He mentioned by name the Costello mob in New York, the Capone gang in Chicago and the Purple gang in Detroit.

Both Kefauver and Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, another speaker, made it clear the Federal Government isn't planning to take over the job of local law enforcement. Both thanked the bar group for naming a committee to work with the Kefauver group.

The Senator said that while every man is entitled to counsel when accused of a crime, the committee has discovered that "lawyers have gone much further than providing representation to gambling defendants in some instances. Shocking as it may seem, we have found where lawyers were actually partners in gambling enterprises."

'Hung Jury Fury' Is a Significant Study Of Inner Conflict, Turmoil in Courtroom

The Washington Post

Audience Impressed But Play Is Artistic, Not Box-Office, Smash

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

"HUNG JURY FURY," an American University release. Conceived by United States District Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff, written produced and directed by Dr. Severino Montano, and acted by the University Players:

THE CAST

Federal Judge Wise.....Russell V. Person
Mrs. Beulah Jones.....Mrs. Walta Williams
Mrs. Mary Jane Ashley.....Marion Radley
Lawrence Parks.....Oliver G. Smelzer
James Light.....H. S. Lippincott
Miss Bessie Pringle.....Ingrid Onsager
Phelps Potter Woosley.....DeWitt T. Yates
Josephine Smith.....Mary J. Bailey
William Clarke.....Stacy L. Williams
Doris Harvey.....Velma Van Pelt
Jeremiah Stevens.....Marvin Schiff
Frederick Courtney.....Caspar Selene
Aline McShain.....Suzan Stalling

An important new play opened in Washington yesterday, a socially-significant study of the inner conflicts of that American institution, the juror.

"Hung Jury Fury" tells its story with sledge-hammer subtlety:

The juror leads a dog's life, underpaid, over-worked, ill-housed, uniformed and unappreciated.

The cast was only slightly less distinguished than the audience. This was because the audience was composed of the chief justices of the various State courts in the United States, the section of Judicial Administration of the American Bar Association, and their families, all attending the American Bar Association convention here.

But Decorous

The presentation also marked the debut of Washington's most decorous theater, the United States Court of Appeals Building at 5th and E sts., nw.

The play opens in a Federal Court room, where a breach of promise suit has hopelessly deadlocked 12 men and women jurors.

It seems that the present Mrs. George Sandersen Whitney, 2d, got tired of waiting for her former financée, Lieut. George Sanderson Whitney, 3d, who was serving in the United States Navy with distinction. So she up and married his father George Sandersen Whitney, 2d. So George, 3d, sued his stepmother for breach of promise.

Judge Wise has determined that the jury really is hung. The good judge comes up with a novel solution, which, although succesful in this play may not catch on quickly.

Judge Wise persuades the jurors to sit down in the court room, and review their deliberations openly, and without inhibitions.

Love in Bloom

Miss Pringle immediately reveals her love for the foreman by demanding to sit next to him. This starts a feud with Mrs. Smith, who apparently also has designs on the foreman.

Mrs. Aline McShain, a reverent woman, interrupts proceedings by demanding to be sworn in again. She said she never understood the first oath administered her and she does not want to break her record of never having sworn to something she did not believe.

Mrs. Smith demands that the door be shut and the window open. She says she was alternately freezing and stifling throughout her deliberations.

The drama comes to a climactic close when Mr. Light pleads for a school for jurors, and Judge Wise delivers a stirring bromide on the right of jurors to disagree.

They never could make up their mind who was worse: Mrs. Whitney for ditching young George to marry the old man, or young George for dragging his father through the courts.

'Spoils System' Called Basis For Filling Federal Judiciary have not been Democrats.

"During the last 17 years," he said, "there have been too many occasions when judges have been selected because infinitely more weight was attached to political desirability of appointing them than to anything else. If such men are entitled to ome reward, let them be rewarded some other way."

Political leaders should not have anything to do with the selection of jurists, he said, but he excluded members of the Senate from this category.

"It is true that many excellent appointments have been made. But my thesis is that they should all be excellent," said Gallagher in stating that in some cases the "best available" person was not chosen.

Gallagher also called for higher pay for judges generally and for pension plans, including allowances for judges' widows.

An address by Justice Tom Clark of the Supreme Court urged better administration of these tribunals to promote unity, simplicity, and to improve the integrity and abilities of judges.

Speech Not Delivered

In a speech prepared by Justice Tom Clark of the Supreme Court, but which was handed out to reporters and not delivered, the Justice urged better administration of State tribunals to promote unity, simplicity, and to improve the integrity and abilities of judges.

"The telling symptom of the strain on judicial organization in these jurisdictions is the inability of the courts to dispose of the business before them with reasonable promptness" the jurist wrote.

"Our courts for some time have been under strong and persistent attack, our procedures ridiculed, our motives falsely represented, and our decisions derided. Despite this infamous world-wide campaign we have proudly seen our judges magnificent in their adherence to duty," he continued.

Because of the lateness of the hour, Clark referred in his oral remarks but briefly to his written speech. He said, however, that the text was available for those who wished it.

Yesterday was the busiest day of the ABA's current convention, with dozens of meetings, conferences, receptions and dinners throughout the city.

Ambassador Hume Wrong, of Canada, told the international law section that within a few weeks Canadian ground troops of up to 10,000 would be starting on their way to Korea.

He said that the chief cause for optimism in the world today was 'assumption by the United States of leadership in world affairs commensurate with its powers and responsibilities."

Encroachment Decried

Before the insurance section, three speakers decried further Government encroachment in the insurance field. They were Lewis H. Pink, Neville Pilling and Albert V. Whitehall.

Merle H. Miller, in a tax fraud discussion, made this comment:

"If all those guilty of filing false and fraudulent (Federal tax) returns were to be prosecuted, our judicial processes would break down. At least there would be little time for other cases in Federal courts for some time to come."

The board of governors reported that it had revised the application for membership in the ABA to include the question, "Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist Party?"

Taft-Hartley Law Defended By Denham

Robert N. Denham, who resigned Monday as general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, at the request of President Truman, defended the Taft-Hartley management-labor relations act yesterday and his administration of the law.

He told a labor law section of the American Bar Association, meeting at the Commerce Department auditorium, that the Taft-Hartley Act is "basically the best piece of regulatory legislation ever put on the books." He said that the law had faults, but that these could be remedied. He did not say how.

Denham made no comment on his ouster, which resulted from a long feud between the general counsel and the five-man board of the NLRB. Lone reference to the ouster incident was the introduction of Denham as a "distinguished and extinguished" guest of honor.

Against charges by organized labor that he had abused the injunction power given him under the Taft-Hartley law, the former general counsel said that he had used the injunction relatively few times in three years of prosecuting unfair labor practices.

He was "burned up" most, Denham said, by employers who pleaded for the issuance of complaints and then withdrew the charges, once an agreement was reached with the union involved, before the charges could be tried. Some of these disputes should be carried through to the end, Denham said, "in order to build up a labor relations picture which is sound."

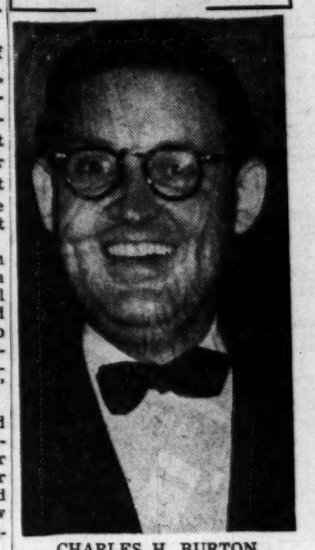
Queen Juliana Urges Anti-Red Front Speed

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Sept. 19 (U.P.)—Queen Juliana today called for "greater speed" among the western nations, including Germany, in cementing a firm bulwark against communism.

In her speech from the throne at the opening of the Dutch Parliament, the Queen said, "the government deems it of great importance that Germany, as soon as possible, will be included in the closer cooperation of Europe."

National Chairman

District Man Chosen by Junior Bar



CHARLES H. BURTON
. . . Junior Bar group official

Charles H. Burton, 34-year-old Washington attorney, was elected National Chairman of the Junior Bar Conference of the American Bar Association yesterday.

Burton, who resides with his wife and two daughters at 1508 Seminary rd., Silver Spring, Md., will head the conference of 7000 younger lawyers.

He is a graduate of George Washington and American Universities and was admitted to the bar here in 1936. During World War II, he was a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve.

Elected vice chairman was Paul W. Lashley of St. Louis. The new secretary is Richard Bowerman of New Haven.

New council members are George E. Cotter of New York City; Charles W. Joiner of Ann Arbor, Mich.; William F. Womble of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Harold H. Clifford of Oklahoma City.

Ruml Says Excess Profit Tax Demand Is 'Hysterical' Sign

Beardsley Ruml yesterday called the current demand for an excess profits tax "a hysterical manifestation of schizophrenic masochism."

In effect, the economist who fathered the present pay-as-you-go income tax plan is against the excess profits idea. He said a fair tax has never been devised to tap such profits.

Ruml was talking at an American Bar Association luncheon at the Hotel Statler. His tax remarks came at the end of a more learned discussion of "Corporate Management as A Locus of Power."

He suggested that corporations ought to have "director-trustees" to represent customers, vendors and employes but that such directors should be named from the regular management and not by the groups themselves. He rejected the idea of "public directors."

He said he suggested the idea because someday someone may "crusade" for political action to represent the interests of customers, employes and vendors in corporations. He indicated such "director-trustees" would bring corporate management up to date and insulate it against political attack.

Why some men are label conscious

All men buy cars by the brand name. That is the way they purchase cigars and cigarettes. Strangely enough, only the clothes-wise few select clothes with a specific label.

The name is just as important on clothes as it is on cars, television sets — or anything else. So when a man asks for a "Lebow" Suit, he has learned that the label gives him fine material, meticulous tailoring and the latest in smartness and style. More than that, he is sure of value for his money.

Lebow Fall & Winter Suits $75 to $95
Freeman Suits & Topcoats $60 to $75

Flannels in Cambridge grey; oxford greys; sharkskins, tick weaves; clear-faced worsteds; cheviots, tweeds and shetlands.

Marconi Gave Radio Official His Start

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

Commander Charles P. Edwards got his start in life when Marconi's batteries ran out of juice.

A 16-year-year-old boy down from Wales and looking for the road up in the world, Charles recharged them. Knowing a likely lad when he saw one, Marconi hired him and Charles Edwards has been on that road ever since.

A down-to-earth man of 64 with twinkling blue eyes, Commander Edwards was in Washington yesterday and here he'll be for four weeks or so as chairman of the North American Broadcasting Conference. He's also deputy minister for air of Canada's department of transport.

The conference is a gathering of seven North American countries with a Solomon's task. It tries to assign 108 regular-band frequencies among 3000 stations so as to cut international static and other air interference to a minimum.

The Washington Post
COMDR. CHARLES EDWARDS
. . . "Things are never dull"

The commander's eyes sharpen and he tells you why this is such an undertaking.

"When you try to handle something ethereal, then you have a job on your hands. Every country in the world owns every station there is," he remarked.

Commander Edwards' experience spans the virtual birth of the industry, under his boss Marconi, to the age of television and the Lord knows what beyond.

From Wales young Charles had come down to Chester in England to enter technical school. The century had recently turned a corner and a man named Marconi was doing strange things.

Chester Got Word

"Word came to Chester," related the commander, "that Mr. Marconi was going to make a demonstration there for the war office. He wanted to sell them some portable wireless sets.

"Well, into Chester came two of Mr. Marconi's engineers and set up their apparatus. They went about it then discovered their batteries were not charged."

So someone told Mr. Marconi's men that there was a young fellow over at the technical school who could take care of those batteries and right proper. That he did, too.

Passed two years and young Charles pulled stakes looking for fairer and bigger game than Chester afforded.

"I packed my grip and went down to London."

And went right up to see: who but Mr. Marconi?

"You're the young man who charged the battteries!" said Mr. Marconi.

That he was, and young Charles was in. He became a junior engineer with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co.

When Marconi set sights on the new world young Charles went along to Montreal and the Canadian Marconi Co. In time he went with the Canadian Government as superintendent of radio, worked his way up to deputy minister of transport.

This career was interrupted by a tour that earned him his commander's title: in the Canadian Navy in World War I.

Invaluable Experience

The commander's experience, needless to say, is invaluable in the conference, where representatives of Cuba; Mexico, the British West Indies, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Canada and the U. S. sit down to make things more useful for everyone on those 108 frequencies.

But the commander's eyes sparkle mischievously as he says:

"After looking at the radio scene for the past 45 years, I can look 45 years ahead and see . . . Yes, it should be interesting. In radio things are never dull."

Contractor Sues; His Foot Is In Too Many Jobs

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP).—A masonry contractor has complained that some of his customers got a baker's dozen after he bought a tape measure at a five-and-ten-cent store.

Michael O'Malley declared he gave some customers more for their money, but they didn't like it any more than he did.

In a Federal court suit he seeks $20,000 from the F. W. Woolworth Co. and the Waterbury Lock and Specialty Co., Milford, Conn.

He said Woolworth's sold him and the Waterbury firm made a rule which he thought was 25 feet long but which turned out to be 26 feet.

The extra foot was caused by having two figure 12's on the tape, O'Malley declared, but he didn't notice it until he built some buildings a foot too big.

Six garages and a house didn't measure up to expectations because of the faulty tape, he said.

Maryland University Extends Medical Care to Arab Desert

The University of Maryland Medical School has extended its services, unofficially, to the unexplored tip of Saudi Arabia.

There, in the desert, an unpretentious dispensary — it's really a mud hut — was set up and operated by a university graduate.

The doctor, whose desert career has been as strange as any "Arabian Nights" tale, is Dr. James R. McNinch, jr., Maryland, '45. Besides his adventures in a strange land, he also came under the spy-mad scrutiny of Soviet officials.

Dr. McNinch's desert adventures began with his selection last January as medical officer for the American Foundation Arabian Expedition, which was part of The American Foundation for the Study of Man. The purpose of the expedition into Southern Arabia was to unearth the buried city of Timna, once the center of the world's spice trade.

On February 26 the group arrived at its destination in the Wade Beihan. While members of the expedition started excavating for the lost city, Dr. McNinch set up the far outpost of the University Hospital.

The hospital was a mud palace belonging to Huessain, ruler of the Wade Beihan. He treated from 50 to 60 patients each day. The conditions were poor and Dr. McNinch was forced to improvise. He gave orders through an interpreter, worked in temperatures up to 120 degrees. His hospital had only the limited supplies that had accompanied the expedition, and all the operating was done under field conditions.

He had almost all the cases in his medical textbooks. One involved a young native boy whose hand was badly chewed up by a camel some months before. The doctor amputated the boy's arm without complications despite the unsanitary conditions.

To reach the Wade Beihan, in which the lost city of Timna is located, the expedition passed through an uncharted area between the Aden Protectorate and Yemen.

JAMES R. McNINCH, JR.
. . . Set up desert hospital

Dr. McNinch had his first contact with the Southern Arabians when a bullet sailed a few inches above his head. He didn't know then that Arab tribesmen fire over the heads of strangers as a sign of welcome.

Dr. McNinch found the secret to popularity was to emulate the people with whom he lived. Accordingly, he grew a beard, lived and ate with the Arabs—and carried a gun to return the greetings of the Arabs.

The expedition drew discussion on the floor of the United Nations, where it was opposed by Russia and Yemen as an "invasion." Pravda said the purpose of the expedition was to locate uranium and oil.

The first scientific expedition of any kind to penetrate this area of the Western Aden Protectorate, it was sponsored by such familiar names as Lowell Thomas; Admiral Chester B. Nimitz, Sam Pryor of Pan American Airways, which supplied the planes; the Chrysler Motor Co., which supplied the trucks; General Foods Co., which supplied the food; Shell Oil Co.; Squibb & Co., which supplied all the medical supplies, and the University Hospital, which supplied McNinch.

Jose Ferrer Talks Highly of 'Cyrano'

By Richard L. Coe

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE: Jose Ferrer, at the Statler with his dancer-wife Phyllis, talks about his film version of "Cyrano de Bergerac," for which all reports have it he'll cop an Oscar . . . "We don't fool ourselves that the French are going to feel we've done right by Rostand, but using the Brian Hooker translation, we feel certain American audiences will be delighted. Carl Foreman, who did the screen adaptation, has struck very closely to the play though he's had to shift some speeches for the sake of setting and to compose a few lines as bridges . . . It will take a pretty thorough scholar to tell just where we're using the foreman additions" . . . Joe, Porto Rico's first citizen and a Princeton man, was alternately fearsome and confident about making his "Cyrano de Bergerac and the World Today" lecture at Woodrow Wilson High . . . "I did it recently at a very rough school in Philadelphia and when the kids started throwing footballs up and down the aisles, I just stopped and told 'em I didn't want to talk to 'em anymore than they wanted to listen. They quieted down" . . . Frank to admit that "Joan of Arc" was a pretty bum picture, Ferrer's aware that his playing of the Dauphin set him up big moviewise . . . At the moment ANTA wants him to star in the first production of Gotham's ANTA Playhouse and it's possible this may be T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral" . . . The "Cyrano" run will take over New York's Bijou, where "The Red Shoes" is now in its hundredth week . . . When it will arrive in Washington is anyone's guess, but one thing is certain: Ferrer's nose is not the nose you'll find him wearing in "Cyrano."

SEVERINO MONTANO, the American University drama chief, has had a unique assignment for the American Bar Association, now spilling over in convention style about town . . . He wrote and staged an original one-act play, of living newspaper style for a performance in the Court of Appeals . . . to gather his material, Montano made the rounds of municipal and Federal courts in the area . . . Judge Alexander Holtzoff, President Paul F. Douglas of A. U. and Leland Tolman of the Supreme Court staff were members of the research.

CELESTE HOLM got — or should have by now—a wire addressed: "Bobby-Celeste," which was the name her mother's friends knew her by in Chicago childhood . . . The sender was a fellow-actress, wishing her luck for "Affairs of State" at the Gayety, Violet Heming, whom Washington knows as the wife of Justice Bennett Champ Clark . . . The Clarks are getting settled in Que st. after a Gloucester summer and are up to Vi's pretty ears greeting legal friends here for the bar convention.

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND'S in Gotham getting set for her Juliet, in which Dwight Deere Wiman will present the screen star under the direction of smart, young Peter Glenville . . . It's quite a risk for the two-time Oscar winner, her first Broadway role, but working under Glenville's direction comes as a break . . . This associate of Terence Rattigan and John Gielgud was brought up in the British theater and his mother, Dorothy Ward, is probably the best-loved of the "principal boy" players in the Christmas pantomimes . . . This "Romeo and Juliet" is booked in both Baltimore and Pittsburgh, but Washington is not on the nine-week tour, which leads into New York in March.

BESS DAVIS SCHREINER is undoubtedly the busiest theater lady in town. . . . The Theater Guild manager and her staff are working night and day, double shift, to take care of over 8000 Theater Guild subscriptions that have poured into her Raleigh Hotel office. . . . The two-year subscription hiatus boils down to doing in two or three months what took 15 years to build up . . . Those who've, by some quirt, not received their subscription leaflets, Miss S. begs to write her office and those who've already sent in their checks she as humbly begs to be patient . . . Since the Gayety is smaller than the National, it means all the former seating charts will have to be revised completely . . . The first play hasn't been announced yet, but it's not likely to arrive before November 1 . . . "The Consul" is likely to open the Baltimore guild series . . . This week Ford's has "Oklahoma"

DAN DURYEA, you wouldn't think would have trouble finding a hotel room; you'd expect the tough guy just to give the desk clerk the eye and move right in . . . But the bar association convention has lapped up all the downtown space which is why, should you see Dan up at the Shoreham, you'd be so right . . . He's in town with Gale Storm to launch their "Underworld Story" at Keith's.

Ceilings on Realty, Rents Reported Urged by Woods

By The Associated Press

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods was reported by associates yesterday to be advocating changing the present rent control law to permit his office to:

1. Impose rent controls wherever and whenever it fels they are needed.

2. Apply rent ceilings to commercial property—stores and office buildings—which have never before been subject to ceilings.

3. Set ceiling prices on sales of real estate, including old as well as new houses. Putting price ceilings on new—but not old—rental construction was authorized for a six-month period in 1946. But the authorization was repealed.

Associates of the rent control chief said he has given the Budget Bureau the recommendation for authorizing imposition of rent controls on residential property, free from the present "local option" to decontrol.

His other proposals, they said, have been made before regional officers of the agency.

A Barnyard Joke From France Is Stretched Out Into a Bore

THE PIX has had its face lifted and picks up the torch for another season with a French import.

This object is called "A French Scandal," stemming from what was, I assume, rather a diverting account of village life, Gabriel Chevallier's "The Scandals of Clochemerle." As a movie, it gets lost in a welter of circumstances and winds up as a tastetless, tedious bore.

The story, which has earthly qualities that may please the Pix regulars, is defeated not by its eyebrow-raising central incident, but by its inept handling. This incident concerns the reactions of the more prissy elements of the village when a public comfort station is erected in too conspicuous a location.

Such an incident, while unthinkable with us since we have no comparable institutions, might have been amusing had it been projected with something neater than barnyard humor. The scene of the station's eloquent dedication by the town's leading citizen is certainly one of the most unbelievable episodes I've ever seen on a public screen, and while it didn't shock me in the least, I merely got bored with it as a long, long joke.

Dragged into the melee, aroused by the village spinsters, are the forces of law and religion, another aspect banged away at with tiresome reiteration.

The lines, from what I could catch, are even livelier than the English subtitles, and there's an attempt to introduce the film with sound-track in English, a device that might help other French comedies for American audiences but which is scarcely worthwhile in this one.

The cast works as hard and avidly as a crew of ambitious laugh-getters in their eighteenth year of "Tobacco Road." Apart from the natural endowments of Simone Michels as a loose lady of the village, little remains to be said. An earthy joke can last only so long without becoming offensive. R. L. C.

Low Bid Listed For Improvement On National Pike

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19 (AP). The Dutcher Construction Corp. of Queenstown was low bidder today on a major improvement project on U. S. Route 240, the Washington National Pike.

The project calls for grading, draining and surfacing of a divided lane highway along a relocation of Route 240 about half a mile south of the Frederick-Montgomery county line 1.576 miles northeast to the fire tower road.

The project also calls for one semi-cloverleaf with connecting roads, a service road, and several incidental roads.

The Dutcher firm entered a low bid of $924,511.50

The State Roads Commission also opened bids today for the grading, draining and surfacing of a 1.64-mile section of U. S. Route 4, the Marlboro Pike.

Low bidder was Eugene Chaney of Upper Marlboro, with $128,655.80.

265 Attend Capital Bank Women's Fete

By S. Oliver Goodman

More than 265 bank women and their guests attended the annual fete last night of the Women's Committee of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, in the Willard Hotel.

Miss Anne Elizabeth Briggs of National Metropolitan Bank received first prize for highest grades in the prestandard course. Graduation certificates were awarded to six women as follows:

Prestandard—Miss Briggs; Miss Elizabeth P. Doyle, City Bank; Mrs. Jane W. Love, Riggs National Bank, and Miss Doris P. West, Union Trust Co.; Standard—Mrs. Jean Reif, American Security & Trust Co., and Mrs. Ingrid Vincent, American Security & Trust.

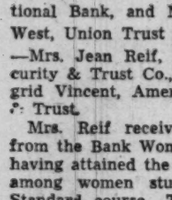
Mrs. Reif received an award from the Bank Women's Club for having attained the highest grade among women students in the Standard course. The prize was presented by Mrs. George M. Rowzee, jr., club president.

The certificates were handed out by Samuel C. Redman, president of the chapter. Miss Frances E. Powell, chairman of the Women's Committee, presided at last night's session.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint. Hulbert T. Bisselle, president of the D. C. Bankers Association, and Ralph Endicott, dean of the Institute's faculty here, spoke briefly. Plans for the chapter study classes, which start September 25 in the new A.I.B. quarters at 1760 N st. nw., were outlined.

TV CODE: A proposed code of ethics for advertising and sale of television sets has been drawn up by a committee of the Radio-Television Manufacturers Association. The code, to be submitted later to the board of directors, is designed to reduce misunderstandings and complaints over set sales. The committee is the newly organized Sales Managers Committee headed by Clifford J. Hunt of the Stromberg-Carlson Co.

WHO'S NEWS: Dr. R. H. Lueck has been appointed general manager of research for the American Can. Co. . . . J. Edwin Richards has been placed in charge of the newly opened Washington office of Walker & Crenshaw, Inc., specialists in sales promotion and public relations, at 1025 Connecticut ave. . . . John D. Moore has been named sales manager of the Charles E. Hires Co. plants division . . . The Securities and Exchange Commission announced the promotion of Howard L. Kellogg to assistant chief accountant . . . Carl H. Ellingson, president of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association, is attending the Boston convention of the Financial Public Relations Association this week.



Dr. Lueck

SALES RECORDS: Washington Gas Light Co. yesterday reported new sales records for August and the first eight months this year. Last month's sales totaled 7,987,503 therms, a gain of 13.5 over the same period last year. Eight-month aggregate was 128,648,098 therms, up 21.6 percent.

HEADS HOLC: Francis R. Kelly of Newark, N. J., has been appointed general manager of the Home Owners Loan Corp. He succeeds J. S. Baughman who is now president of the Federal National Mortgage Association in Washington. Kelly became associated with the HOLC on its creation in 1933. He was assistant general counsel previously. The HOLC, which invested nearly 3½ billion dollars in more than a million emergency loans to distressed home owners during the depression years, is now more than 98 percent liquidated. On July 31, it held 63,009 mortgage loans, totaling $70,-301,000.

CONFERENCE: Washington utilities officials will attend the annual fall conference of the Maryland Utilities Association Friday and Saturday at Virginia Beach. More than 340 advance reservations have been received. Among the scheduled speakers is Robert Low, assistant to the publisher of Life magazine, whose topic will be "Behind the Scenes of World Conflict."

ODD LOTS: August sales of independent retailers topped July by 7 percent and were 20 percent above August, 1949, the Census Bureau reported. . . . Graham-Paige Motors Corp. stockholders have voted to eliminate "Motors" from the corporate name to reflect change to investment company. . . . Fire losses in August were estimated at $49,878,000, off 5.9 per cent from the July total of $52,980,000. . . . Rail operating revenues in August jumped 18.3 percent above the same period last year, the Association of American Railroads reported . . . Chesapeake & Ohio Railway announced it will purchase 1000 coal hopper cars to cost $5,200,000 and a new car ferry to cost $4,500,000.

MORTGAGES: Washington property owners had $229,258,000 of their mortgage financing extended to them by life insurance firms at the start of 1950, the Institute of Life Insurance reported. These real estate loans covered 9010 individual mortgages. Of the total, $37,101,000 was on 1590 FHA-insured homes; $9,059,000 on 1080 VA-guaranteed mortgages; $183,108,000 on 6340 other properties. The latter included both urban housing and commercial properties.

Victory Democrats Sweep Montgomery

Every one of the Democratic Victory Committee candidates swept easily to victory in Monday's primaries in Montgomery County.

All of the winners, however, face Reepublican opposition in the November 7 general election.

In the wake of the primaries, G. LaMar Kelly, chairman of the Democratic Victory Committee for Montgomery County, decried reports that the Committee was dominated by Col. E. Brooke Lee. He labeled such reports a "distortion" and said the committee was a "committee of Montgomery County."

County Council

Unofficial but nearly complete returns showed these results for nominations to those county council seats for which there were party contests:

First Council District—Jerry T. Williams of Damascus, with 8640 votes, triumphed over Malcolm H. White of Sunshine, who polled 4181 votes.

Fourth Council District—Mrs. Stella B. Werner of Chevy Chase, with 9622 votes, won over Basil L. Carr of Bethesda, who had 2339. Mrs. Werner also had the backing of the Charter Committee and the Free Democrats.

For two at-large seats—The Democrats nominated Preston C. King, jr., of Potomac, with 8606 votes, and Joseph M. Mathias of Kensington, with 8262 votes.

Losing out were John C. Post of Takoma Park, with 3280 votes, and William Brent Young of Chevy Chase, with 3661 votes.

King and Mathias will face Republican opponents Mrs. Kathryn J. Lawlor of Chevy Chase, who polled 4095 votes, and J. Louis Monarch of Silver Spring, who polled 4022 votes in their party's primary. Republican primary loser was Wesley M. Morris of Unity, who got 1592 votes.

State Senate

The Democrats' choice as nominee to the State Senate was Joseph B. Simpson, jr. of Takoma Park, who polled 9199 votes against 5050 for Robert W. Beall of Bethesda. Simpson faces Republican DeWitt S. Hyde of Bethesda, who was unopposed for his party's nomination, in November.

House of Delegates

The Democrats who will be up for November election to six House seats are Einar B. Christensen, Silver Spring, who got 9416 votes; James C. Christopher, Bethesda, who got 8896; Frank L. Hewitt, jr., Silver Spring, 9043; Edward S. Northrop, Chevy Chase, 9554; Mrs. Margaret C. Schweinhaut, Chevy Chase, 9021; and Jerome H. Simonds, Silver Spring, 7187.

Losing out in the Democratic primary were R. Edwin Brown, Beallsville, with 4875 votes; Donald A. DeLashmutt, Rockville, 4898; R. Shirley Hays, Barnesville, 3725; and Charles D. Sanger, jr., Silver Spring, 4307.

The winning Democrats will face these Republicans on the basis of the unofficial and incomplete primary totals:

J. Douglas Bradshaw, Takoma Park, 4379 votes; Julian P. King, Germantown, 4306 votes; Anders R. Lofstrand, jr., Rockville, 4296 votes; J. Paull Marshall, Chevy Chase, 4361 votes; Mrs. Leona M. Rush, Chevy Chase, 4187 votes; and Robert A. Wallace, Silver Spring, 3879 votes.

Republican primary losers were Donald H. Dalton, Silver Spring, with 1313 votes; Louise L Dixon, Bethesda, 1296, and Frank R. Long, Chevy Chase View, 1542.

State's Attorney

The Democrats nominated Alger Y. Barbee, Forest Glen, with 9175 votes, as their candidate for State's Attorney, over John M. McInerney, Bethesda, who got 4262 votes.

Barbee will face Walter W. Dawson, Rockville, the incumbent, who polled 3952 votes in the Republican primary to 1337 for Walter H. Moorman of Bethesda.

Register of Wills

Frank I. Davis, Rockville, now sheriff of the county, won his battle for Democratic nomination as register of wills in the primary, polling 9286 votes to 2841 for Thomas E. Plummer, of Gaithersburg.

Davis will face Walter C. Clarke, the Republican incumbent, who had no primary opposition.

Orphans' Court

Democratic nominees and their unofficial votes are Coleman L. Diamond, Bethesda, with 8936 votes; Eugene E. Ruppert, Silver Spring, with 8191 votes; and Mrs. Genevieve H. Wells, Brookville, with 8458 votes.

Losers in the Democratic judgeship primary were James H. Benner, Bethesda, with 3984 votes; Walter G. M. Fields, Takoma Park, with 3970 votes; and George W. Moriarty, Bethesda, with 3870.

The winning Democrats will face Republican incumbents William Tyler Page, jr., Chevy Chase; Charles H. Squire, Chevy Chase and Millward C. Taft, Silver Spring, all of whom were unopposed in the Republican primary.

Sheriff

Charles H. Jamison, Poolesville, won the Democratic nomination for sheriff, with 7680 votes. He beat out Donald W. Dunnington, Chevy Chase, who got 3216 votes; Millard F. Peake, sr., of Bethesda, who got 975 votes; and Leslie E. Sanders, of Bethesda, who got 1826 votes.

He faces Charles S. Lawrenson, Silver Spring, who was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

42 Horses Die in Fire

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Forty-two blueblooded show horses perished today in a fire that destroyed the big Sunset stables near suburban River Grove, police reported. Mrs. Jean Thompson, owner of the establishment, said she "boarded" 45 prize hackneys, jumpers and saddle horses in the barns, and police said only three bolted to safety.

Both Parties Square Off for Big Battle in Prince Georges

Now that the party primaries are over, Prince Georges County Democrats and Republicans can square away at each other for a real "go" in the November elections for four different classifications of county offices.

All organizatoin candidates—Democratic and Republican— triumphed, with the exception of Republican James B. Carrice, in the GOP county commissioner primary.

In the forefront are the races for five posts on the Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners and six seats in the Maryland House of Delegates.

Here is how the commissioner race will stack up, on the basis of still incomplete and unofficial returns from 46 of 47 county precincts:

Winners on the Democratic slate were John H. Beall, retired insurance executive, of 3501 Perry st., Mount Rainier, who polled 8955 votes; James B. Bland, 61, county treasurer, of Suitland, who polled 8837 votes; Alfred H. Smith, 45, a bank president, of Melwood, who polled 8738 votes; D. Leonard Dyer, 45, of Accokeek, who polled 8636, and Harry W. McNamee, currently president of the commissioners, a bank director, of Berwyn, who polled 8524 votes.

Democratic Losers

Losing out in the Democratic primary were Vinton D. Cockey, 66, of Laurel, who polled 4797 votes; Frederick M. Coxen, 46, of Hyattsvile, 3291 votes, and William A. Neumann, 49, of Suitland, 3986.

Republican winners, who will face the Democratic winners in November, are Daniel A. Abbott, 67, a real estate operator of Camp Springs, who polled 2574 votes; Thomas E. Latimer, 41, of Glenn Dale, 2787 votes; W. Everett Marton, 43, an accountant of Laurel, 2570; H. Wilson Spicknall, 70, a Hyattsville city councilman, 2540, and Edward J. Waters, former Berwyn Heights commissioner, 2123 votes.

James B. Carrico of Riverdale, lost out in the Republican Party primary with 1465 votes.

House of Delegates

Winners in the Democratic primary for six House of Delegates seats, with 46 of 47 precincts reporting unofficial returns, are:

Perry O. Wilkinson, an insurance man who is chairman of the present delegation, with 9391; votes; LeRoy Pumphrey, Riverdale, majority House leader during the last session, 9313 votes; Nicholas Orem, jr., 39, College Park, a Washington lawyer, 9086; Ernest N. Cory, jr., 36, of Laurel, 8986; T. Raymond Bureh, 56, real estate developer of College Park, 8209; and George G. McLeish, 53, Bladensburg town attorney, 8187 votes.

Losing out in the Democratic primary were Mrs. Georgia K. Benjamin, who polled 6006 votes, and Roland L. Nichols, 6136 votes.

Orphan's Court

In the Orphans Court race the three Democratic incumbents won over one opponent in the primary with these tallies, on the basis of incomplete and unofficial returns:

Lansdale G. Clagett of Marlboro, 9601 votes; William T. McPherson, Brandywine, 9553 votes, and Vincent A. Osterman, Bladensburg, 9130 votes. Charles F. Luebner of University Park lost with 3528 votes.

Three Republicans, unopposed in the primary this week, will face the incumbents in the November elections. They are Clifton L. Clevenger, Laurel; Mrs. Laura Lee Courtney, Capitol Heights, and Paul D. Johnson, Mount Rainier.

Sheriff

In the Sheriff's race, T. Ward Martin, the incumbent, of North Keys, won out easily with 7638 votes against Maxwell H. Black, 47, of Morningside, who opposed him. Martin will be faced by Carlton G. Beall, Republican, of Seat Pleasant in the general election.

State Central Committee

Winners for the Republican State Central Committee in the county and their votes, on the basis of incomplete and unofficial returns, were Carlton G. Beall, 2459; John R. Fletcher, 2416; Marvin S. Gallimore, 1903; William J. Griffith, 2335; Thomas E. Latimer, 2494; W. Everett Marton, 2316 and Philip J. Wilkes, 2266.

Losing out was Mrs. Eva C. Chase, with 1638 votes.

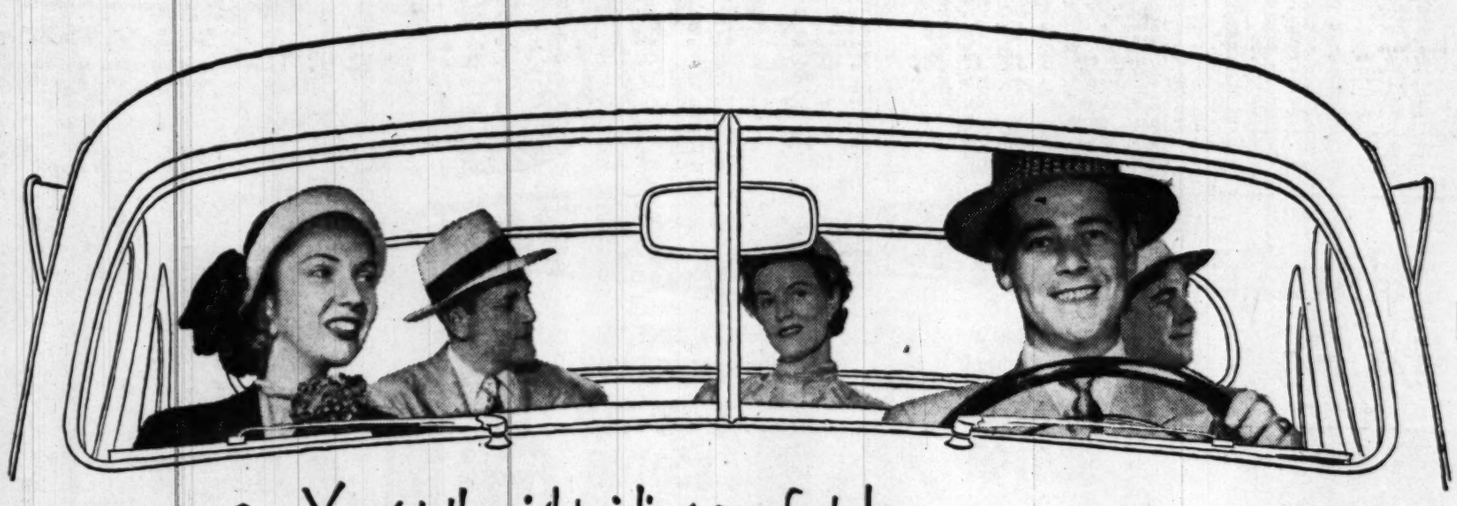
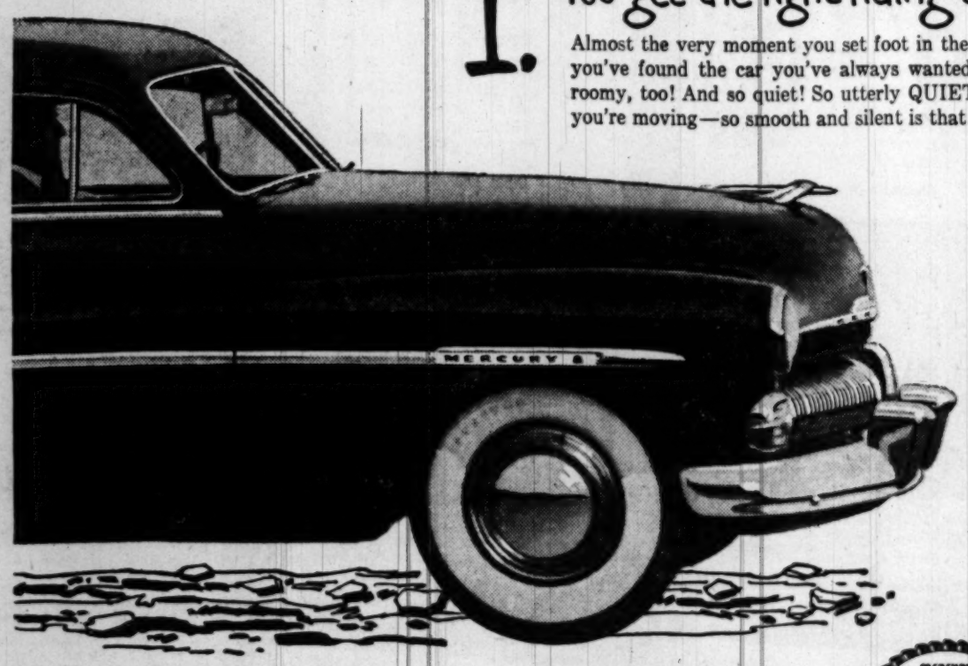
Go for a ride—and you'll agree

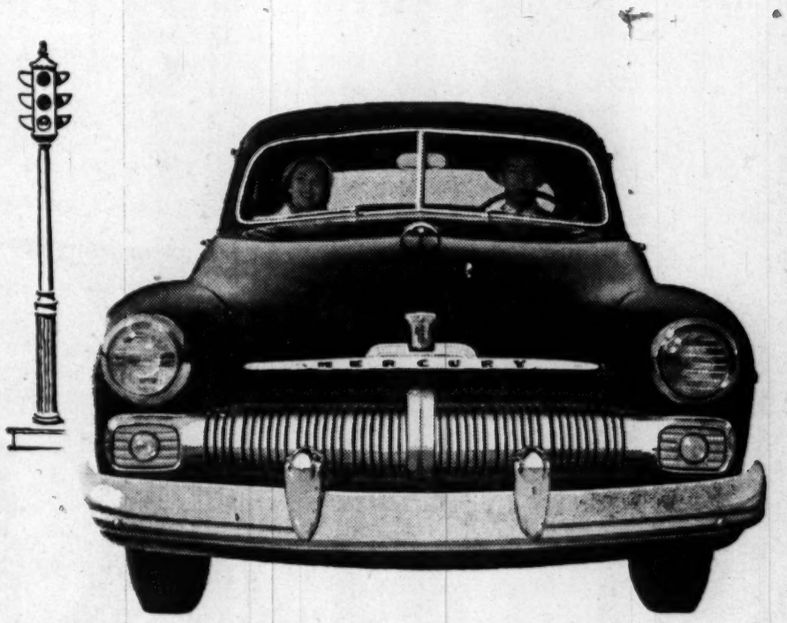
"Better Balance" makes MERCURY just right for you!



1. You get the right riding comfort!

Almost the very moment you set foot in the Mercury you know you've found the car you've always wanted! Big! Roomy! Leg roomy, too! And so quiet! So utterly QUIET! You hardly know you're moving—so smooth and silent is that Mercury ride!





2. You get the right roadability!

Try it on a curve . . . a rough road . . . a tight spot in downtown traffic. This big Mercury handles them all—and with ease. "Stedi-Line" steering . . . "Cushion-Coil" springing . . . a super-rigid chassis make owners call it the smoothest riding car they ever drove!

MERCURY OFFICIALLY CERTIFIED "AMERICA'S NO. 1 ECONOMY CAR" IN 1950 MOBILGAS GRAND CANYON ECONOMY RUN

3. You get the right power!

You've got "get-up-and-go" to spare in Mercury! Its big, V-type, 8-cylinder, made-only-for-Mercury engine is right for the car—and the car is right for the engine! Mercury is "America's No. 1 Economy Car"! Drive it yourself—and see why!

Maryland Governor Has Electoral Edge

spite a 2-to-1 margin given her by Baltimore City. Returns from 1017 of 1429 State polling places gave Miss Brown 19,595 votes and Gunter, 34,481. Miss Brown was sure of 60 convention votes. Gunter was sure of 63 convention votes and was leading by inconclusive margins in counties having another 18 convention votes.

Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), 60, seeking his fifth term, swept the State in his primary race. Baltimore City gave him 55,002 to 19,388 for Hugh J. Monaghan 2d, 31, Baltimore lawyer, and 18,636 for former Representative John A. Meyer, 51, (D., Md.), of Baltimore.

Returns from 769 of 922 polling places in 23 counties boosted Senator Tydings' total for the State to 150,930, against 38,739 for Monaghan and 34,932 for Meyer.

Opposes Unit Rule

Governor Lane, one of the most persistent spokesmen for changing Maryland's curious unit rule, apparently had it alone to thank for a chance to run for a second term.

Lane lost five of the six District units in Baltimore City. This was interpreted in some quarters as a severe political blow to Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, who campaigned for Lane.

D'Alesandro would not look at it that way. He cited primary results for State offices that he said went his way in sufficient strength to offset the tenor of the Lane vote.

Representative George H. Fallon (D., Md.), who allied himself with Mahoney—and won renomination in the Fourth District—is reported to have plans for opposing D'Alesandro next year in the race for mayor of Baltimore. He would not comment on this reported plan.

Fallon's opponent, Mrs. Sara A. Whitehurst, headed the Women's Division for Lane.

Returns from the Lane-Mahoney fight were tailor-made for Republican delight.

Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, 49, Republican candidate for governor, was quick to admit this.

"I think the situation is ideal for us," he said. "Never before in Maryland have we seen the Governor on the Democratic ticket repudiated by his own party before the general election gets underway."

McKeldin, who was mayor of Baltimore for a four-year term ending in 1947, is making his third gubernatorial try. He lost to Lane in 1946 by about 46,000 votes. This margin was piled up by Lane mainly in Baltimore, and the two men ran almost evenly in the counties. Eleven counties went to Lane and 12 to McKeldin.

Here was the apparent wind-up in the Maryland Congressional races:

First District: State Senator Thomas F. Johnson, 41, of Snow Hill won the Democratic nomination from Herman Y. Broomhall, 54, Chestertown businessman. He will meet Rep. Edward T. Miller (R., Md.), 55, of Easton, in the general election.

Second District: Incumbent Representative William P. Bolton, 65, of Tawson, had a decisive margin over his rivals, William Boucher, 3d, 31, chairman of the Maryland Americans for Democratic Action; and John B. Kennedy, 51, Baltimore contractor. He faces Brig. Gen. P. S. Devereux, USMC retired, 47, hero of Wake Island, in the November election.

Third District: Representative Edward A. Garmatz (D., Md.) won out over Mrs. Lillian L. Klecka, 49, widow of U. S. Marshal August Klecka. He will face Louis R. Milio, 25, Baltimore attorney, in the general elections.

Fourth District: Representative George H. Fallon (D., Md.) was renominated over Mrs. Sara A. Whitehurst, Maryland's Democratic National committeewoman and former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. He faces James W. Miller in the election.

Fifth District: Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D.), incumbent, unopposed in the party primary, will face Thomas S. Carr, Annapolis, unopposed in the Republican primary.

Sixth District: Maj.-Gen. Russell P. Hartle, 61, USA retired, of Hagerstown, won easily over W. Prescott Allen, 45, Bethesda-Chevy Chase Tribune publisher. He faces Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) 56, of Frostburg, who seeks his fifth term.

Below is a tabulation of the principal State contests in the Maryland primary (total number of precincts indicated before county name in each case, precincts tallies, after):

Kronheim Refuses to Send Two Drunks to D. C. Clinic

Municipal Court Judge Milton S. Kronheim, jr. yesterday refused to send two convicted drunks to the District Alcoholic Clinic, after they had been recommended for treatment.

Court officials said it was the first time since the clinic was established that such a recommendation had not been followed.

The defendants were Andrew M. Hall, 56, 104 Massachusetts ave. ne., and Reginald Wright, 46, 2412 17th st. nw.

Hall has a record of 75 jail sentences, probation officials revealed, including three arrests this year for drunkenness.

Wright had been convicted 20 times since 1927, including five times for drunkenness this year, but was a voluntary patient in the old Alcoholic Clinic in 1947.

Judge Kronheim sentenced Hall to serve 30 days in jail and pay a $100 fine or serve 60 days more in jail. He sentenced Wright to 30 days.

"The court wants to cooperate and usually does," Judge Kronheim announced. "But here the record of these two men causes the court to be unable to accept the recommendations of the clinic."

USW Meeting Called; Wage Boost Discussed

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 19 (AP).—Top strategists of the CIO United Steelworkers meet here Thursday and Friday for sessions that may bring a demand to boost wages of nearly a million unionists.

President Philip Murray of both the CIO and Steelworkers called the USW's executive board into session amid widespread speculation that a wage increase demand is in the works.

Murray has left no doubt that he considers steel industry profits "fabulous."

Chisox Cut Yanks Down, 4-3, Slash Lead to ½ Game

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19.—Until somebody comes along with a fancier name for it, this could be called Ellis Kinder week in the furious American League pennant race: And if you're asking who might be this Mr. E. K., he's the former cab driver and card-holding member of the Sheet Metal Workers Union who is now throwing baseballs for the Red Sox.

When he cooled off the Detroit Tigers in the ninth inning yesterday with none out and the tying run on base, Kinder was being called on by the Red Sox for the fifth consecutive day for a relief pitching job. A grateful Steve O'Neill, his manager, calls him old rubber arm.

Povich

One of O'Neill's lieutenants had just phoned from the bench to the Red Sox bullpen to inquire which of the Boston pitchers was warmed up best.

"Kinder's ready," came the answer. The guy who answered the phone was Kinder, who hadn't warmed up at all.

Kinder is now 37, kicked around in the minors for more than a decade before the Browns brought him up and sold him to the Red Sox three years ago. He was a big winner last year, a flop this season, until O'Neill found a new role for him.

A MONTH AGO, O'Neill decided to write Kinder off as a starting pitcher and try him in relief. It was a move born of desperation. The Red starter who could finish a game was a rarity. On any day, you could identify the Red Sox pitching only by calling the roll. Everybody was getting into the act like Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane.

If the Red Sox do wind up with the pennant, their success can be traced to the day when O'Neill made a relief man of Kinder. Without him they wouldn't be in the race at this point, only a half game out of the lead. He's now the biggest figure on a team which regards its hitters as being in a batting slump if they aren't carrying a .320 figure.

With Kinder on call and eager, O'Neill now thinks the Red Sox can make it. "He shames those pitchers who insist on four days rest," Stout Steve was saying. "He'll work in both games of tomorrow's doubleheader if we need him. It's wonderful to have a pitcher who can get the ball over the plate and get some people out. He can warm up in sixty seconds."

BACK IN THE RECESSES of his thinking, O'Neill now views the four remaining games with the Yankees before the season ends as the contests that will decide the fate of his ball team. "The club that wins three of those four will take the pennant, I think," he said. "That puts it strictly up to us. Nobody is going to beat the Yankees for us except ourselves."

Two of those four games are in Fenway Park, two in Yankee Stadium. It's the pair in New York that O'Neill is mostly concerned about. He doesn't attempt to minimize Boston's advantages in its own park where the Red Sox have their swings geared to that convenient left field wall.

The Red Sox have been playing pennant-winning ball under O'Neill, and show a .712 winning percentage, while the Yanks are leading the league with .629. The rug is, of course, that O'Neill didn't take over until June, at which time the Sox were 9½ games off the pace. To get as close as they are, the Red Sox had to overcome their own weak pitching as well as the opposition.

THEIR BIG GUY FROM here in could be Ted Williams. The Red Sox think they will win if Williams' invalid elbow continues to grow stronger. Right now, he's still wincing, unable to take his good cut. In the two games at Detroit, his only hit was an infield bounder that Newhouser mishandled.

Johnny Pesky, the .313 hitter who was benched to make way for Williams' return to the lineup, isn't at all miffed by that move of O'Neill.

"Sure, we need Ted in there," Pesky was saying today. Don't be fooled because he didn't bang the ball in Detroit. Those were two dark, cold days and they didn't do his elbow any good. Down in St. Louis where the weather is hot, Ted was swinging with his old power. That home run he hit cleared everything."

Pesky, with a proper appreciation for the caliber of the Red Sox pitching, declared, "This club has to win by knocking the ball against the fences or out of the park. When we were losing, we were still getting a lot of hits, but not the right kind that break up ball games. We need Williams' homers, not my peck-and-hunt system of hitting."

Bosox Face Early Wynn, Lemon Today

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19.—The Red Sox's pennant charge, the most dashing episode out of Boston since Paul Revere's ride, was stalled without damage today by rain in Cleveland but a new hurdle faces 'em—a doubleheader with the Indians tomorrow.

The Red Sox will be playing in the park where they have won only four of their last twenty games, and whatever apprehension Manager Steve O'Neill may have could be well-founded.

He's going to try to get past the Indians in the double bill with Joe Dobson, his veteran right hander, and Chuck Stobbs, 21-year-old southpaw, both of whom have found it a task to go the route this season.

The Indians, smarting from their own sudden collapse in the race, dating from four straight defeats in Boston, are now cast in the role of spoilers. Manager Lou Boudreau is pulling no punches with his pitching.

He'll start his two top men, twenty-game winner Bob Lemon, and Early Wynn, who has lately emerged as the Indians' best pitched: Lemon will have a special incentive against the Red Sox. He has been rebuffed in his last five attempts to add win No. 21 and it was Lemon who blew a 12-1 lead in the game Boston won, 15-4.

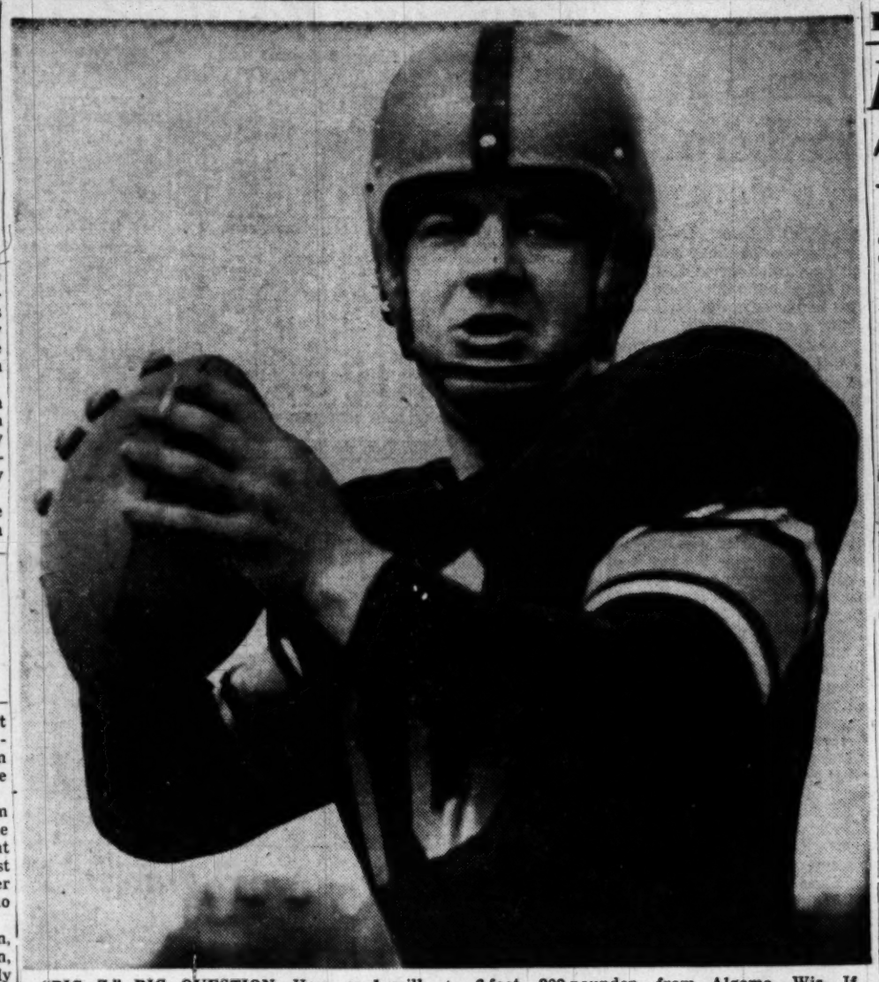
Boudreau will be fighting, too, for his managerial life in the short series with the Red Sox. His two-year contract expires at the end of the season, and only a smart showing by the Indians from here in can save him his job.

The Red Sox, quite expansive over their two crucial victories in Detroit, were declaring today "we got past the Tigers when we were not hitting. In Cleveland, we ought to break loose again."

They welcomed the additional day's rest for young Stobbs and for Ted Williams who had played four straight games with his convelescent elbow.

Games of the Day

Today's games of the day in the exciting American League pennant race to be covered by Shirley Povich: Boston at Cleveland, doubleheader.



"BIG Z," BIG QUESTION—How good will Bob (Big Z) Zastrow be this season as Navy's quarterback and passer? Zastrow showed great promise in his first season last fall. He is a 6-foot, 209-pounder, from Algoma, Wis. If "Big Z" comes through as a junior, Navy may be one of the pleasant surprises of the 1950 season. They open Sept. 30 against Maryland

Griffs Find Tough Browns Easy, 5 to 3

Special Dispatch to The Post

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—The St Louis Browns may have been stumbling blocks for the American League pennant contenders for the past 10 days, but they were just another ball club to Washington tonight as a 15-hit attack was good for a 5-3 Nat victory in the opener of a two-game series.

Joe Haynes, wilting in some of the hottest weather of the St. Louis season, posted his seventh victory and his third against the Browns but he needed help from Southpaw Mickey Harris in the closing innings.

Mickey Vernon provided the big punch in the early frames as they moved out in front in the first inning on a single by Eddie Yost, an infield out and Vernon's single only to have Ken Wood, tie the score with his thirteenth home run.

In the third singles by Gil Coan and Irv Noren put runners on first and second and then Vernon delivered again, this time with a rousing double to right center, Coan scoring. Noren scored on Stewart's liner to Wood in deep right

The Senators then ran the count to 5-1 in the eighth inning on a single by Dente, Hal Keller's infield out and Yost's hit.

Virginia's Papit, Weir, Lesane Hurt

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Sept. 19.—Co-Captain Bob Weir definitely is out of Virginia's opener with George Washington Saturday and Co-Captain Johnny Papit and Quarterback Jimmy Lesane are on the injured list.

Papit, one of the top ground-gainers in the country for the past two seasons, twisted an ankle today in scrimmage.

Weir's left knee, injured in a scrimmage last week with Duke, is still in a cast. Lesane has an injured left hand, the one he does his throwing with.

Alexandria Holds Luncheon Today

The Alexandria Chamber of Commerce is holding a press-radio luncheon today at the George Mason Hotel, 12:15 p. m., to discuss plans for the George Washington U.-V. M. I. game in the Alexandria Stadium, September 29.

Pick-The-Winners

G. W., Virginia Clash In One of Big Games

In the 1948 football season George Washington went down to Charlottesville and defeated Virginia for the first time, 20-12.

Last year Virginia took G. W. in hand again, 27-13.

Next Saturday afternoon G. W. and Virginia will meet in Charlottesville in the opening game of the 1950 season for both teams. It's the smart fan that has this game figured out, for it may be the one that determines the winner in The Washington Post's Pick-the-Winner Football Contest.

This is the game on which each contestant will give the "Probable Score."

Each week the winner of the contest will receive two tickets as well as first-class round-trip transportation for two persons to a major collegiate game. This week's winner will receive tickets to the Notre Dame-North Carolina game in South Bend, Ind., September 30.

Contest Rules

THE CONTEST each week will include 20 major college games. The contestant will select the winner (or tie) in each of these games. There will also be a twenty-first game for which the contestant must give the "Probable Score," to be considered by the contest judges only in case two or more persons tie on the first 20 games.

All entries must be in the hands of the Football Contest Editor not later than 9 p. m. Friday of each week. Entries should be left at the Service Counter in the lobby of The Washington Post Bldg., 1337 E St. N. W.

The person submitting the most accurate entry each week shall be declared the winner. In case of ties, all persons sharing in the tie will receive duplicate awards.

The decisions of the judges will be final.

Entries submitted must be legible, with the selections listed in the order they are announced in The Washington Post.

Entries may be handwritten or typewritten. However, carbon copies and mimeographed copies or copies made by any other duplicating machine will NOT be accepted. You may submit as many entries as you wish.

No employe of The Washington Post or member of his immediate family is eligible to participate in this contest.

No person will be eligible to win the weekly contest twice.

Police and Firemen Renew Baseball Rivalry Tonight

Baseball teams of the Police and Fire Departments come to grips tonight at Griffith Stadium, 8:30 o'clock, with some 25,000 fans expected to watch the revival of their annual competition after an 18-year elapse.

Opposing pitchers, among the best sandlot twirlers in this section, will be Paul (Dutch) Schaefer for the Firemen, and Don Purdy, for the Police. Schaefer handcuffed the Police with three hits recently in a 9-3 victory in the city series. Purdy stopped the Heurich Brewers in an upset, 6-5, in the same series.

Don Kokes, former St. John's twirler, with the Firemen, and Charlie Mahon, formerly of the Boston Braves, with the Police, also may see action.

A batting duel is in prospect between Tommy Sullivan, former Tech High star, who led the Police to the Anacostia No. 1 League crown with a .544 average, and Bobby Lamon of Eastern High and American University, who sparked the Firemen with a .409 clip to the East Recerational League crown.

Nine men, former big leaguers or minor leagues, will be in action. Five are with the Police, four with the Fire Department.

The Police Band will open festivities with a 7:30 concert. The raising of the flag will take place at 8:15 with Col. Hector Aring, game chairman; Superintendent of Police Robert J. Barrett, Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew and Nat Prey Clark Griffith participating.

All proceeds from the game will go to the Police and Fire Department activities funds in the greater Metropolitan Washington area.

Raschi's Services Lost

Fox Triples Home Two Runs In 7th

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP).—Nelson Fox's two-run triple in the seventh inning sliced New York's American League lead to two percentage points or a half game tonight as Chicago's Bob Cain stopped the Yanks, 4-3, before 24,025 roaring fans.

The Yankees' loss, permitting both idle Boston and victorious Detroit to gain a half game in the frenzied race, was doubly expensive because it cost them the services of Vic Raschi, their 20-game winning pitching ace.

Raschi, sailing along behind a 3-2 lead, suddenly left the game at the start of the last half of the seventh inning. It was announced that his arm "didn't feel right."

It was not known immediately if he would miss a turn.

* * * * * * *

Tom Ferrick, who took up the burden, failed. A single by Chico Carrasquel to left field with one out was followed by Gus Niarhos' booming double to left. Ferrick made Cain ground out but Fox, a .239 hitter, poled a long triple to right center between Joe DiMaggio and Hank Bauer. Before it could be retrieved, both runs were in. That was the ball game.

Joe DiMaggio's 31st homer in the fourth inning and Yogi Berra's 24th in the sixth with Phil Rizzuto on base gave the Yanks all their runs. But it wasn't enough to stand up after Raschi left.

Chicago got to Vic for one in the third on Cain's infield single and Floyd Baker's second straight double to left. A home run drive by Eddie Robinson, his 20th, into the right field seats, cut the Yankee margin in the sixth.

Cain, the slender rookie southpaw who is making a career of beating the Yankees, did it for the fourth time on four hits.

Tigers Break Loose; Keller Clouts Two

DETROIT, Sept. 19 (AP).—King Kong Charlie Keller and Pat Mullin, a pair of Detroit Tiger "retreads," went on a hitting spree today as the Bengals blasted the Philadelphia Athletics, 12-4, to move back into a tie with Boston for second place in the American League race.

The victory put the Tigers only a half game behind New York who lost to Chicago, 4-3.

Keller, who had been used as a pinch-hitter up to today, made his debut in the Tiger starting lineup a memorable one as he slammed out four hits, including his first two home runs of the 1950 campaign, and batted in five runs.

Mullin, the Tigers' No. 2 pinch-hitter, had started only a couple games, but he too made it a big day with a double and his second home run of the year with two RBI's.

The two 30-year-old-plus veterans cavorted like a couple of rookies in the field as both came up with some brilliant defensive work. Keller raced back against the left field screen to haul down Pinch-Hitter Sam Chapman's drive in the third and Mullin turned in a sparkling running catch of Pete Suder's line drive in the sixth.

It was a happy day for Red Rolfe who saw his lineup changes pay off in a big way. Outfielders Hoot Evers and Vic Wertz and First Baseman Don Kolloway were benched, with Mullin and Keller going to the outfield and Dick Kryhoski taking over at first.

Art Houtteman gave up two home runs to the Athletics, Elmer Valo tagging him for No. 10 and Pete Suder getting No. 6. It was Houtteman's nineteenth victory.

Canadian Sets Record

20-Year-Old Rod and Reel Account for 977-Pound Tuna

By Ralph Murdock

The International Tuna Tournament, an annual classic for big game fishermen, is under way at Wedgeport, Nova Scotia. The contest was only a few days old when the records began to tumble.

Murdock

Cmdr. D. W. Hodgson of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve captured what might be a world record when he hauled in a 977-pound tuna. It has to be approved by the International Game Fish Association.

Oddly enough, the big fish was taken by a rowboat fisherman. Hodgson's guide was Percy McRitchie who manipulated the small craft while the battle lasted.

The commander, was using a 20-year-old fishing rod and an 18-year-old reel with 39 thread line when he latched onto the big monster. It took an hour and 23 minutes to subdue the nine-foot, nine-inch, whopper.

Incidentally, the same guide, MacRitchie, was present when the Commander's father-in-law, J. K. L. Ross (Canadian Sportsman) caught the first rod and reel tuna from the Nova Scotia waters on August 31, 1911.

Locally, excellent catches of rock and blues were recorded over the weekend. Good fishing prevailed on both sides of the bay. The better catches of blues were made on the eastern shore of the bay while the stripers showed up in good quantties on the western side.

Monday, in Maryland, was election day, and many of the Free Staters ended up by fishing in the afternoon.

Capt. Jim Martines, of Mayo, Md., located 55 rockfish and 10 blues for his party while his brother, Roy, another top guide, docked with 115 bluefish. The fish were taken between the mouth of Eastern Bay and Tilghman's Point.

Bobby Ruark, the Rod'n Reel's youngest skipper (who pilots the Skippy), had two good catches of blues on Monday—a morning trip produced 56 blue devils while the afternoon trip availed 76 of the same species.

The National Capital Annual Championship Skish tournament, sponsored by the National Capital Casting Club, will be held at Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool on Sunday, September 24, 1950. Registration: 9 a. m.

Gardner Wins 3 at Marlboro

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

MARLBORO, Sept. 19—Hy, the filly with the bob-tailed name, was high on stretch speed this afternoon and won the Solomons Island purse in the colors of Mrs. Helen Reightler of Baltimore.

The daughter of Hy-Erionion made it two out of three victories in her series with J. N. Barnes' Miss Prime, the latter second, 3½ lengths behind the winner. In third position in the field of seven came J. J. Hogan's Comely Belle.

Getting eight pounds the best of the weights, Hy was installed the favorite by the crowd of 4500 and returned a $3.80 win mutuel. Although the skies cleared, the track was sloppy as the result of an earlier downpour and Hy was clocked in 1:24 1/5 for the 6½ furlongs.

Apprentice Doyle Gardner rode Hy and it was one of his three winners for the day. The New Mexico youngster rode four winners on last Saturday's card and is topping the saddle artists at the meeting.

Gardner's first winner, E. N. Kratz's Agency, in the second race paid a healthy $27 and put the finishing touches to a $141.80 daily double payoff on the combination of 5 and 8. His third winner came in the seventh event. This titme he was aboard W. B. Worthington's Little Brandy, and he brought the 4-year-old home with plenty of daylight to spare and was a $5.60 favorite.

Defending Champ Oliveri Ousted in Publinx Play

Start From Scratch

Past Performances Don't Count at Navy

By Herb Heft

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 19.—Rank doesn't mean a thing anymore at the Naval Academy—at least not in football.

When Eddie Erdelatz took over the coaching reins last spring, he said that past records would be thrown out. Regulars would have to start from scratch and earn their old positions back. Newcomers and scrubs would get an equal chance against them.

Paul Tetreault

To show he wasn't fooling, he threw out all the movies of last year's Navy games so they wouldn't bias his judgment.

"This is the way I wish I had been coached in my college days at St. Mary's," Erdelatz told his squad. "The fairest way is to give everybody an even chance to earn a regular position each year."

Erdelatz has set up a very thorough screening system to weed out the good players from the mediocre in time for the September 30 opener against Maryland.

It'll be a photo finish. The screening is still incomplete, and Erdelatz will not commit himself on a single starter, not even Bob Zastrow, last year's star quarterback and third-team All-America.

In the current phase of screening, Erdelatz indiscriminately divides his squads into teams of 11. Quite often, a first-string tackle finds himself along a fourth-rate guard of a year ago.

HE TAKES moving pictures of the scrimmages and plays them back twice.

On the first playback, he is careful to notice which combinations play well together. It will come in handy when he forms his platoons.

On the second playback, Eddie grades his players individually for their defensive and offensive ability. Then he points out their shortcomings to them and tries to make corrections.

So far, Eredelatz has been concentrating on his offense. He has an advantage on Maryland because the Terps start their season a week ahead of the Middies, this Saturday against Georgia.

"I'm going down with our chief scout Frank Foster to watch them," says Erdelatz, "then I'll figure out my defense. We'll concentrate on that the last week."

Maryland is only the first on the usually rugged Navy schedule. In succeeding weeks, the Middies take on Northwestern, Princeton, Southern California, Penn, Notre Dame, Tulane, Columbia and Army.

Only comment Eddie will make is, "I have no complaints about the material I have to work with. The spirit is high and we're not conceding a single game. They'll have to lick us on the field."

DESPITE ERDELATZ'S reluctance to divulge his starting team, it's hardly likely that anybody but Zastrow will be at quarterback.

The big junior from Algona, Wis., is down to 209 pounds and is running and passing as well as ever. He's handling the ball even better, thanks to some special tutoring from Frankie Albert, great quarterback of the Forty-Niners.

Zastrow was Navy's biggest threat last year. He completed nine touchdown passes and rolled up 1126 yards through the air.

Another position where the Middies appear to be well fixed is tackle. Paul Tetreault and Jim Hunt, last year's regulars, are both back and starring in scrimmages. At the moment, Hunt is out, victim of a freak shower accident that burned him severely on the chest and abdomen.

Hunt, a 220-pound senior from Baltimore, is probably the strongest man on the team. He's the Academy's heavyweight wrestling champ. Tetreault, a 225-pounder from Greenfield, Mass., is the heaviest. One of five Bullis Prep products on the squad, Paul received all-America honorable mention.

Guard is a position that is weak. The Middies lost five lettermen there. Dave Fischer of Mount Vernon, Ill., best Plebe tackle last year, has been moved to guard to fight for a regular job with Dick Denfeld, 185, from Sioux Falls, N. D., Bill Steele, 195, from York, Pa., Bob McCowan, 202, from Chester, Pa., and Bob Lowell, 195, from Los Angeles.

TED KUKOWSKI, 195-pound soph from Clifton, N. J., is making a good showing in the race for regular center. But by opening kickoff, it's likely that Bill Bryson will take over.

Bryson, 195, from Rome, Ga., was last year's regular, but didn't report for spring practice. He wanted to bring up his class grades. He was assigned to the jayvee when he came out a few weeks ago, but he's working his way up again.

Last year's best all-around Navy end, Phil Ryan, has graduated. But Bill Wilson, who caught more passes, 15, and Capt. Tom Bakke, a good defensive end, are still around. Wilson, 195-pounder from Mount Vernon, Ill., holds Navy's all-time basketball scoring record of 257 points in one season.

Adorney led the Plebes with eight touchdowns last year.

Drew is the extra point specialist. He has made 27 out of 29 tries in two years. His accurate toe provided Navy with its 21-21 tie against Army two years ago, and against Tulane again last year.

Co-Medalist Mailly Also Eliminated

Not a single favorite survived first round play yesterday in the men's District Public Links Golf tournament at East Potomac golf course.

Defending Champion Andy Oliveri was the first to fall, losing to Steve Olds, one up. He was joined on the sidelines by Co-Medalist Frank Mailley, who lost to Marv Mrstik, one up in 19 holes. The third of the tournament's Big Three, Co-Medalist Julian Williams, was promptly ousted too. Williams was erased by Bob Martino, two up.

To make the rout of the mighty complete, Marv Sayers knocked off 1948 Publinx King George Graham, one up, in the first round too.

Olds started out to make his round with Oliveri a rout. He was four up at the turn. Oliveri caught fire and won ten, twelve, thirteen and fourteen to even the match, but Olds won the par-five, 575-yard 17th with a birdie four, and halved 18 to close out the match.

Mailley was one up on Mrstik at the turn, but chipped up short on the par-four, 420-yard 18th, missed his putt, and took a bogey five for the hole. Mrstik parred the hole to even the match. Mailley three-putted the 19th while Mrstik parred the hole to end the match.

Whip Changers Get Into Trouble

MARLBORO, Sept. 19.—It's okay for one jockey to lend his whip to another boy—but not during a race. Jockey Mike Sorrentino lost his whip during the early running of yesterday's second race. So he asked Apprentice Frank Perticari, who was getting nowhere with Rock Candy, for his bat. Frank complied and Mike, using the borrowed stick went on to win with Phantom Jinks, a $10.80 shot.

Officials saw the transaction. Result: Mike fined $50 for asking. Frank suspended for the remainder of the meeting for lending.

Quantico Has LeBaron on Run But He's Not After Sympathy

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

QUANTICO, Va., Sept. 19—If all your sympathy hasn't been spent on the Phillies' Curt Simmons, plucked out of the World Series by the Army, consider the case of Quantico's Eddie LeBaron.

Save the sympathy, though, LeBaron isn't having any.

LeBaron is Simmons' opposite number in football. Already signed to a lucrative contract by the Washington Redskins, little Eddie demonstrated conclusively in the Chicago All-Star game that he was ready to play with the big boys in the National Professional League.

The Marine Corps had other ideas after Korea and LeBaron, private first class in the Stockton, Calif., Organized Reserve, was called to active duty.

His College of Pacific degree made him eligible for a commission. He applied and now must serve a minimum of three years.

Second Lieut. LeBaron is getting the works at Quantico's basic school — Marine "boot camp" for its officers. The nine-month course has been accelerated by the war and the shavetails are expected to get ready in six months.

It's a gruelling schedule to begin with and the fact that LeBaron is playing on the football team makes it tougher. With the club practicing at night, Eddie's work day runs from reveille at 6 a. m. to 11 p. m. And it's all work.

Boyish LeBaron (he's only 20) is taking the whole thing like a champ.

Fairly fresh after completing one of his 16-hour marathons, LeBaron said, "I'm pretty lucky, I think. After all, a lot of men with families are being called. They're the fellows who have it rough.

"I'm young and fancy free. For me, this should be a great experience."

LeBaron's daily routine runs something like this:

He's up at 6 a. m. The boys have about 30 minutes to clean their rifles, barracks and area. Breakfast goes from 6:30 to 7; inspection at 7:20.

From 8 to noon, the schedule calls for classes, in the classroom or in the field. Dinner's at noon and classes resume at 12:50 until 5. There's an hour's break for supper then Maj. Hal Harwood, football coach, takes over.

Chalk talk and movies start at 6 p. m. Then the squad dresses and is on the field by 7:30. After a two-hour drill, the squad returns to the dressing room.

And at 10 p. m. is young Mr. LeBaron finally through?

Mrs. Trouchaud, Crocker in Finals

Mrs. Sam Crocker and Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud advanced to the finals of Kenwood Country Club's women's championship golf tournament yesterday. Mrs. Crocker beat Mrs. F. C. Hunter, two up, and Mrs. Trouchaud upset Mrs. Richard Kreuzburg, 4 and 3. Winners in other flights:

Second flight: Mrs. E. C. Atwood beat Mrs. Robert Keebler, 2 and 1. Mrs. Joe Kerr beat Mrs. John Dunn, 6 and 5. Third flight: Mrs. Bill Ready beat Mrs. D. J. Word, 2 up. Mrs. George Diffenbaugh beat Mrs. Audry Evans, 2 up. Fourth flight: (championship) Mrs. Edna Schott beat Mrs. J. H. Vance, 2 up.

Curtis Grapples Bobby Ford at Turner's Tonight

Bud Curtis, of Indianapolis, and Bobby Ford, of Columbus, clash in the 60-minute time limit match on the weekly wrestling show at Turner's Arena tonight.

George Macricostas, the "Golden Greek," and Ken Ackles, Hollywood bit player, meet in the semi-final event. Three 30-minute events list Jesse James against Lee Ruffin, Pat Muldoon against Bill Wilcox and Mike Paidousis vs. Jim Lewis.

Reports of Impending Major Appointments Stir Gossip Here

This is some of the gossip around our town—

George Killion, the former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, is reported to have been tapped for a key post in the Defense Department. He had been slated to be appointed Undersecretary of Commerce.

Army Secretary Frank Pace is said to have the inside track to be appointed Defense Undersecretary, succeeding Steve Early. Robert Lovett and Jack McCloy were the first two choices for the No. 2 Defense job. Both men are reluctant to accept.

James Brownlee, the OPA deputy under Chester Bowles, may return to Government in a top post in the new agency to stabilize wages and prices, if his health permits.

John C. Huston, the former administrator of the Civilian Production Agency, a World War II agency, and now a deputy to White House Assistant John Steelman, is due for a promotion to a defense agency.

Navy Secretary Francis Matthews may bow out before long and take that long-rumored ambassadorship to Ireland.

Roscoe Seybold is a good bet to be appointed chairman of the Munitions Board to succeed Hubert E. Howard, the friend and admirer of former Defense Secretary Louis Johnson. A former vice president of Westinghouse, Seybold took office Monday as vice chairman of the Munitions Board.

The resignation of Assistant Defense Secretary Paul Griffith is in and it will be accepted. Griffith is a Republican and a Republican successor is being sought, perhaps Senator Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.), who was defeated for renomination.

Bruce Brown, chairman of the military advisory board on petroleum problems, may go to Interior to help administer its oil and gas program.

The shift in the Defense Department could easily result in a promotion for Assistant Army Secretary Earl Johnson, a 40-year-old, whose administrative ability has made a deep impression on top people who are hard to impress.

STORY: Bud Littin, a member of Senator's Taft's staff here, went to Cleveland for a delicate thyroid operation—one that could have affected his speech.

His doctors were concerned. When Bud appeared to be coming out of the ether, they shook him and kept repeating: "Say something . . . Speak to us." To the relief of his physicians, Bud spoke five little words and they were:

"Vote for Taft and America."

Littin then lapsed back into unconsciousness for another five hours.

PERSONALS: Stanley Baitz, a Washington newsman, has joined the information staff at National Security Resources Board . . . Two key promotions at Securities & Exchange, Howard L. Kellogg to assistant chief accountant, and Wilbur H. Mack to assistant director of corporation finance . . . At Agriculture, Ralph Hoagland, a biochemist in its Bureau of Animal Industry, is retiring after more than 40 years of service . . . Dr. Lauriston S. Taylor is the first American scientist to deliver the Sylvanus Thompson Memorial Lecture before the British Institute of Radiology. He's the Bureau of Standards' internationally known X-ray expert.

CIVIL SERVICE: It's being blamed in strong language by employes and officials alike for the Whitten rider to place most personnel actions in Government on a temporary basis at least until next June 30.

They contend that the Congress would not have voted restrictions if the commission had come out with an emergency program of its own. The criticism has merit. The commission has been working on a personnel program to fit the emergency for weeks. It has been slow on the up-take.

The rider is to be brought before the House today in the conference report on the supplemental money bill. Its approval is expected.

County Puts 2655 Pupils On Half Shift

Thirteen Schools In Prince Georges Affected; Relief Expected Soon

Double shifts are in operation in 13 schools for white children in Prince Georges County, Md.

County Superintendent of Schools G. Gardner Shugart reported to the Board of Education yesterday that 2655 elementary school pupils are affected by the double shifts.

Schools where pupils are on the part-time arrangement are Landover Hills, grades 1 to 4; Cheverly, grades 1 and 2; Silver Hill, 1, 4 and 5; Bradbury Heights, 1 and 2; Surrattsville, 1 and 2; Camp Springs, first grade; Hyattsville, 1 and 2; Ager Road, 1, 2 and 6; Seat Pleasant, 1 to 3; Capitol Heights, first grade; Riverdale first grade; Wildercroft, 1, 4 and 5; University Park, first.

New Buildings Soon

Crowded conditions at Cheverly, Silver Hill, Bradbury Heights and Camp Springs will be relieved in a very short time by buildings now under construction. At Silver Hill the board has aranged for rent of a building belonging to the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Three classrooms will be provided in the rented building, expected to be ready next week. Silver Hill had 350 pupils report for classes instead of the 200 expected. The third and fourth grades are doubled up in basement rooms. Construction soon to be completed will take care of the others.

Relief is expected at Wildercroft, Seat Pleasant, Capitol Heights and Surrattsville a little later by other construction under way.

The county has 29,758 children in 95 schools. There are 1050 teachers, of whom 230 are new this year, Shugart said.

To Accommodate 300 Pupils

The board opened bids on Holly Grove Negro Elementary School, whose eight classrooms and a multi-purpose room will accommodate 300 pupils. W. W. Chappell of Washington was awarded the contract on the basis of $164,600, the lowest of three bids. The new school will permit consolidation of one and two room schools at Croom, Croom Station, Brandywine and possibly one or two more, Shugart said.

Final approval was given plans for an addition to Surrattsville High School to provide nine rooms and a gymnasium. Bids will be opened October 10. Surrattsville, the last school in the county where high and elementary schools are combined, now has two grades on double shift.

The board accepted the offer of Burch Properties, Inc., to sell 12 acres at Hollywood on the Hill, College Park, for a future elementary school to face Rhode Island ave. The price was considerably below the market value. In another move based on a similarly public-spirited offer, the board agreed to buy ten acres from Griffith S. Oursler for a future Surrattsville Elementary School.

Ernest Snodgrass, now a teacher at Gwynn Park High School, was promoted to vice-principal at Maryland Park High School.

The Quickest Route From Chesapeake And South Capitol to Downtown Area

Have you ever wondered whether you are using the quickest route in driving to work? Answers to this question for all areas around the District can be gleaned from data collected by the Regional Highway Planning Survey for Metropolitan Washington.

The first in a series of TRAFFIC TRICKS showing recommended ways to get to 14th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. from residential areas follows:

RESIDENTS of Congress Heights, Washington Highlands and Bald Eagle Hill in Southeast Washington and residents of Barnaby Manor, Forest Heights and Oxon Hill, Md., should take this route—

From the intersection of Chesapeake and South Capitol sts., take South Capitol across the South Capitol st. bridge, continue on South Capitol, turn left on Canal st. sw., then right on 3d st. sw. and nw., up 3d to Pennsylvania ave. nw., then left to 14th st.

Average peak-traffic time: 16.5 minutes for the 5.6-mile distance. From Chesapeake and South Capitol sts. to the bridge: 6.25 minutes.

THE advantage here is in avoiding the slower pace on Nichols ave. and the 11th st. bridge, plus the usual tieups in the area of the Navy Yard and the intersection of 11th and M sts. se.

Other routes: Take South Capitol to Canal st. sw. via South Capitol st. bridge, take a left into Canal, then left on Independence ave., right on 14th st. nw. to Pennsylvania ave. Time: 17.25 minutes for a 5.9-mile distance; 6.25 minutes to the bridge.

Take South Capitol to Nichols ave., right on Nichols, crossing the 11th st. bridge, left on M st. se., right on Maine ave. sw., then right on 14th to Pennsylvania ave. nw. Time: 26 minutes for 6.7-mile distance; 12 minutes from Chesapeake and South Capitol sts. to the bridge.

$22.8 Million Public Aid Fund Asked In 1951-52

Number of Eligible Increasing, Welfare Director Warns; Clapp's Job at Stake

By Dorothea Andrews
Post-Reporter

The District is losing its fight to keep its public welfare bill down.

Public Welfare heads have just sent a $22,861,089 budget request to the District Commissioners, declaring the number of aged and children eligible for assistance is increasing.

In addition, Welfare Director Gerard M. Shea admitted, "we are facing reality for the first time on actual living costs." He wants to spend $2,647,460 to "face reality." Persons on public assistance have been cut back 20 per cent in grant below 1946 prices.

"This leaves the average assistance family with about 60 per cent of enough to meet its minimum need," Shea said.

Assistant Director Eliminated

It would take $1,590,533 to bring the average grant to 100 per cent of 1946 prices and $1,056,927 more to bring them up to 1950 prices.

While most welfare items show medium to sharp increases, the department budget is pruned by $9800 with elimination of the job of principal assistant director, at the request of the House.

He said that while the job is now held by Raymond F. Clapp, it will be up to the Board of Public Welfare to determine whether Clapp is ousted, or absorbed into the department's administration, or whether one of two other top assistants might be affected by the job deletion. Others are Paul L. Kirby, assistant director, who gets $8800 per year and Frank M. Gray, administrative officer, $8200.

In the forecast for next year, welfare heads anticipate an increase of 709 cases on public assistance rolls over current loads.

More Referrals Expected

They expect twice as many referrals of children from the Women's Bureau and an increased case load from the Juvenile Court Adult Probation Department.

They expect an increased burden in finding suitable foster homes for children under care of the board because:

1. The District's birth rate has tripled in the past four years and is still increasing.

2. With slum clearance projects in the works for the fiscal year 1952 involving destruction of about 1000 houses, welfare heads anticipate 200 children, at least, will be referred to the board for home placement next year.

But, the Welfare Department points out, the number of homes now willing to accept children for board has been "greatly reduced" by low board rates and employment opportunities for women. Right now, welfare case workers have to go as far as 233 miles into Virginia to visit wards and as far as 88 miles in Maryland.

Seeks 78 New Jobs

The board wants to add 78 new jobs to its department, at a cost of $232,179. Some of the new jobs would be in the intake and temporary service section.

"The present policy of the agency," it is explained, "which is dictated and controlled by the size of the staff, is to accept for service only those complaints about situations that have become critical and does not allow for

Public Hearing on Budget To Be Held October 16

District Commissioners announced yesterday that the annual public hearing on budget estimates submitted by city department heads will be held October 16 at 10 a. m. in the District Building board room. At that time citizens may advise the Commissioners on how much to reduce or increase the department requests before they are sent to Congress as a District budget next January.

Bill to Freeze District Hotel Rates Offered

Sen. Neely's Measure Asks Prices Be Set At Pre-Korean Level

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

A bill that would freeze rates on housing accommodations in Washington hotels at the pre-Korean war level was dropped in the hopper late yesterday by Senator Neely (D., W. Va.).

The measure also recontrols converted housing in cases where the District Rent Control Administrator finds a conversion results in additional, self-contained family units.

Under the so-called Cain amendment to the District Rent Act, which expires next January 31, rent control was removed from housing accommodations in hotels which are primarily engaged in furnishing rooms to transients.

Robert F. Cogswell, District Rent Administrator, issued the decontrol order to six hotels last August 10.

Checks with these hotels last night disclosed three have raised daily rates 50 cents to $1 since the start of the Korean war, June 25.

The new bill would roll them back to the June 24 level.

Neely, chairman of the Senate District Committee, told a reporter he introduced his measure "because I am afraid hotels here might start to gouge people after Congress recesses."

With Congress about to quit, Neely probably will not push for action until after the November elections.

Informed of the bill, Cogswell said he has received "very few complaints" from hotel residents about rate increases or conversions.

Rent ceilings on transient hotel rooms went off April 30, 1948, and on converted housing last year.

On the recontrol of hotel units, the Neely bill states that the "maximum rent chargeable for any housing accommodations in hotels shall be (1) the rental rate prevailing for such accommodations on June 24, 1950 or (2) if not rented June 24, 1950, the rental rate prevailing for comparable housing accommodations; subject to such adjustment" as the law provides.

The amended act would go into effect on the first day of the month following the month it becomes law.

Joseph Hanley

Ex-Fireman's Body Taken From River

The possibility that a former District fireman whose body was recovered from Georgetown channel yesterday might have jumped from Key Bridge Friday is being investigated by the Police Department.

The victim, identified as Joseph Francis Hanley, 48, was discovered floating in the channel at the foot of 30th st. nw., by George Bowen, 39, an employe of the Smoot Sand and Gravel Co., police said.

Harbor police were called Friday night to investigate a report that a man had jumped from Key Bridge. After an intensive search, police were unable to locate a body in the water.

Homicide squad detectives working on the case said Hanley resigned from the Fire Department in 1948 because of ill health. A small amount of change was found in one of his pockets, they said.

Hanley's body was identified by a friend, William H. Phillips, 5105 Crittenden st., Hyattsville, Md. Phillips said he had last seen Hanley on Friday, police reported.

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, who performed an autopsy on the body yesterday, said death was due to drowning.

Soldier Held In Beating Of Grocer

John Manougian, 56, proprietor of John's Grocery, 902 10th st. nw., was severely beaten on the head yesterday by a soldier who attacked him in his store, police said.

The soldier, identified by police as Pfc. William F. Long, stationed at Fort Dix, N. J., has been charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and attempted robbery, police said.

Mrs. Manougian, 3201 18th st. nw., said her husband told her the soldier entered the store about 2 p. m. yesterday and asked for some delicatessen. He had been pacing in front of the store for 15 minutes, she said.

When Manougian turned to get the delicatessen, Long hit him twice on the head with a blackjack, police said. Manougian was staggered, he told police, but grabbed the soldier by the collar and held on until neighbors came to the rescue. They subdued Long until police could arrive, he said.

Tuemmler, Welsh Named To Plans Unit

Director of Planning Fred W. Tuemmler of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Prince Georges office, and County Commissioner T. Hammond Welsh were named to represent Prince Georges County on the Washington Regional Planning Council yesterday by the county commissioners meeting at Upper Marlboro, Md.

Tuemmler attended the organization meeting of the group last week and reported on the plans for coordinating dispersal of Federal offices into the counties.

Tuemmler said that considerable disruption might follow removal of from 75,000 to 100,000 Federal employes into the new areas since they would require schools and roads and other added services and that he feels sure the Federal Government will make some contribution toward meeting these needs.

The Commissioners approved recommendations of Chief Richard Hughes, head of the county rescue squad, which has 12 units, that ambulance service by the volunteer units be restricted to actual emergency calls and services to volunteer firemen and their families.

Truck's $2500 Load Missing; Driver Hunted

Tenth Precinct Police last night were hunting a big red van which started out on a delivery run with $2500 worth of merchandise and disappeared yesterday.

Sam Colodny, of 253 Farragut st. nw., owner of the Colodny Beverage Trade Service told police his employe, Jesse Watson, whose address was not listed, hasn't been heard from since he went out at noon with a load of cigars, cigarettes, soda and candy. A charge of larceny after trust was lodged against Watson.

Action Urged On Preventable Diseases Here

Medical Society Calls Rates 'Embarrassingly' High in 3 Categories

The District Medical Society has urged its doctor members to do something about the District's "embarrassingly high" rate of preventable diseases.

The diseases singled out were tetanus (lockjaw), diphtheria and whooping cough, for which there are standard inoculations.

Cited as "a source of embarrassment" was the report of the society's subcommittee on child welfare that "during the war period, in the District, there were more cases of tetanus than in the entire armed forces."

"Whooping cough continues to be more prevalent than it should be," the society also said in a letter to its members urging them to promote immunization of children.

Also noted in the letter was the subcommittee's report that the incidence of diphtheria has increased threefold here since its 1948 level. In contrast, it was noted, the diphtheria rate for the Nation has shown a definite decrease in the past two years.

43 Cases of Diphtheria

Records of the District Health Department show there were 43 cases of diphtheria in the District in 1949, with seven deaths. The 1948 record was 13 cases.

As to tetanus, a subcommittee member said records show that 14 deaths resulted from 18 District cases during the war years, in contrast to a total of six cases, none fatal, incurred in the armed forces.

Last year, Health Department records show, there were 140 reported cases of whooping cough in the District.

The Society is seeking legislation requiring that children be inoculated against lockjaw, diphtheria and whooping cough. At present, it was pointed out, only smallpox vaccinations are required of children entering schools here.

Advice For Parents

The society letter urged the doctors to advise parents to have their children immunized, either by private physicians or at District health clinics. The clinics are located at 65 Massachusetts ave. nw., and at I st. and Delaware ave. sw.

Washington area dairies, it was announced, will cooperate in the campaign by attaching cardboard notices to milk bottles urging immunization against the three diseases.

Inoculations for all three are given in one "shot," the doctors said. Such combined inoculations are given in a series of four single injections at intervals of from four to six weeks. Thereafter "booster" shots are recommended yearly.

Physicians now recommend early immunization of the child, generally during the infant's fourth month of life.

Wounded Man Held On Assault Charge

Grover L. Tyler, 26, 1219 Holbrook st., ne., was held for the action of the grand jury under $1000 bond yesterday, charged with assaulting police private James E. Dawn, of the Second Precinct, Saturday night.

Police said Dawn was arresting Tyler's cousin for drunkenness when Tyler assaulted him. Dawn testified he was hit three times and was forced to shoot Tyler in the thigh.

Snake Bites Woman

Bitten by a copperhead snake while she was feeding her pet rabbits, Mrs. Marjorie Selby, 30, was rushed from her home near Gaithersburg, Md., to Suburban Hospital in Bethesda yesterday by the Gaithersburg Rescue Squad. Last night her condition was still undetermined.

Estimate of Institution Rolls

A record number of persons will be lodged in the District's eight "protective institutions" during the 1952 fiscal year.

That is the prediction of the Department of Public Welfare, which estimates an average daily population of 1976.

The institutions include training schools for delinquents; the home for the feebleminded; the home for the aged; and homes for dependent and delinquent children.

Here is how the case load has gone up in the past eight years, on the basis of actual figures on daily population, and the estimates for the 1951 and 1952 fiscal years:

Sundown Tonight

Jews to Start Yom Kippur Observance

The most solemn of the Jewish holy days begins at sundown tonight and lasts through sunset Thursday.

Called the Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur, it is observed by Jews as the climax of the 10 days of penitence following Rosh Hashonah.

Services in more than two dozen synagogues and temples in the area will open shortly before dark with the chanting of Kol Nidre by the cantor.

This is a service of absolution for ceremonial vows, made necessary by the rule of Jewish law requiring fulfilment of a vow, even at great sacrifice. The vows which the ceremony release are only those relating to ritual and custom.

During the 24 hours of Yom Kippur, devout worshippers observe total abstinence from food or drink as a symbol of sacrifice while asking God for forgiveness of their sins.

In most Jewish homes, a day-long candle will burn as a memorial to the departed members of the family.

The prayers of Yom Kippur continue uninterruptedly from the beginning of the morning until the service after sunset Thursday. At each service, there is a confession of sins and prayer for forgiveness.

Workers For Blind Meet

The District of Columbia Association of Workers for the Blind will hold its first meeting of the season Thursday at 8 p. m. in the parish hall of Atonement Lutheran Church, North Capitol st. and Rhode Island ave. Officers will be elected.

4 New Polio Cases in Area; Total Now 287

Four new cases of polio were reported by health departments in nearby Virginia yesterday, bringing the Greater Washington area total to 287 for the current year.

Three of the new cases were reported from Arlington, which now has a total of 26 for the year. They were listed as a 4-year-old boy of the 2500 block of Wilson blvd., admitted to Children's Hospital September 9; a 15-year-old boy of the 3800 block N. 7th st., no hospitalization reported, and a 4½-year-old girl of the 3200 block of N. Columbus st., admitted to Children's September 16.

Fairfax County reported its 37th case, a 28-year-old man of Vienna, admitted to Gallinger Hospital at an unspecified date.

Boxcar Leaps Siding, Blocks Highway

Traffic was completely blocked yesterday on Route 240 at Gaithersburg when a run-away Baltimore and Ohio boxcar leaped from a siding and ended up straddling the road.

The boxcar had been uncoupled from a train and was rolling down the siding at about 3:30 p. m. When the brakeman aboard applied the brakes they failed to work, and the boxcar rolled off the end of the siding and onto the highway.

Traffic was still being rerouted through Gaithersburg, at 9:30 p. m. last night, according to Montgomery county police. A wrecking train from Brunswick, Md., was believed delayed because of a broken rail at Dickerson, Md.

Montgomery Jailer, 2 Guards Fired; Two Escapes Recalled

Montgomery County Jailer Joseph E. Moxley and his two guard assistants have been given dismissal notices, the County Council announced yesterday.

The trio will be replaced by new men under the county merit system.

In announcing the dismissal, the council noted there had been two successful jail breaks, one attempted break, and an assault by a prisoner on a warden during the past year.

County Manager Irving McNayr pointed out that Moxley and the guards—John H. Walker, 64, and James Burris, 62—all had been considered for appointment to the new jail posts set up under the merit system but lacked qualifications.

Moxley has been the county jailer since 1928. The jail recently was taken from the County Sheriff's supervision and placed under the Council.

Appointed to the new job of jail supervisor is Andrew C. Warming, 50, of 203 Croydon ave., Rockville, a veteran of 20 years in Federal prison work. He has served as guard and custodial supervisor in the Leavenworth and Lewisburg penitentiaries. From 1946 to 1948 Warming worked as a field prison inspector for the Military Government in Germany.

For the past two years he has been an inspector for the Federal Bureau of Prisons, and will take over his new post when he retires from the Federal job after October 1.

Three new men appointed as jail guards are: G. L. Boklund, 33, of 614 Silver Spring ave., Silver Spring; Ernest C. Ricketts, 54, of Germantown, and Ralph H. Stitt, 34, of Herald Harbor, Crownsville, all Maryland.

During yesterday's council meeting, more than 60 residents of the Woodmoor subdivision in the county gathered for a public hearing on front-foot assessments for curb and gutter, resurfacing, and sodding improvements in their development.

Residents generally favored the improvements, which the council said will cost an estimated $88,453 and be assessed against benefiting property owners in Woodmoor. The council took the proposal under advisement.

Sesqui Recalls Mixed Group Of Actors From Anacostia High

The Sesquicentennial Commission yesterday withdrew a mixed group of actors who were to present scenes from its drama, "Faith of Our Fathers", at Anacostia High School after the principal objected.

School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning said Mrs. Opal Corkery told the 32 white and two Negro actors they couldn't put on the show when they appeared at the 9 a. m. assembly.

"The principal did what she was supposed to do," Dr. Corning said. "We just don't have mixed groups in the schools."

"Faith of Our Fathers", a historical drama written by Paul Green, is a story of the founding of the Federal Union and the city of Washington. It is presented nightly in the amphitheater at Rock Creek Park.

The Sesqui Commission received permission of District school officials to give scenes from the play at schools to boost lagging ticket sales. A special discount of 20 percent has been offered students for the Friday and Saturday night performances this week and next.

Paul M. Massmann, general manager of the Sesqui Commission, said the arrangement was for white actors to go to white schools and Negro actors to Negro schools.

By error a mixed group was sent to Anacostia, he said.

When the principal objected, Massmann said he withdrew the actors.

He said that "Faith of Our Fathers" has not abandoned its policy of a non-segregated cast, but was going along with the wishes of school officials.

Mixed groups will not appear in subsequent performances at schools, Massmann said. Shows are scheduled today at 9 a. m. at McKinley and Armstrong High Schools.

14th Street Light Seen Easing Jams

You ought to be thankful for the new traffic signal at 14th and D sts. sw.—it's holding you back from a worse jam north of there to Constitution ave.

George E. Keneipp, director of vehicles and traffic for the District, said he made test runs across the new Highway Bridge to the light during the morning and evening rush yesterday and made it in less than three minutes both times. By simply keeping up with the flow of traffic, he said he made one morning run in two minutes and 15 seconds — which meant he exceeded the speed limit by averaging 32 miles an hour for the 1.2-mile course.

The real troub'e spot on the route is not the new light, Keneipp said, but the stretch beyond it north to Constitution ave. After traveling from the south end of the bridge to the light in two minutes and 44 seconds last night, Keneipp said it took him four minutes and seven seconds to go the additional mile to Constitution ave.

He said he had set his staff to work on plans to ease the traffic tieup along 14th st. through the Mall.

To simplify the 14th and D st. situation as much as possible Keneipp's men yesterday put up four 24 by 30-inch signs on the rail of the Maine ave. overpass instructing through and D st. traffic to get in the proper lanes.

The light was installed 10 days ago to facilitate left turns of southbound traffic into D st. (instead of C st.) and to protect pedestrians crossing 14th at D. Traffic jams during the first few days of operation brought howls of protest from commuters.

Keneipp's department has since changed the signal timing so that through and D st. traffic is stopped for only 15 of every 85 seconds. Keneipp said he hasn't seen anything yet to make him alter his original recommendation that the light be installed.

'Short' Blamed

Five Burned In Explosion Of Gas Tank

Five men were burned yesterday when an empty 15,000-gallon gasoline tank in which they were working exploded. Police said the explosion apparently was caused by a short circuit in an electric blower, at the old Esso Standard bulk plant, 23 I st. se.

Dale Stokes, 28, 622 B st. ne., received first and second degree burns to his arms, face and body, police said, and was in serious condition last night at Providence Hospital.

Daniel Perrenoud, 38, of Kansas City, Mo., received second degree burns to the face and hands. He was in Providence Hospital, where his condition last night was described as good.

The other men, treated and released at Providence, are, John H. Walker, 36, 32 E st. sw.; Lee Nelson, 53, 326 E st. sw. and Henry Eastridge, 48, 1002 N. Carolina ave. se. All received flash burns on the face and arms.

All but Eastridge are employed by the Perrenoud Construction Co., Kansas City, Mo., which is cleaning underground tanks at the plant before moving them to a new plant at 1620 South Capitol st. Eastridge is a plumber who was working at the scene.

WELFARE—From Pg B1

$22.8 Million Asked for Aid

preventive and protective work in its true sense . . . Cases should be referred for service when the need is first indicated, rather than after a complete breakdown has occurred."

Another rising item in the welfare budget is the care of District youths sent to the National Training School for Boys. Shea told the District Commissioners that the Director of the Bureau of Prisons wants the District to "reimburse the Federal Government at cost for this service rendered to the District in the same manner that the Federal Government reimburses the District for the cost of care rendered by the District to Federal prisoners."

The Welfare Board has been paying a flat $3 per diem rate for youths at NTS. In 1950 the cost was $179,449. Estimate for fiscal 1952 on a cost basis is $310,250.

Shea described the capital outlay program as a "considerable extension" of welfare plans for protective institutions. Of the total, $213,000 would be used for a dormitory for sixty boys at the District Training School who "constitute special problems requiring disproportionate attention and disrupting programs designed for the normal child."

The $715,000 item requested for utility services at the District Training School would complete construction of a new heating plant, sewage disposal plant, water supply and distribution system, sewers and an electrical distribution system. Also asked is $241,000 for an infirmary ward for girls at the School.

At the Industrial Home School the department wants to spend one million dollars to begin construction of buildings to replace antiquated structures.

Firms to Pay City $3091 to Raze Four Bulidings

District Commissioners yesterday approved bids of three wrecking firms which agreed to pay the city $3091.40 for the privilege of tearing down and carting off abandoned buildings on four sites.

Approved were (1) A $1625.40 bid by the General Wrecking Co. to remove the abandoned Brightwood School, Georgia ave. and Peabody st. nw.

(2) Two bids totaling $1310 by the Ace Wrecking and Building Material Co. to raze the old No. 1 Police Precinct Station at 425 New Jersey ave. nw., and to remove seven vacant condemned dwellings on the site of a proposed playground beside the Dennison School, S st., between 13th and 14th sts. nw.

(3) A $156 bid from the ABCD Corp. to remove four vacant and condemned dwellings on the site of the proposed Francis Playground, 1222-1228 25th st. nw.

Bill to Aid College Theatricals Is Filed

Senator Neely (D., W. Va.) yesterday filed a bill aimed to encourage land-grant colleges and universities to present theatrical productions in Washington.

The bill authorizes $25,000 annually to pay traveling and production expenses of student actors. The program would be directed by the Secretary of Agriculture in cooperation with the American National Theater and Academy.

Citizen Groups Weigh School Merger Plan

The Hager recommendation to merge Wilson and Miner Teachers Colleges continued as the hottest topic on the agenda of District citizen' groups meeting last night.

Of four groups taking action on the proposal, two white citizens associations strongly opposed while two Negro associations backed it, one of the latter asking for complete integration in the public school system.

Central Northwest Group Favors College Merger

The Central Northwest Civic Association last night went on record in favor of the proposal to merge the District teachers colleges and called for the establishment of a nonsegregated junior college. The group met at the Garnet-Patterson Junior High School.

Dr. Hager Commended By East Central Group

The East Central Civic Association last night commended Dr. Walter E. Hager, president of Wilson Teachers College, for his proposal to end segregation in the District teachers colleges.

Meeting in Winfield Scott-Montgomery School, 415 P st. nw., the group urged segregation be eliminated throughout the school system.

Columbia Heights Weighs Change in Meeting Time

The Columbia Heights Businessmen's Association last night decided to survey the membership to determine whether a change in meeting time is desired.

Only a handful of members attended the meeting in the Hahn Shoe Store, 3113 14th st. nw. Capt. Thomas Rasmussen, recently appointed head of the Tenth Precinct Station, was introduced.

College Merger Opposed By Petworth Citizens

The Petworth Citizens' Association last night passed a resolution opposing the proposed merger of Wilson and Miner teachers' colleges. The group held its first meeting at the Petworth Public Library, Georgia ave. and Upshur st. nw.

15 Foreign Editors Arrive For Month's Tour of Nation

Fifteen foreign newspaper editors from such divergent points as Argentina and India arrived in Washington last night under the auspices of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the American Press Institute.

They will remain in Washington through Friday morning, when they will leave for Atlanta on their month-long tour of the United States. One of the purposes of their visit is to discuss the possibility of forming an International Press Institute.

Their agenda for today includes a sightseeing tour of the city, a luncheon with ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman and a dinner tendered by Washington newspapers at which ASNE members from Washington, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland will attend.

To Visit White House

Thursday they will attend President Truman's press conference, a luncheon by the Overseas Writers and a cocktail party by the National Press Club.

The editors spent several days in New York before coming to Washington.

"New York is a most impressive sight!" said Urs Schwartz of the Neue Zuercher Zeitung of Zurich, Switzerland. "So is Washington, of course. All this," he pointed around at the city.

In the first few minutes in town, 14 of the editors — one arrived later — faced the ordeal of the "On More Club," Washington's rambunctious press photographers, and enjoyed it.

The photographers ordered the editors to pose here, then there; to smile, and at one point to line up so that one group stood up while those in the foreground sat on their haunches.

"It's all in the trade," laughed Dr. Oscar Pollak of the Arbeiter Zeitung, of Vienna, Austria.

The other editors in the group are:

M. Chalapathi Rau, National Herald, Lucknow, India; J. Murray Watson, The Scotsman, Edinburgh, Scotland; Chikao Honda, the Mainichi Newspapers, Tokyo, Japan; Claude Bellanger, Le Parisien Libere, Paris, France; Hubert Beuve-Mery, Le Monde, Paris, France; Harold Campbell, Melbourne Age, Melbourne, Australia; Eljas Erkko, Helsingin Sanomat, Helsinki, Finland; Alfred Oste, Svenska Dagbladet, Stockholm, Sweden; Erik Reger, Der Tagesspiegel, Berlin, Germany; Jose Santos Gollan, La Prensa, Buenos Aires, Argentina; Alfredo Silva Carvallo, La Union, Valparaiso, Chile; Marcel Stijns, Het Laatste Nieuws, Brussels, Belgium, and Dr. Ahmed Emin Yalman, Vatan, Istanbul, Turkey.

They were accompanied by Floyd Taylor, director of the American Press Institute; Kenneth Campbell of The New York Times as interpreter for Bellanger and Beuve-Mery, and Ichitaro Takata, foreign editor of Mainichi.

Anti-Merger Letter Voted at Anacostia

The Anacostia Citizens Association last night voted to send a letter to School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning opposing a merger of the District teachers colleges.

In its resolution the group indicated it might take further action at a later date.

In another letter authorized, the association asked the Interior Department for the paid attendance figures at Anacostia swimming pool for the past three years. In other resolutions, adopted at the meeting in the Anacostia Methodist Church, the associattion asked the American Automobile Association for help in its drive to get a traffic light at Good Hope rd. and Minnesota ave. se., and offered its services to Inspector ohn Fondahl, acting director of the District's civil defense.

Lamond Heights Aids Gas Rate Fight Fund

The Lamond Heights Citizens Association last night voted to contribute $15 to the court fight against a gas rate increase. The case is now being appealed.

Meeting at the Masonic and Eastern Star Home, 6000 New Hampshire ave. ne., the association went on record in favor of the establishment of a citizens council to advise the District Commissioners.

Garrett Park Asks Water Fluoridation

The Garret Park, Md. Citizens Association, meeting at the community center, last night passed a resolution asking the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission to initiate fluoridation of the water supply.

The resolution called for the introduction of one part of fluorine to one million parts of water, the object being to fight tooth decay.

The citizens heard talks by Dr. Francis A. Arnold, jr., associate director of the National Institute of Dental Research; Franz Maier, denistry engineer of the Public Health Service, and water commissioner Warren Browning.

Mrs. Fenwick Dies; Widow Of Builder

Mrs. Frances Shepley Fenwick, 81, widow of Ernest S. Fenwick, builder and real estate man, died Monday night at her home, 3020 Porter st. nw.

Mrs. Fenwick was the daughter of the late Capt. James H. Shepley, a Civil War officer who helped construct Georgetown University. Mrs. Fenwick lived in Washington for about 70 years.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. John A. Butler, and a brother, Lieut. Comdr. Belmar H. Shepley, both of Washington.

DR. BRAGDON
. . . No time for travel

AAUW Head Takes Over Her New Job

By Dorothea Cruger

"I'LL MISS THE college students." That was Dr. Helen D. Bragdon's only regret last Friday on leaving her job as president of Lake Erie College in Painesville, Ohio, and coming to Washington to take over as General Director of the American Association of University Women.

But her new job as head of an organization which has a membership of 115,000 women in 1142 branches, offers "a great challenge and a wide scope" which more than compensates for the loss of contact with young students, Dr. Bragdon said here today.

A soft-spoken, gracious person with a trace of accent left over from her New England days (she is a native of Maine), Dr. Bragdon brings to her job a varied background as educator, ranging from a stint as professor of English in the New York high school system, to one as dean of Hood College in Frederick, Md.

THOUGH SHE'S BEEN in Washington only three days, Dr. Bragdon has seen enough of the city to be sure she'll enjoy her stay here. And in her three days as AAUW head she has discovered there's a lot she still has to learn about the organization.

But one thing she is sure of, and that's of strongly supporting the existing goals of the organization, and trying to give them a flexible application so they will keep pace with the changing needs and problems of these times. She finds especially interesting the AAUW's grants to United States and foreign students for graduate study, which she believes is one of the most concrete ways of advancing the status of women.

As director of the AAUW, Dr. Bragdon herself will be busy with many of the problems which she feels women can help solve. She automatically becomes a member of the United States National Commission for UNESCO and a delegate to the National Conference for Mobilization of Education which was recently organized to tie American education into the new defense program.

In fact, Dr. Bragdon will be so busy with her various pursuits that she'll scarcely have time for her favorite hobby, traveling.

Mary Haworth's Mail

20 Years Ago Man's Dream Girl Wouldn't Take Him Seriously, So He Forgot Her and Married Another; He Meets Her Again, She's Widowed; Now Both Care

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Twenty years ago I was very much in love with a young school teacher, but she didn't take me very seriously. So when I met my wife-to-be I forgot the little blonde school teacher.

At least I forgot her until several months ago, when we met somewhat by accident and had dinner together, accompanied by her son. You see her husband died and she has done a marvelous job of raising her boy.

Since our first dinner date we've had several more and even adopted a popular hit tune as our theme song. However, we decided that we were making a very serious mistake by trying to rekindle a flame that died down years ago for lack of her attention. Now I am sure we are both very fond of each other, whereas it was one-sided before.

Several weeks ago we decided to be fair to our families and not see each other again, but I think of her constantly and am wondering how long it will take to recover. Can you suggest any activities that might take my mind back to my own family? I still love Dorothy and I know she loves me now; but is it too late? We promised we'd meet again in 20 years. Now what am I in for—your sympathy, or an editorial spanking?

B. L.

DEAR B. L.: As people get older, nostalgia for the "dear dead days beyond recall" ofttimes figures largely in their thinking, especially if they've failed to scale the heights of their ambitions, or missed out on satisfactory emotional relations with family and friends. This backward looking turn of mind is a sign of critical aging in personality—an indication of weary defeatist conviction that "the best is over for me." Also, psychologically speaking, it is an attempted flight from reality.

It is characteristic of healthy youth to give half a mind to looking ahead, confident that "the best is yet to be," and the other half to making a great thing of present experience. A certain percentage of adults keep this attitude all through life; and they are the so-called "young in heart" whose vital energies are perennially conserved by the realist practice of closing the book on the past, from day to day, and dealing wholeheartedly with immediate matters.

A mature-age person is slipping, as the saying goes, when he begins to linger reminiscently on lost opportunities, sentimental memories, etc., and to coast into day dreams of what a wonderful life he might be having if circumstances were (or had been) different. This seems to be your disposition nowadays; and I don't think your dinner dates with Dorothy started it. More likely you fanned a flirtation which she encouraged, simply to "get away" from a social routine that long has seemed "stale, flat and unprofitable" from your viewpoint.

The fact that you write on hotel stationery suggests that you may be a traveling man, and if this is your status, it probably explains why Dorothy got such a grip on your imagination recently, and why you feel a need of "special activities" to take your mind back to your own family.

The typical traveling man leads an inwardly lonely life, despite an overly busy schedule and many acquaintances maintained on his regular route. If he is married and his household anchored to a faithful wife, whose steady performance seems to guarantee domestic security with few surprises, he tends to leave his family out of mind in absentia. And this state of affairs creates an emotional vacuum in his life as he travels about. I daresay you were in this susceptible state when Dorothy rushed in, and accelerated your tendency to think back tenderly on "the good old days."

It is axiomatic that old friends seem best, as one passes life's meridian. Thus it is natural enough that you would feel unforgettably fond of Dorothy after seeing her again and finding her still attractive. Why fight the feeling? Accept it rather as an incidental aspect of your sentimental history, and bring your attention back to your family by steadily devising more, and kindlier, ways of proving your capacity to love them—in terms of giving them happiness.

Fashion Speaks With A Spanish Accent

Everyone is talking about Spain this year so it is not surprising that fashion has picked up a Spanish accent too. It's very marked in hats where there are little bicornes that make me think of matadors waving their scarlet capes and velvet pill boxes with thick passementerie trim. There are wonderful Spanish-looking evening dresses too—romantic white satin or taffeta picture gowns veiled in fine black lace, set off with a red, red rose. Not to mention any number of other Spanish fashions that we have adopted for our own — boleros, heavy fancy braiding, swaying fringe, shawls, and—last but not least—the distinguished new Spanish chignon hairdos.

D. C. Socialites Hold to the Party Line

By Marie McNair and Elizabeth Maguire

NO MATTER WHAT circles you moved in yesterday you were bound to run into a party. The military, diplomats, officials, and those who were born and raised in Washington, all seemed to think it was a good day to entertain.

ALONG EMBASSY ROW

A DINNER WAS GIVEN last evening by the Austrian Minister and Mme. Kleinwaechter for Dr. Oskar Polak, Vienna newspaper editor, and Mrs. Polak, who are here at the invitation of the American Association of Newspaper Editors. Mrs. Polak is a member of the House of Deputies, the lower house of the Austrian Parliament.

Another journalist from abroad, Marcel Stijns of Brussels, Belgium, editor of the Late News, arrived yesterday in Washington. At the same time, the Belgian Ambassador, Baron Silvercruys, arrived back in town after a week in New York.

SENORA ALFREDO SILVA, a leading editor of Santiago, Chile, is also in Washington. He arrived yesterday in time to attend the stag cocktail party given by the Chilean Military Attache, Brig. Gen. Walton Ojeda, at the Army and Navy Club in celebration of Chile's Army Day.

Cocktail guests included, Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Willis Crittenberger, Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Hubert Harmon, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Milton Miles, Maj. Gen. Robert L. Walsh, and Col. and Mrs. Anthony Drexel Biddle.

Also, the Military Attache of the Argentine, Brig. Gen. Juan Carlos Gomez, and Senora de Gomez; the Military Attache of Brazil, Maj. Gen. Edgar do Amaral, and Mme. Amaral; the Assistant Military Attache of Paraguay, Col. Carlos M. Bobeda, and Senora de Bobeda; the Assistant Military Attache of Spain, Maj. Carlos Iniesta, and Senora de Iniesta, the Air Attache of Venezuela, Lieut. Col. Luis A. Calderon, and Senora de Calderon, and many others.

SIR DEREK AND LADY HOYER MILLAR gave a party yesterday to say their final farewells. At the same time their departure was postponed for another three weeks. All the more pleased, their friends dropped by for cocktails between 6 and 8 p.m., to have a chat and plan more parties.

Sir Derek is Minister at the British Embassy, and he has been assigned to a new post as Deputy on the North Atlantic Council, with headquarters in London.

AIR MARSHALL LUANG PRUNG PREECHAKAS, the Thai air chief of staff, was the guest in whose honor the Thai Military Atache and Mme. Chirapravati entertained yesterday at a cocktail buffet pary.

Other guests were Col. and Mrs. Anthony Drexel Biddle, Col. and Mrs. A. C. Lieber, Col. and Mrs. Reginald Vance, Brigadier H. E. Taber, Military Attache of Canada, and Mrs. Taber; Brig. Gen. Peter Tsong Kan Pee, Military Attache of China, and Mrs. Pee; Col. J. A. de Vos, Military Attache of South Africa, and Mrs. de Vos; Mr. and Mrs. William Lacy, and Col. and Mrs. R. E. Hoyt.

Marshal Preechakas has been visiting in this country for two months, and will leave for England next week.

WITHIN THE LAW

A RECEPTION AND BALLET for delegates to the Bar Association meetings was given last evening by Paul F. Douglass, president of The American University. Senator Pat McCarran, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Mrs. McCarran were honor guests.

Others included Harold I. Baynton, Assistant Attorney General, and Mrs. Baynton; George Morris Fay, United States Attorney for D. C., and Mrs. Fay; Mrs. Olive G. Faircloth, president of the Women's Bar Association; Jo Morgan, president of the Bar Association of D. C., and Mrs. Morgan; Miss Helen Slough, president of the National Women's Lawyers Association, and Judge Nadine L. Gallagher.

Mrs. Helen D. Reed, Assistant United States District Attorney and member of the Board of Trustees of the American University, was in charge of arrangements. The ballet was given by the Washington School of Ballet in the Sylvan Theater on the university campus, and the reception followed at the residence of President Douglass.

THE LOCAL BAR and a group from the Canadian Bar Association, were partying yesterday at the Metropolitan Club. They were guests at cocktails of Mr. and Mrs. John E. McClure who entertained in honor of Jo. V. Morgan, president of the District Bar Association, and Mrs. Morgan. There were about 150 guests.

PARTY PARADE

MRS. CAVENDISH CANNON, wife of the newly appointed United States Minister to Syria, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Peyton March, wife of General March, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Army and Navy Club. Mr. Cannon is former American Ambassador to Yugoslavia.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK C. MACDONALD entertained at a reception at their new home in Hollinswood, Va., on Sunday, following the christening of their small daughter, Mary Bridget, in St. James Church, Falls Church, Va. The baby wore the Macdonald family christening robe which has been worn by four generations of Macdonalds. Mr. and Mrs. John G. Macdonald were godparents.

MRS. JEAN FRANCIS SOUDERS, the former Miss Mary Jane Schleifer, was married yesterday in Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral. She is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Lemon Schleifer, and the bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. John F. Souders of Lewiston, Minn. On return from their Southern honeymoon, the newlyweds will reside in St. Louis, Mo. The bride was graduated from Mount Vernon Seminary and Western College, Oxford, Ohio. Mr. Souders was graduated from Miami University in Oxford and did graduate work at the University of Minnesota

David Burns, N. Y.

MISS EILEEN COLLIGAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Colligan of New York City, will be married October 14 in New York to John Carroll Morrissey, a Defense Department attorney. Miss Colligan is a graduate of Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart and the Fordham University School of Law, where she was editor-in-chief of the Law Review. Mr. Morrissey is a graduate of Taft School, Yale University, Yale Law School and the New York University Graduate School of Law. He served during the war as an Army lieutenant colonel

ADMIRAL ROGER LAMBERT, chief of staff of the French Navy, who is here attending NATO meetings, was honored last evening at a dinner given by Gen. Paul Ely, chief of the French military delegation to the Standing Group of NATO, and Mrs. Ely at their home.

In the company were the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, and Mrs. Sherman; Rear Admiral Leon Russman, Gen. and Mrs. Gean Piatte and Capt. Georges Cabanier, Naval Attache at the French Embassy, and Mme. Cabanier.

PAUL HOFFMAN, administrator of ECA, gave a small informal supper party last evening at Hotel 2400.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES R. TENCHER gave a cocktail party yesterday for their house guest, Senora Teresa Labarthe de Benavides, a visitor from Lima, Peru. Senora de Benavides is a former capitalite, having lived here when her father, Rear Admiral Enrique A. Labarthe, was Naval Attache at the Peruvian Embassy. Mrs. Tencher is the former Cristina Michels, daughter of the one-time Chilean Ambassador to Washington and Senora de Michels.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE

MRS. WILLIAM BROCK TABER will leave today for her home in Montgomery, Ala., after a visit to her son-in-law and daughter, Col. and Mrs. Richard N. Ellis, and her son, Maj. William Rhett Taber. The visitor, who spent several weeks here, came to see her granddaughter, Alicia Rhett Ellis, born recently to Colonel and Mrs. Ellis.

PAXTON T. DUNN, son of Dr. and Mrs. William F. Dunn, is en route to Belgium on board the S. S. Washington which sailed recently from New York. Mr. Dunn was awarded a Fulbright scholarship and will take postgraduate studies under that grant at the University of Brussels.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER R. TUCKERMAN and their daughter, Miss Laura Tuckerman, returned Tuesday from Southampton, Long Island, where they spent the summer.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE MAURICE MORRIS—he's a former president of the American Bar Association, entertained at the first of two large receptions yesterday for visiting delegates to the American Bar Association, at The Lindens, their historic home on Kalorama rd.

The section of taxation of the American Bar Association, were honor guests yesterday. Cecil Kilpatrick, national chairman of the section, received with the hosts.

MR. AND MRS. FRED LEE PREU have returned to their home in Georgetown after a short stay in New York to see the Sadler Wells Ballet and several of the new plays.

Mrs. Preu, known in the art world as Bobbee, has been spending the summer at her home in Dark Harbor, Me. Mr. Preu joined her for the Labor Day weekend.

NEW FACES

MISS ELMA BAKER has been appointed social director of the United Nations Club for the coming season. Starting in October, the club will offer a program of many interesting events. There will be film evenings, dances, round-table discussions, art exhibits and cultural evenings sponsored by various embassies and legations.

The purpose of the club is for the advancement of mutual knowledge and understanding of the peoples of the world, and a thorough review of the current membership has been made with a view to further that purpose. Representatives of different embassies in town have been invited to join along with service people and residents of Washington.

Return from Newport

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Gewirz and their family, who spent the summer at Newport, R. I., have returned to Washington.

Visitor from Cleveland

Mrs. Bernard E. Rand of Cleveland, Ohio, is spending 10 days visiting in Washington and Frederick, Md.

Mrs. M. A. Shaw gives her recipe for cranberry and grape jelly

HERE IT IS!
- ★ 1 cup homemade cranberry juice
- ★ 1 cup homemade tart apple juice
- ★ 2 cups concord grape juice
- ★ 2 cups Franklin Granulated Sugar

Mix juices; bring to boil. Skim, if necessary. Add Franklin Granulated Sugar; stir until dissolved. Boil rapidly to jelly stage. When testing, dip tablespoon into syrup. Cool slightly, tipping spoon till drops fall cleanly off spoon in triangles. Pour jelly into glasses and cover them immediately with layer of paraffin. When cool, follow by a second thicker layer. Yields two 8-oz. glasses.

"I use Franklin Sugar in this recipe as I do in all my canning, baking and cooking," says Mrs. M. A. Shaw of Wilmington, Delaware, "because I know that Franklin Pure Cane Sugars really add lots to food flavors—and besides, they give me Franklin's 'Famous Five' Advantages."

Franklin's "Famous Five" Advantages
1. 100% Pure Sugar Cane Sugar
2. Extra-Fine Granulated
3. Fast-Dissolving
4. Free-Mixing
5. Enriches Food Flavors

"This coffee's tops with particular Pops!"

"First time Pop tasted it, he grinned all over and said thank goodness Mom had finally learned to make a man's coffee. But Mom says anybody, even me, could make super coffee with this new Chase & Sanborn. She says it's coffee with character!"

NEW! . . . new even in the way it was created!

You think you've tried Chase & Sanborn? Oh, no you haven't—unless you've had some recently! We've created a new Chase & Sanborn—based on your taste!

Yes, thousands like you helped us compare blends and roasts. At last we found the coffee most people liked better than any other leading coffee tested.

This, we said, is it! And you'll say so, too. Because here is coffee that has even the coffee experts talking. Enough strength to make character and enough character to make friends!

You can count on it every day, for we maintain the same high quality in every single pound. Try it . . . the new Chase & Sanborn.

Exercise Fails Without Diet, and Vice Versa

Fourth day of Winifred's beauty program

By Ann Lawrence

DIET ALONE is not enough for figure improvement. It must be accompanied by exercise. The two are as inseparable as Damon and Pythias. And the two are your best friends for reducing, both in weight and in inches.

Exercise, without the proper diet, is a long, boring process. Diet without exercise can cause flabby tissues and muscles.

Therefore, along with her calorie counting, Winifred began to exercise—daily. She didn't really want to, said she was too tired when she arrived home from the office at night. So a morning routine was suggested.

For 10 days, Winifred faithfully performed the three exercises given below. And at the end of that time, she found her waist, her buttocks and her thighs all 1 inch smaller.

Hip, hip away: Lie on your back with your arms out to the side, legs stretched out full length. Pull your right knee back to your chest, swing it across to the left side of your body, then straight down to the first position. Repeat with your left knee. Alternating each time, repeat for six times, rest, then repeat six more. (Illustrated today.)

No middle-aged spread: Sit on the floor, with your hands back of your hips, your right knee bent back to your chest. Keeping the right knee bent, swing it over to the left side as far as it will go. Now straighten the right leg downward, swinging it back to the right, and as that leg straightens out, bend the left knee back to the chest, swing it over to the right side, and straighten it out. This movement is a continuous one of rolling, with pressure on the buttock muscles and criss-crossing of the legs. Repeat 20 times altogether.

Waist not: Start with your arms vertically above your head. Bend over and touch the floor. Now describe a complete circle from the floor over your head, with both arms, first with the left, then with the right. Repeat 10 times with each arm, keeping your legs straight. No knee bending in this! Be sure that you actually touch the floor with your finger tips.

Law Makes Room for a Smile

By Norma Lanum

ONE OF THE CAPITAL'S leading women attorneys is remembered by law school classmates as a coed who "smiled her way through school."

She's Mrs. Olive Geiger Faircloth, a George Washington University Law School graduate whose brain power plus happy disposition have won her a top rank in the legal profession. Blonde, brown-eyed Mrs. Faircloth is special assistant to the Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia.

"THEY SAID I SMILED my way through school, underneath my picture in the yearbook," reports Mrs. Faircloth. But the fact that she completed the rigid three-year course at the age of 20, youngest in her class, would indicate she took her studies quite seriously.

"I hate tailored women and flat shoes," says this woman lawyer strongly. That follows in line with her two prime requisites for a good woman lawyer: "She's got to have plain common sense and she's got to be able to get along with men—and emphasize men!"

Mrs. Faircloth, widow of a Justice Department lawyer and daughter of a practicing corporation attorney, looks like anything but a career woman.

FOR A TYPICAL DAY at her office in the new Municipal Center she wears a feminine black dress, with a pearl necklace, bracelet and earrings, a couple of old fashioned diamond rings and, of course, those high heeled shoes.

Mrs. Faircloth loves her job but all her interest is not tied down to her desk. She also has a deep-rooted sense of civic pride, and devotes many of her off-duty hours to various movements for improving the Capital.

To help bring about some of these needed improvements, Mrs. Faircloth has served continuously since 1932 with the Cathedral Heights and Cleveland Park Citizens Association. For two years she was first vice president of the Federation of District of Columbia Citizens Associations, the first woman to have the post.

THE WOMAN LAWYER also is on the boards of the Homeopathic Hospital, the Foster Day Care Center and Counseling Service and the Family and Child Welfare Division of the Community Chest.

The most important of her "outside" jobs, though, is that of president of the District of Columbia Women's Bar Association. That job is especially important now that lawyers, both male and female, from all over the country are here in Washington for their annual national conventions.

Women's Council Gets Briefing on Defense

Marx Leva, Assistant Secretary of Defense, welcomed the council members—some 60 of them representing 40 national women's organizations.

Lieut. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Deputy Chief of Staff, discussed United States military strategy, and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of the Selective Service, explained the mechanics of the draft and deferment regulations.

DAR Group to Meet

The District of Columbia Daughters of the American Revolution approved schools committee will meet on September 20 at 11 a. m. at the DAR Chapter House, 1732 Massachusetts ave. nw. This will be this committee's first meeting of the season. Miss Margaret C. Smith will preside. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Lowell E. Burnell of Glouster, Ohio, national chairman of approved schools of the national society.

Stassen Hits At Treaty and Law Conflicts

Harold E. Stassen recommended yesterday the insertion of a "saving clause" in certain international treaties so that they will not conflict with the Federal-State relationship of this country.

Stassen made the recommendation to the American Bar Association as spokesman for that organization's Section of International and Comparative Law. On his motion, it was agreed that the section would join with the Committee on Peace and Law in a continuing study and report to the House of Delegates of the ABA at its mid-year meeting.

Stassen, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948, former Governor of Minnesota and now president of the University of Pennsylvania, pointed out that treaties now being proposed by the United Nations are in the area of social and economic problems and therefore would affect American citizens, not merely foreign nationals.

Under the Constitution, all treaties to which the United States subscribes become "the supreme law of the land." The problem confronting Stassen and his colleagues was to make it possible for this country to sign treaties dealing with social and economic matters without disturbing the relationship between the Federal Government and the States.

Stassen recommended that a saving clause be written into treaties that would expressly stipulate that no provisions of the treaty should be regarded as part of the domestic law of the contracting parties.

He said that the alternative would be for the United States not to become a party to such treaties. But that, he continued, would mean abdication of its leadership. The result would be, he said, that the leadership would be taken by some power which believes in the rule of force, not the rule of law.

Sir Godfrey Vick, representing the Bar of England, said it was time for the United States to take the leadership that was being offered it.

"For the love of God, do accept it," he said.

Bill Asks Major Raises in Pay For U. S. Judges

A measure to give substantial raises in salaries to Supreme Court justices and other Federal judges throughout the country and in the District, was introduced yesterday by Representative Keogh (D., N. Y.).

The bill would boost jurists' salaries as follows: Chief Justice of the Supreme Court—from present $25,000 to $35,000; associate Supreme Court justices—from $25,000 to $35,000; Court of Appeals judges—from $17,500 to $22,500; Chief Judge of District Court—from $15,500 to $20,500; associate District judges—$15,000 to $20,000.

The measure was sent to the House Judiciary Committee.

SANDRA STAHL, Miss Washington of 1951, is going to display the singing ability that won for her in the national talent part of the Atlantic City contest. She opens her first professional engagement tonight at the Hotel 2400's Lounge Riviera. For just four days—the rest of the week—she'll be doing a floor show there.

For the next four nights, marking the opening of the fall season, Band Leader Bob Simpson has fashioned a floor show. Dancing will be handled by Aletha Agee, co-star of the "Art Lamb" show on WTTG. Lois Agee, her sister, adds another title to the gatherings—she's Miss Outdoors of 1950. Lois is Simpson's vocalist.

THE RALEIGH Hotel's Pall Mall Room opened again last Friday, and it's changed its personality once more. This time—far from the staid, and then the hillbilly themes it sported last winter—the Pall Room is streamlined with a verve.

Bright red upholstery, grey walls and carpeting, muted mirrors and surrealistic murals set the mood. There are baby boxwood hedges covering one wall—with only the window and street beyond to relieve them.

Sammy Ferro, a Washington musician with many followers, opened Friday with his band. Ferro is heard five nights a week on Les Sand's Game Room over WTTG. Summertime he plays at Glen Echo.

LAWRENCE TOM of the Casino Royal is anxious to hear from amateur Washington performers. He is starting a talent contest September 30. Prize will be a week's contract at the Casino Royal.

Each Saturday afternoon the amateurs will put on their acts for a panel of judges. Afterward "Deacon" Hobbs will play for dancing. The seventh Saturday will be the finale, with each week's winner competing.

It seems most volunteers have been singers till now, out Tom is interested in magicians, dancers, comedians—in short, anything for a floor show.

Tonsils Out

Kristina has her tonsils out ... And all her adenoids too ... And now she is herself again ... And just as good as new ... She did not mind the pain too much ... And when the job was done ... It was not long until she returned ... To all her play and fun ... She was so brave and willing and ... Obedient and sweet ... That everything we did for her ... Was really quite a treat ... And now she eats and drinks real well ... And it is plain to see ... That she has made a perfect and ... A quick recovery ... And though she may not fully know ... What it is all about ... Kristina is a happy girl ... To have her tonsils out.

Expandable!

YOUNG FLATTERY for the near mother. Everybody loves a compliment, but expectant mothers thrive on them. Here is one of those expandable treasures that will entice lots of compliments for its wearer. In junior sizes, it's an arch flatterer in rayon faille with smart velvet touches. Pleasantly low priced, it's bound to be a show-stopper today in the informal fashion showing of McKettrick maternity fashions on Hecht's second floor at 2:30

Ask Anne

Takes Some Doing to Clean And Restore Old Rosewood Cabinet, but Here's How

DEAR ANNE:

I have an old cabinet of rosewood which has been stored for many years and has collected much dirt. How can I clean this without injury to the finish? Would soap and water be harmful?

Thecla Bomhard, 2730 S. Troy st., Arlington, Va.

No, not if you wash only a small area at a time, rinsing immediately with a cloth wrung out in clear water, then drying with a fresh cloth.

However, instead of soap and water you might use the following solution: 1 quart of hot water, 1 tablespoonful of turpentine, and 3 tablespoons of boiled linseed oil. The turpentine helps to cut the dirt, and the oil lubricates, feeds, and polishes the wood. Keep mixture warm in double boiler while using.

First, rub the wood with a soft cloth wet with the solution, then polish it with a dry cloth. Use the solution on only one section of the piece at a time. If desired, use furniture polish or wax after this cleaning.

It's possible the old rosewood cabinet will need some additional treatment to remove all the old dirt, and any white spots which may have formed. Some form of friction must then be used with oil (linseed oil, mineral oil, or machine oil) to lubricate and to prevent scratching the wood.

For friction, use pumice powder or very fine steel wool. Keep powder or wool wet with the oil as you rub it over the surface with cloth or felt pad, or with the pads of the hand. On carvings, use old toothbrush or nail polish brush to take dirt out of deep crevices. After dirt and spots are gone, wipe with cloth dipped in fresh oil and thoroughly polish with dry soft cloth.

DEAR ANNE:

How can I remove lacquer from a silver-plated bowl? The silver is tarnished under the lacquer. I have tried alcohol, turpentine, also silver polish, all to no avail.

Mrs. R. D., Washington

Lacquer thinner is the thing for this task. You can buy it at almost any paint store.

DEAR ANNE:

Can you tell me where and how I can get Betty Crocker's Picture Cook Book?

J. M. P., Suitland, Md.

This sells for cash, just like any other cook book—to be exact, $3.95. Several of the larger book stores here in town are carrying it. One where I saw it the other day can be reached by telephoning Republic 3913.

DEAR ANNE:

I have noticed that some shellac seems to darken wood. What sort should I buy when I only want a clear protective coating with no change in color?

W. L. T., Arlington

Get a bleached shellac if you want it absolutely clear. A good test to see whether shellac, lacquer, or varnish has coloring properties is to pour a small quanity over clear glass. If it shows an amber color, it will darken any finish or impart its color to clear wood.

DEAR ANNE:

Would appreciate it if any of your many friends could tell me where I can buy a miniature covered wagon with two horses for my granddaughter who has a large collection of horses. Mrs. I. B., Washington.

Any suggestions on where this team and wagon may be found?

DEAR ANNE:

The question has arisen as to how one should place his knife and fork on the plate. would you please help me on this situation?

P. T., Jr., U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md

Put the knife and fork side by side on the plate when not in use, the handles toward the right, the tines of the fork turned up. Never "gangplank" them, with handle on table and tip on plate. And leave them on plate when passing it.

ICC Asked to End 'Jim Crow'

By The Associated Press

A New York Negro yesterday asked the Government to ban the use of "Jim Crow" cars on railroad trains running between States.

The request was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission by Lillie Belle Perez of New York City. She claimed she was discriminated against by being required to ride on a car set aside for Negroes on a trip from New York to Tampa, Fla., in April, 1948.

She already has filed a $100,000 damage suit against the Pennsylvania and Seaboard Air Line Railroads, joint operators of the "Silver Meteor" on which she made the trip.

In a previous test case, the Supreme Court last June ruled against segregation of Negroes in railroad dining cars and directed the ICC to tell the railroads to stop the practice.

Chairman J. Monroe Johnson told reporters yesterday the commission expects to announce some action, in response to the court order, "within the next few days." He declined to discuss the nature of the action.

Miss Perez said on her trip to Tampa she held a through coach seat reservation. But she said she was required, under threats by a conductor, to leave the seat she had paid for while traveling through Virginia and go to a "Jim Crow" car. She described it as "an old car next to the baggage car."

She also complained that when the train reached Wildwood, Fla., she and "many other Negroes" were compelled to leave the train and board another for the remainder of the journey to Tampa.

"No white passengers were compelled to get off the train at the station at Wildwood and none did so," she asserted.

Her petition contended that the circumstances of the journey violated the Interstate Commerce Act forbidding "any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage" among railroad patrons.

Welfare Parley's Program Ready

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19 (AP).—Richard W. Copeland, State welfare director and institutions director, said today a tentative program has been prepared for the Southeastern Regional Conference of the American Public Welfare Association at Old Point Comfort, October 18-20.

Copeland, chairman of the conference, said outstanding speakers in all fields of public welfare, have been obtained.

Speakers will include Wilbur Cohen of Washington, executive assistant to the commissioner for social security, social security administration; Juanita Luck, Washington, assistant director, State and local section, United States Children's Bureau; Dr. Gordon Blackwell, director, Institute for Research in Social Science, University of North Carolina; John J. Corson, research director, The Washington Post, and Eric Biddle, consultant on Civil Defense Planning, National Security Resources Board.

Negro to Seek Enrollment in W&M Branch

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19 (AP).—A Richmond Negro said today he would seek admittance to the all-white Richmond Professional Institute for Graduate study in the field of social work.

Garland James Gilliam, holder of a master's degree in social science from the University of Pennsylvania, said he would make application Wednesday for enrollment in RPI's Graduate School of Social Work.

Gilliam already has obtained application forms from George T. Kalif, director of the school.

RPI is a branch of the State-supported College of William and Mary. Action on Gilliam's application, he was advised by Kalif, would be left with the college board of visitors.

Dr. Henry H. Hibbs, head of RPI, declined today to speculate on how Gilliam's application would be handled pending its receipt.

He noted the graduate school of social work's enrollment is limited to 60 because of the number of opportunities in Richmond for students to do field work with social service agencies. He added that 20 applicants have been put on the waiting list.

Gilliam said that if he is admitted to RPI he will resign as field secretary of the Negro Organization Society of Virginia.

Gilliam said, too, his plans are purely private, and he told a reporter he had not discussed the matter with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"This is in no respect a test case, as far as I am concerned," he said.

Admiral Ill Mentally, 2 Tell Court

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 19 (AP).—Two physicians from the Roanoke Veterans Administration hospital testified today that a retired admiral—who is seeking a writ of habeas corpus for his release from the hospital—is mentally ill at the present.

The doctors were called to the stand this morning as a hearing on the petition of Rear Admiral Edgar Brown Larimer was resumer in Hustings Court.

Admiral Larimer is a retired chief of the Bureau of Naval Ordnance and has made his home in Charlottesville since 1934. He was committed to the hospital in June by a commission on a complaint sworn out by his wife.

The admiral testified yesterday afternoon when the hearing opened before Judge Dirk A. Kuyk that he is not mentally ill—and never has been.

The doctors who were on the stand this morning were Dr. George I. Meyers and Dr. Charles A. Finnegan. Both said the admiral was mentally ill, but pointed out that if he continued to improve as he had in the past two months, he could probably be released in two or three months.

Attorneys for the admiral contended that he had been confined to the grounds and buildings of the hospital and had been restrained in his communication with people on the outside.

Admiral Latimer contended yesterday that one of the doctors on the Charlottesville commission "had it in for me" because he once reported the doctor for an alleged malpractice.

The admiral's wife is opposing his release from the hospital now.

By The Associated Press

A New York Negro yesterday asked the Government to ban the use of "Jim Crow" cars on railroad trains running between States.

The request was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission by Lillie Belle Perez of New York City. She claimed she was discriminated against by being required to ride on a car set aside for Negroes on a trip from New York to Tampa, Fla., in April, 1948.

She already has filed a $100,000 damage suit against the Pennsylvania and Seaboard Air Line Railroads, joint operators of the "Silver Meteor" on which she made the trip.

In a previous test case, the Supreme Court last June ruled against segregation of Negroes in railroad dining cars and directed the ICC to tell the railroads to stop the practice.

Chairman J. Monroe Johnson told reporters yesterday the commission expects to announce some action, in response to the court order, "within the next few days." He declined to discuss the nature of the action.

Miss Perez said on her trip to Tampa she held a through coach seat reservation. But she said she was required, under threats by a conductor, to leave the seat she had paid for while traveling through Virginia and go to a "Jim Crow" car. She described it as "an old car next to the baggage car."

She also complained that when the train reached Wildwood, Fla., she and "many other Negroes" were compelled to leave the train and board another for the remainder of the journey to Tampa.

"No white passengers were compelled to get off the train at the station at Wildwood and none did so," she asserted.

Her petition contended that the circumstances of the journey violated the Interstate Commerce Act forbidding "any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage" among railroad patrons.

Welfare Parley's Program Ready

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19 (AP).—Richard W. Copeland, State welfare director and institutions director, said today a tentative program has been prepared for the Southeastern Regional Conference of the American Public Welfare Association at Old Point Comfort, October 18-20.

Copeland, chairman of the conference, said outstanding speakers in all fields of public welfare, have been obtained.

Speakers will include Wilbur Cohen of Washington, executive assistant to the commissioner for social security, social security administration; Juanita Luck, Washington, assistant director, State and local section, United States Children's Bureau; Dr. Gordon Blackwell, director, Institute for Research in Social Science, University of North Carolina; John J. Corson, research director, The Washington Post, and Eric Biddle, consultant on Civil Defense Planning, National Security Resources Board.

Negro to Seek Enrollment in W&M Branch

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19 (AP).—A Richmond Negro said today he would seek admittance to the all-white Richmond Professional Institute for Graduate study in the field of social work.

Garland James Gilliam, holder of a master's degree in social science from the University of Pennsylvania, said he would make application Wednesday for enrollment in RPI's Graduate School of Social Work.

Gilliam already has obtained application forms from George T. Kalif, director of the school.

RPI is a branch of the State-supported College of William and Mary. Action on Gilliam's application, he was advised by Kalif, would be left with the college board of visitors.

Dr. Henry H. Hibbs, head of RPI, declined today to speculate on how Gilliam's application would be handled pending its receipt.

He noted the graduate school of social work's enrollment is limited to 60 because of the number of opportunities in Richmond for students to do field work with social service agencies. He added that 20 applicants have been put on the waiting list.

Gilliam said that if he is admitted to RPI he will resign as field secretary of the Negro Organization Society of Virginia.

Gilliam said, too, his plans are purely private, and he told a reporter he had not discussed the matter with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"This is in no respect a test case, as far as I am concerned," he said.

Admiral Ill Mentally, 2 Tell Court

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 19 (AP).—Two physicians from the Roanoke Veterans Administration hospital testified today that a retired admiral—who is seeking a writ of habeas corpus for his release from the hospital—is mentally ill at the present.

The doctors were called to the stand this morning as a hearing on the petition of Rear Admiral Edgar Brown Larimer was resumer in Hustings Court.

Admiral Larimer is a retired chief of the Bureau of Naval Ordnance and has made his home in Charlottesville since 1934. He was committed to the hospital in June by a commission on a complaint sworn out by his wife.

The admiral testified yesterday afternoon when the hearing opened before Judge Dirk A. Kuyk that he is not mentally ill—and never has been.

The doctors who were on the stand this morning were Dr. George I. Meyers and Dr. Charles A. Finnegan. Both said the admiral was mentally ill, but pointed out that if he continued to improve as he had in the past two months, he could probably be released in two or three months.

Attorneys for the admiral contended that he had been confined to the grounds and buildings of the hospital and had been restrained in his communication with people on the outside.

Admiral Latimer contended yesterday that one of the doctors on the Charlottesville commission "had it in for me" because he once reported the doctor for an alleged malpractice.

The admiral's wife is opposing his release from the hospital now.

Work Advised For Prisoners In Alexandria

A work gang of Alexandria city jail inmates was proposed last night to the City Council by a committee headed by Councilman Marshall J. Beverley.

Beverley said he was "shocked" to find that many drunks, loiterers and vagrants had been arrested as many as 50 to 250 times for the same offenses.

The Councilman said he found in a personal inspection that city jail costs were running at about $30,000 a year, excluding salaries, and that the meat bill alone for one month was $1,400.

"These prisoners are as well fed as anyone else and spend the entire day playing cards," Beverley reported.

The idea of a work gang, with the jail inmates doing work on streets, painting, cleaning up and other work, was indorsed by Judge Harry F. Kennedy, of Alexandria Civil and Police Court, Beverley said.

Motion Approved

The council approved Beverley's motion to instruct the city atttorney to draw up an ordinance providing for a city work gang.

Another recommendation for the future made by Beverley was the establishment of a city farm where prisoners could help to raise their own food. This, he asserted, would also relieve overcrowding at the Police Station lockup and the city jail, which he found was also "shocking." He also proposed merging the lockup and the jail.

On Labor Day, there were 40 prisoners in a 20 by 40 foot cell at the city jail, with bed facilities for 26 men, the councilman reported from a personal check. The rest of the prisoners had to sleep on the floor, he said.

Early Releases

Because of such conditions, men convicted of drunkenness are sometimes released before their sentences are up, he said. He quoted Judge James R. Duncan of the Police Court as favoring a city farm.

The report was also signed by City Manager Guy Ancell, Police Chief Edgar Sims and City Attorney V. Floyd Williams.

The council continued Beverley's committee and Mayor Franklin P. Backus added Councilman James R. Duncan, jr., to it. The committee will study the city farm proposal.

The council also passed on first reading an ordinance creating a trial board to try cases of misconduct by city employes. The board would be composed of an attorney, a physician, a clergyman and two residents to be appointed by the Council.

HAPPY REUNION—The Baker brothers, Harvey, 88, (left) and Frank, 73, embrace joyfully in Dayton, Ohio, after seeing each other for the first time in 70 years. Harvey left their home in Hagerstown, Md., in 1880, when he was 18 and his brother was only 3. A year ago Harvey began to search for his younger brother, and, after enlisting the aid of the Mayor of Waynesboro, Pa., located him in Frederick, Md., through a cousin

Two Jets Trying for Nonstop Ocean Flight Fail in Scotland

Two crack Air Force jet pilots, stationed at the Pentagon, failed yesterday in the first attempt to fly jet fighters nonstop across the Atlantic.

The pilots are Col. David C. Schilling, 31, of 3527 N. Edison st., Arlington, and Lieut. Col. William D. Ritchie, 31, of 729 Monticello dr., Falls Church.

It was there, the Air Force said, the planes ran into high winds. Attempting to refuel in this "turbulence," the refueling equipment was damaged.

The Air Force said the flight was planned to test the refueling system.

The spokesman disclosed a "tanker" plane trails a hose with a nozzle-shaped end. The jet plane with a "probe" either in the nose or wing edge rams the "probe" into the nozzle, automatically starting the flow of fuel into the jet's tanks. The shutoff of fuel also is automatic.

On the projected Atlantic flight, three refuelings were planned between takeoff and the landing, planned for Mitchel Air Base, Long Island, N. Y.

Ritchie Schilling

. . . Flight ends in Scotland

Schilling was one of the country's top aces in World War II. While commanding a fighter group, he received credit for destroying 34 enemy planes. In 1947 Schilling became the first American to make a transatlantic hop in a jet fighter.

Last March Schilling's 28-year-old wife took her life in her Arlington home. The colonel has two children.

Ritchie, a native of Arkansas, flew 200 combat missions in World War II. He and Schilling are attached to the staff section of the Air Force Division of Plans and Operations, Pentagon.

'Don't Worry,' Wounded G. I. Phones Wife

Lieut. Engle

Lieut. Marshall G. Engle, 22, of 934 N. Irving st., Arlington, called his wife, Catherine, at 6:30 a. m. because he thought she might "be worrying about me."

Mrs. Engle, who lives with her parents in Baltimore, said her husband told her he was struck by grenade fragments in the side, leg and arm. He said the Red Cross would have to do his writing because he couldn't use his hands. "But I'm going to be all right now," he added.

He is in a hospital at Osaka.

Engle left for Korea August 3, with the Seventh Cavalry regiment. The Engles were married in July.

Engle was graduated from Washington-Lee High School in 1945. He attended Western Maryland College and, in 1949, was graduated with an ROTC commission as second lieutenant, after which he went to the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga.

Mrs. Engle, who also attended Western Maryland College, works as a laboratory technician at Johns Hopkins University hospital in Baltimore.

Engle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Engle, live in Arlington at the N. Irving st. address. He has a brother, James, jr., 27, who served 3½ years as a Navy ensign, and a younger sister, Virginia.

'Secret' Safe Not Very; $1159 Stolen

George W. Besley's secret safe with the secret compartment was no secret to a visitor at his filling station yesterday. The visitor located both, plus $1159 in cash.

Besley, 38, operator of a station at 3341 Benning rd. ne., told District Police he had placed the cash in the hidden slot in the safe, which was secreted behind the telephone booth, and went out to wait on a customer about 1 p. m. yesterday. He closed the door of the safe, but did not lock it.

When he finished with his customer, he returned to find the safe had been thoroughly emptied of his cash. He told police, who first went to the scene on a holdup call, that a man had used the station washroom in the interval.

Hyattsville Police to Patrol Streets Near Youth Canteen

Streets and alleys in the vicinity of the controversial Hyattsville Teen Age Canteen will be patrolled by police every Saturday night, the Hyattsville City Council decided at its meeting last night.

A group of 11 citizens had petitioned the council to close the canteen or remove it from the Olive Street School. The petitioners charged disorderly conduct around the canteen the nights it was operating.

The council also decided to close 43d street between Hamilton and Jefferson sts. near the canteen to automobiles between 730 p. m. Saturday and 1230 a. m. Sunday. Both measures will become effective next Saturday.

Meeting at the municipal building, the council also agreed to appropriate $1000 from the parking meter fund to improve land for parking adjacent to the business and professional men's parking lot on Kennedy st. The land, which had been offered to the town from the State, will add room for 40 cars to the lot.

In another action, the council appointed Mrs. Robert T. Strickel, 4912 40th pl., Hyattsville, as secretary to the clerk of the treasury. The $2000 a year probationary appointment is for six months and becomes effective today.

Walter Watt Retires September 30 As Fire Captain

The District Commissioners yesterday approved the retirement of Fire Department Captain Walter Watt, 45, who is suffering from rheumatic arthritis.

Capt. Watt

He will retire on half pay September 30 after more than 24 years' service that included duty in every administrative branch of the department and six fire fighting companies.

Watt had commanded Engine Co. No. 20 for about a year until he went on sick leave August 1. Since his promotion to captain three years ago he had also been in command of Engine Co. No. 9.

Eagles of Dead Father Present as Wac Gets Bars

The silver eagles which her father wore until his death in World War II combat hatched a pair of gold bars on Ruth Holland's collar at Fort Lee last week.

Lieut. Holland

The identical eagles were worn by her uncle, Colonel Burnell V. Bryant of Washington, who pinned Lieutenant Holland, one of 47 college graduates to be commissioned in the Wac section of the Organized Reserve Corps.

Her father, Col. John F. Holland, was killed at Leyte. A graduate of Anacostia High School, Lieutenant Holland attended the University of Maine and worked for the Department of Defense here. Her mother, Mrs. Beatrice E. Holland, works in the Office of the Quartermaster General and lives at 4456 Q st nw.

Patrol Bomber Crashes On Coast; 7 Missing

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 19 (U.P.). A four-engined Navy patrol bomber crashed and sank in Puget Sound about 50 miles northwest of here today and all seven men aboard were listed as missing.

Rescue planes reported three hours after the crash they had found no signs of survivors.

The plane was on a routine training flight from Sand Point Naval Air Station here. It was attached to Patrol Squadron 931, a recently reactivated reserve unit from the Willow Grove, Pa., Naval Air Station. The last message from the plane came at 5:08 p. m. (E.D.T.) when the pilot radioed the Whidbey Island tower he was going to climb from 3000 to 6000 feet.

Two minutes later, a Neptune Navy patrol plane pilot reported he saw the craft in a spin, and at about 1000 feet it lost some parts. Then it crashed into the sound.

3 Die When Bomber Crashes on Okinawa

TOKYO, Sept. 19 (AP).—Three men died when a B-29 bomber crashed on a takeoff and burned on Okinawa Friday, the Far Eastern Air Force announced today.

Sergt. James P. Cooper, radio operator, was the only crewman unable to get out of the plane. His mother, Mrs. Clara V. Cooper, lives at Easton, Pa.

Two firemen of the ground crew who tried to rescue Cooper also lost their lives. They were S/Sergt. Richard J. Patterson, St. Paul, Minn., and Col. Jack Morris, Elyria, Ohio.

ACREAGE, SALE 75

MARYLAND

HOW TO ACCUMULATE A FORTUNE BY USING YOUR VISION IN SELECTING ACREAGE FOR FUTURE IN FACE VALUE.

When I bought Chevy Chase, D. C., where I built a large city, I bought my first acreage from Mr. Glover, late president of the Riggs National Bank. I found where the Chevy Chase Theater is located, 50 years ago. That was all woods then. Try to buy it now for less than $2,000,000 an acre. Try it! Lots of other ground in the shopping center there is worth a million dollars an acre. I have other acreage which looks equally as promising. I have nearly a mile and a half frontage on River and Bradley Roads overlooking the Congressional Club. I am building my own home right now just opposite the entrance of the club. This home has the finest setting of any home in this part of the United States. God Almighty made this beautiful setting. I didn't make it, and if you want anything good you have to work with God Almighty, and that is what I am doing right now. You might ride out on River Road and look at the setting of this home. I am going out directly with my son and get another thrill like you will when you look at it. We are 300 acres southeast in the zone of the new South Capitol St. Bridge; 100 acres have been sold, and you can have the remainder as an entirety at the small sum of $4000 an acre. They propose to build a new bridge to this section and the South Capitol St. and Penn. Ave. Bridge is furnishing a great deal of traffic up through this way. The Baltimore Blvd. is coming down in here and that will make a complete link between the North and the South. Reach me at my home, WO. 0933. I only work a half-hour a day now at my office between 9:30 and 10 a. m. at the Colorado Bldg. I used to work 18 hours a day. FULTON R. GORDON owner. Brokers, attention!

Walter Winchell—In New York

Big City Heartbeat

Celebs About Town: Sonja Henie, practically wearing nothing but gems, chatting with a chum at 53d and Park . . . Sir Gladwyn Jebb, Britain's best ad, thrilling the Stork Clubbers at table 50 . . . Sandra Rambeau, who has been wooed by Dukes, Maharajahs and Millionaires, sending up a flower to maestro Artie Shaw at Iceland . . . Margaret Truman's double in the Herald Trib's circulation dept. Her name is Gladys Draper . . . Judy Garland, who didn't seem to care whether she lived or not (a few months ago), cautioning her driver to slow down. He was doing only 25 . . . Denise Darcel's sister Helene dining at the Encore. A stunning brunette. (Awnshawtay, Mamzell!) . . . The Pitcher Pollets of the St. Loo Cards deserting the Poor Folks to witness the Sadler's Wells Ballet at the Met . . . John Steinbeck refusing to guest on a teevee show "because I enjoy my anonymity. I'm a famous writer, but nobody bothers me when I go out in public because they don't know me."

Sallies in Our Alley: Al Jolson's leading lady for several of his Winter Garden hits was Frankie James, now wed to a Hollywood producer . . . Frankie just sailed as a U. N. delegate to the Geneva Conference, her show-business lingo intact. "When are you due there?" she was asked . . . "I open," she 2-a-Day'd, "on the 16th!" . . . We saw Ann Sheridan loaded with jewelry and assumed Steve Hannagan was Santa Claus, as usual . . . "Yop," said Annie. "Girls in their right minds learn very young never to buy their own jewelry."

Midtown Vignette: If you happened to see a woman walking with one of her nylons missing the other day, you wronged her if you thought she was a bit loco . . . She was oblivious to the stares as she strolled along—head erect . . . This is what happened: A man was injured in an accident . . . While the crowd around him gaped and gawked (waiting for the ambulance) she went into action . . . Removing one of her stockings, she hurriedly applied a tourniquet to his fiercely bleeding wing . . . Then as the ambulance pulled up—she left the scene.

Memos of a Midnighter: Lila Lee and sassiety's Randy Hall are making like doves . . . Peggy Ann Garner and Richard Hayes don't care who's looking when they feel a kiss coming on . . . The Copa chorus had terrific competition from the ringside where a gal customer did a strip-tease until gently thrown out on her head . . . Nevada Smith of the shows is wearing a 117 karat tourmaline. Said to be the most perfect stone mined in Argentina in 500 years. The gifter is Jack Frye . . . Liberty's State Dept. expose is giving Washington another headache . . . Remember Sonny Wisecarver, who (at 16) was front-paged as a Hot Number with women? He's now a door-to-door car salesman for Madman Muntz in L. A. . . . Glamorville's shapeliest legs is sporting two black eyes. Husband found out.

New York Novelette: She was a new hatchick at the Stork Club about a year ago . . . A shy young thing named Dolores, a Pennsy belle . . . "Could you do me a favor?" she said one 4 ayem, as we retrieved our hat . . . "Name it," we returned . . . "I want to get married to a soldier," she explained, "and we can't afford it. If we could be married on the Bride-and-Groom program, we'd get scads of gifts and a honeymoon to Hollywood. Is there anything you can do to help?" . . . Two weeks later Dolores and her soldier were wed on that broadcast (thanks to the Mr. Bigs of the ABC network), so we thawt all concerned would enjoy knowing that there is a brand new American, just christened Luke Edward Fithian, in Johnstown, Pa.

Broadway Confetti: The theatrical season must definitely be starting. Buddy Hackett saw critic George Jean Nathan yawning . . . Hot newcomer in show biz is Don Cherry, youthful Texas golfer. In four months he owns a Decca recording contract, his own NBC spot and one with Betty Furness' teeveer . . . Those top salaried people who arranged with studios to pay them over a five-year period now are begging to get paid this year. Taxes getting that taller from here in . . . Piping Rock at Saratoga (Aug. 4 only) never opened the gaming section. It lost about $60,000 . . . Is "Socks" Lanza home from prison because of an incurable ailment? That's the Main Stem buzz . . . Mike Todd couldn't wait for the conventions to arrive to pack his "Peep Show." The first two didn't sell a ducat! They were the Boy Scouts and Jehovah's Witnesses! . . . Time Motches On! Little Margaret O'Brien has replaced the dolls at the head of her bed with a photo of M. Clift.

Manhattan Murals: One of the few "icemen" left, still using a horse-and-wagon, the 210-lb. grandmother. On the lower East Side . . . The only two women house detectives in town—at the Commodore and Waldorf . . . The sedan on W. 56th with this rear plate: "I'm Getting Old. Please Don't Hit Me" . . . The short block between 6th and 7th Avenues (49th) which has restaurants offering cuisine from 27 different nations . . . Broadway's latest kerrickter: A Jersey medico, who makes his entrance into the joynts flashing $1000 bills.

Sounds in the Night: In the Cub Room: "I just saw you on television. You're very photo-pathetic" . . . In Lindy's: "This war is serious. Just took my physical for the U. S. O." . . . At WJZ newsroom: "Relax. Russia's not dropping any bombs on New York while Malik and Vishinsky are in town" . . . At the Blue Angel: "Pay no attention to him. He hasn't guessed right since he picked Abel over Cain!" . . . At Eddie Condon's: "Some television should be heard and not seen" . . . In Rumpelmayer's: "What this country needs is more Stonewall Jacksons and fewer Screwball Johnsons."

The Late Watch: Martha Cuneo's poodle (the gift of hotelman Conrad Hilton) occupies its own room at the swanky Plaza . . . Ford cover gal Jean Patchett has decided Louis Auer is her Man of the Moment . . . Mimi Keresey of the Billingsley bourgeoisie and Eduardo Edmondson, the Mint, are better than room temperature . . . That doll on Life's cover (Sept. 12th) was Mrs. Edw. (Peggy) Wilcox . . . Nancy Kelly of the footlights and kleigs and teleproducer Wm. Robson are Fevvensakes! . . . Soap opera actress Louise Fisk has 21's manager in a lather . . . Leggy Lobin of TV and Grant Dickson Green 3rd are being stitched Oct. 12th . . . The Jack Garritys have written a grim ending. She's the ex-Mrs. Groucho Marx . . . Japan's top movie actress Shirley Yamaguchi is at the Plaza. She's French descent, which explains her beauty . . . If "Call Me Madam" really has an advance sale of a million dollars, then it oughta be called: "Call Me Merman."

'How To Be Deliriously Happy'

Tired? Worried? Lazy? Try 'Zhloomphing'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Please don't take the Foible Gompkin method for happiness seriously, gentle reader. "How To Be Deliriously Happy" is a burlesque, in its own fashion, of all the "inspirational" books of modern times.

The writer, Ira Wallach, is author of "The Horn and the Roses."

These articles are from the book, "How To Be Deliriously Happy," published by Henry Schuman, New York.

CHAPTER THREE

I know of no sadder sight than the modern busy executive, buoyed up by his dividends, who seems on the surface to be blessed with all the good things life has to offer, but who is the victim of almost unbearable tensions that result from the mad pace of modern living.

Such a man rushes through eighteen holes of golf as though an enemy were pursuing him.

He drinks to relax, but the relaxation of drink is only a mirage—fool's gold of the spirit.

He does not dare to "take it easy" because he feels that were he to do so, his rivals would outstrip him and his corporation would crash around his ears.

Statistics indicate that as a result of overwork, modern executives are dropping like flies on the Nation's golf courses.

New Technique—"Zhloomphing"

My purpose in this chapter is to describe to you a new technique to relieve tensions, encourage self-unconsciousness, earn massive wealth, and achieve an all-pervading sense of calm gaiety.

This technique of relaxation is known as "Zhloomphing." I am the first man to have introduced Zhloomph to America. Zhloomph, as a technique of relaxation, was first developed by the eminent specialist in physical medicine, Dr. Hugo Zhloom.

Zhloomph is best achieved in a reclining position, but a satisfactory modified Zhloomph may be accomplished in an upright position.

Dr. Zhloom, who personally demonstrated his technique to me, explained that the first step is the development of complete vacuity.

This is done by wiping the mind clean of all thoughts and concentrating on the mental image of a piece of absorbent cotton soaked in warm milk.

Your Cares Zhloomph Away

As you do this you will feel a sense of peace and harmony infuse your psyche, while the petty cares and worries of life are carried away — rubbed off the mind's slate by the wet cotton.

You have now achieved mental relaxation. When you have succeeded in dispelling from your mind even the image of the wet cotton, you will have achieved spiritual relaxation.

You are ready for the third aspect of Zhloomphing: Physical relaxation. True Zhloomphing is best accomplished on the floor. First stretch out. Assume as liquid a state as is possible for any live structure supported by bone.

Allow the tongue to slap sloppily in the mouth. If the lower lip tends to sag, encourage this tendency. The eyelids and the fists should be half closed. The muscles of the abdomen should lie flaccid and loosely distributed.

Up to this point all these steps, with the exception of the supine position, also constitute vertical or upright Zhloomph. What follows can be done only in supine Zhloomph.

Take a Dozen Pillows—

This involves the use of pillows under all points of contact with reality. Place pillows under each ankle, behind each knee, under the small of the back, the wrists, the elbows, the neck, the buttocks, and the third, fifth and ninth lumbar vertebrae.

Now you have added physical relaxation to your mental and spiritual relaxation. The burden of long years of tribulations and sorrows falls away. All is pillowed joy!

Do not come out of Zhloomph unless forced to do so by hunger or pressure of work.

One prominent banker makes it a practice to Zhloomph from 11 to 4 o'clock every day. At first he did this over the violent objections of other members of the bank's board of directors who complained that their weekly meetings were being disrupted.

Today the board members join him. Result? Today every member of that board of directors is well-to-do!

Gompkin Pillow Kit

Industrialists whom I have taught the technique of Zhloomphing at first protested that it was inconvenient to carry so many pillows around. With the technical advice of Dr. Zhloom himself, we at the Temple of Joy have developed a compact, foam-rubber Gompkin Pillow Kit which we make available at no profit as our contribution to delirious happiness.

If Zhloomph passes over into sleep, do not be discouraged. I know one powerful financier who answered a question concerning his success by saying, "I owe it to my lifelong habit of taking a 20 minute nap every half-hour."

To this day his associates cluck their tongues and ask each other reverently, "I wonder how the Old Man does it?"

"I vow to spend at least one hour every day in Zhloomphing!"

Write this down. Sign it. Send it to me as your personal pledge to relieve your own tensions and bring yourself closer to delirious happiness.

Thursday: It takes two to make a couple.

For Fifth Year

Howard U. Gets Dental Study Award

Dental research awards totaling $187,076 of Public Health Service funds were announced last night by Oscar R. Ewing, Federal Security Adminstrator.

The research grants include one of $2997 to a Howard Unversity doctor here, and another of $8320 to the Medical College of Virginia, for study projects.

Dr. Raymond Hayes, professor of oral medicine at Howard University's College of Dentistry, heads the local project. His new grant, he said, is the fifth from the same source in the past four years, and is for a six-month extension of the continuing study.

The study, it was explained, concerns the relation of Vitamin C blood levels to diseases of the gums and other tooth-supporting tissues.

The Virginia grant of $8320 went to Dr. Seymour J. Kreshover, director of the university's dental research program. It will be used to investigate the possibility that children may develop hare lip, cleft palate or other mouth malformations, or be unusually susceptible to tooth decay because of infectious disease suffered by their mothers during pregnancy.

Diplomat, 34, Arrested on Sex Charge

Eugene Desvernine, 34, acting officer-in-charge of Caribbean affairs at the State Department, has been arrested and charged with an "assault or attempted assault on a minor," it was disclosed yesterday.

The State Department said the official was immediately suspended without pay pending an investigation.

Desvernine, who lives at 2220 Washington ave., Silver Spring, was arrested at 10:30 p. m. last Thursday in East Potomac Park after he had picked up a 13-year-old boy who was hitchhiking, an Interior Department official disclosed.

Booked on a charge of violation of the Miller Act—the so-called "sex psychopath" act—he was arraigned Friday in Municipal Court. Judge George D. Neilson set bond at $2000 and continued the case until October 3.

After Color Ruling

Black-White TV Set Ads Climb in N. Y.

SINCE THE FCC DECISION approving the CBS color television system but without setting final standards, an increase in black and white set advertising by manufacturers and dealers has been noted, at least in the New York area. Price ranges are around 10 percent higher than in the spring.

Some attribute the spurt to a desire by the industry to show the public that black and white sets are still much in evidence and that marketing of color receivers is not in any immediate prospect.

FROM THE TELEVISION SCENE: Edgar Bergen, who did his first TV show on NBC about four years ago, will make his CBS-TV debut Thanksgiving Day for the sponsor of his Sunday night radio show. How many TV shows he will do has not been determined . . . The NBC-TV musical comedy series, which is to alternate with the Robert Montgomery theater on Monday nights, will have its first production October 2, with Martha Raye and John Conti in an hour's version of "Anything Goes." A sponsor is cooperating in the productions, which will consist of Broadway successes of the past . . . Mel Allen will team up again with Jim Britt for Dumont's second year of Notre Dame football telecasts starting September 30 . . . Danny Thomas has been signed for the Wednesday night comedy series being readied by NBC-TV to open October 4 with Ed Wynn. Thomas will get the second week, Jimmy Durante the third, with the fourth open.—(AP).

Martha Raye

Lovely Jan Miner, 31, who earns from $25,000 to $50,000 a year as the leading lady of more than a dozen weekly radio and TV shows, says the public is looking for "material and spiritual simplicity and realism.

"The publicity and glamour build-up that Hollywood has sold the world has become transparent artificiality," she says. "The public has had enough of it, including the shallow loves, excessive cheesecake and the 'I'm-too-good-for-you' complexes. It's not buying anymore."

The cold war in Europe, the live war in Korea, television and the influx of foreign films are mainly responsible for the change in the public's entertainment appetite, Miss Miner says.

"World conditions have caused people to look for things that are stable and meaningful," she adds. "Television and foreign film producers are playing up humanness and realism and this technique is paying off to such an extent that both have become an extremely serious threat to Hollywood."

Miss Miner, probably best known for her role of "Julie" of "Hilltop House," a daily CBS soap opera, says she has fought a personal battle "to keep my feet on the ground."

"The glamour of show business hit me hard when I began acting, just as it hits a lot of others," she said. "But about three years ago I woke up. I realized that no great actress gets by on glamour alone. So what did I do? I bought a 65-acre farm—Hilltop House—and I spend every free moment on it. It helps me retain sincerity and naturalness."

The blond actress said there was a time when she felt she was emoting to the wrong theory.

"Just after I bought the farm a chance came to do a movie," she said. "But Hollywood decided I wasn't glamorous enough—that I hadn't received enough publicity and so on. However, it seems that Hollywood has awakened to the change in public taste. I've only recently been offered an excellent role. They say now: 'Jan Miner, you're just the kind of actress we want!' "—(U.P.).

Ford Group Aids Training For U. S. Jobs

By Walter Winchell

After studying the problem for six years, the Ford Foundation, one of the wealthiest private organizations in the world, has finally figured out what to do with its 80,000,000, tax-free dollars.

The big news will be announced at a press conference September 27 in the Waldorf-Astoria. But this reporter can't wait. The foundation will devote its fabulous fortune to the education and training of men for Government jobs. The foundation feels that the Government has been suffering from a lack of quality employes and is setting out to remedy that situation.

Five volumes of research are now being condensed into a press release in the Ford public relations office. The name of the man who will be in charge of disbursing the money will be announced November 1.

"The Sioux Panorama" To Be Shown Friday

The "Sioux Panorama," a series of animated pictures painted in the nineteenth century, will be shown for the first time at the Corcoran Gallery of Art on Friday at 3 p. m.

The pictures were painted on a single canvas by John Stevens, who also wrote a running commentary which will be read at the showing. The panorama, forerunner of the animated cartoon strip, was loaned to the Corcoran by the Minnesota Historical Society.

85 New Thunderjets Arrive in Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—U. S. Air Force headquarters today announced the arrival of 85 new F-84 Thunderjets for duty in the American zone of Germany.

An Air Force spokesman said the new planes did not increase the number of aircraft in the zone, but were part of the "conversion" plan to equip fighter squadrons in Germany with jets instead of the propeller type planes. The F-84 is rated in the 600-mile-an-hour class.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Navy Lieutenant Off on Top Secret Mission

He's a lieutenant in the Navy, and a right nice guy. So we were sorry to hear that he had to leave, with the evening so young, and registered a strong protest.

"I have to be up at 4," he explained. "I'm shipping out."

"Really?" somebody asked. "Where are you going?"

He looked about to see whether anybody at the adjoining table was eavesdropping. "It's a secret mission," he confided.

"Heavens," we said, "if it's secret, don't tell us."

"You look like the kind who can keep a secret," he said. "Six of us are embarking from an East coast port on a submarine, bound for Russia. We may never get back."

We hung on his every word. Looking about again to make sure he wasn't being overheard, he continued:

"Our mission is to liberate Humphrey Pennyworth."

I can take a hint. Hereafter I'll ask no questions of men in uniform who say they have to get home early.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Pretty 6-week-old kitten." (Michigan 5083, evenings.)

"Will deliver part Manx kitten, 7 weeks old." (Wisconsin 5879.)

"Four housebroken Persian kittens." (Woodley 8840 after 6:15 p. m.)

RADIO REPAIRS

Now that the fall school term has begun again, Chamberlain Vocational High School's radio repair class is looking for new worlds to conquer.

The students learn by doing, and if your radio needs fixing, they'll be glad to have you bring it in. There's no charge except for parts, and the average cost is $3.

For further information, call NAtional 6000 and ask for Chamberlain Vocational. And please clip and save this item, so that you'll have the information handy in the event you want it at some future date.

IT DESERVED A BETTER FATE (OR DID IT?)

With "the Navy's police force" giving such a splendid account of itself these days, Syd Kasper of 527 Monticello dr., Falls Church, Va., couldn't resist a pun.

"I guess," he said to one of the girls in the office, "the favorite dish of the Marines right now is filet of Seoul."

"I don't get it," said the girl.

"Filet of Seoul," repeated Syd. "What's the capital of South Korea?"

"Oh," she said brightly, "I get it now. Philly."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

I am the "no glamor girl" that Col. John P. Merrill refers to in your item about the policeman who changed a tire for a motorist on Key Bridge.

The officer was Private Jordan of the Traffic Division, and I've already told Inspector Cunningham what a fine fellow he is. Credit should also go to Private Jordan's superior, who noted my distress and my hungry 1-year-old, and dispatched the officer to help me.

The incident made me feel that our police are anxious to be of service to the community, and I'm deeply appreciative.

Mrs. Harold L. Elsten,
515 Meridian ave.,
Falls Church, Va.

Dear Mrs. Elsten:

What Colonel Merrill meant to convey, of course, was that the cop wasn't merely being nice because the driver happened to be a slick chick with a come-hither look in her eye.

In any event, I'm sure the colonel will agree that anybody who is gracious enough to write such a letter is a glamor girl in our book—sight unseen. Bill.

PERSONAL NOTES

Capt. Olin Cavness, Capitol Police: Thanks for the kind words, but your boys really do deserve a lot of praise for the job they're doing. It's too bad the Founding Fathers weren't clairvoyant. They might have provided for 1950's traffic load on the Hill by ordering park-at-your-desk facilities built into the Capitol and the two office buildings.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE

Remember when the fellow with a 12-inch television set had a "big" screen? Broadcasting Magazine, "bible" of the radio and TV industry, reports that 85 percent of the receivers being made today have picture tubes of 16 inches or more. Only 15 percent are less than 16 inches in size, but a whopping 11 percent are 19 inches and over.

CO-PILOT

Mary Dickson reports that a TWA employe, applying for a driver's license, borrowed a friend's English Austin for the road test.

He parked in the proper place along the curb, and waited for the inspector, who was having a busy day.

At long last the applicant ahead was checked out, and the inspector approached, industriously filling out some papers on his clip-board. "Okay, move over," he said, still scribbling.

The TWA man, a mild sort of chap who thought the official would drive the car to some starting point, moved over. The inspector got in, and still without looking up from the clip-board ordered:

"I'd be glad to," ventured the TWA man, "except that you're sitting in the driver's seat."

SEATS OF THE MIGHTY

Mary F. Harmer of 1717 19th st. nw. gets a chuckle out of the current "Men of Distinction" ad, featuring William Pahlmann, "distinguished interior designer."

Highball in hand, the distinguished interior designer is pictured in a room comfortably furnished with a straight-backed chair, an overstuffed chair, and a big sofa.

Journal Declares London Is Mecca Of Unwed Mothers

LONDON, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—London has become the mecca of unmarried mothers from abroad, the magazine Medical Press said today.

Pregnant girls take a trip to Britain to get free medical attention under the National Health Service, the magazine explained.

"London especially seems to be the mecca of unmarried mothers and the great foster-mother and kindly nurse of unwanted babies," it said.

The magazine cited the case of a foreigner who came here recently for the third time to deliver a child, which she promptly deserted.

Chemist Scouts Fears Of Rubber Shortage

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 19 (U.P.). There will be no serious rubber shortage in the United States, despite Korean war needs, a University of Illinois chemist said today.

Prof. Carl S. Marvel, head of a synthetic rubber laboratory at the university, said that the Federal Government has enough plants and facilities available to produce one million tons of synthetic rubber a year. "Synthetic production can well meet needs," he declared.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round — THE WASHINGTON POST, Wednesday, September 20, 1950

History Has Propaganda Lesson

By Drew Pearson

When George Washington and the founding fathers first tried to make a go of this nation against the British, not many of them knew much about Korea, nor did they dream that some day their descendants would be fighting communism all the way from Indo-China to Italy.

PEARSON

However, some of the ideas which the founding fathers hatched are directly applicable to Korea, Indo-China, and the rest of the world today.

Roy Norr, the publicist who made the American Tobacco Co. cry "uncle" in the famous "reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet" campaign, has been doing important research on this point and reminds me that, when the British imported Hessian troops to do their fighting, George Washington decided to undermine them with propaganda. Only Washington used more highbrow words than "propaganda," namely "exciting a spirit of disaffection and desertion."

Anyway, Washington appointed a committee of propaganda experts, including the three top men in the would-be nation—Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, and Benjamin Franklin. And they devised a plan whereby Congress offered every Hessian who would desert the British 50 acres of free land.

In short, the Hessians were invited to quit fighting and make their home in the United States.

In addition, Benjamin Franklin wrote a propaganda letter, which was pure fiction and which he signed "Count von Schaumburg," regretting that so few Hessians had been lost in the battle of Trenton. Naturally, the letter didn't make the Hessians feel too kindly toward their British-German masters.

On top of this, Franklin wrote a series of propaganda leaflets which were wrapped around quids of tobacco and smuggled into Hessian hands.

Net result of this propaganda was that, out of 30,000 Hessians, 6000 deserted. George Washington had 6000 fewer mercenaries to fight.

Our Failures Today

In contrast, here are some of the things we are not doing, and which the Communists are doing in different parts of the world.

Contrast No. 1.—Congress last week cut 20 million dollars from the State Department's propaganda budget. The Senate originally voted all the money the State Department requested, but when House and Senate conferees got together, House members chopped the appropriation by 20 million.

The Congressmen who ignored the example of George Washington, Ben Franklin, et al. were:

Cannon of Missouri, Gore of Tennessee, Whitten of Mississippi, Rooney of New York, Gary of Virginia, Rabaut of Michigan, Democrats; and Taber of New York, Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, and Stefan of Nebraska, Republicans.

Contrast No. 2 — First thing the Korean Communists did when they advanced into South Korea was redistribute the land. Dr. Syngman Rhee, President of South Korea, had long been talking about land reforms, but never did anything about it. The Communists, taking a leaf from George Washington's book, beat him to it.

The same thing has happened in Communist-held French Indo-China and in China. Free land to pinched peasants has had a greater effect than all the quinine, medicine, and technical advice we have flown in to help the Indo-Chinese.

Contrast No. 3 — Dan Bell, former Undersecretary of the Treasury, has just returned from the Philippines with a similar report. Dan is no radical. He is president of the American Security and Trust Co., one of the biggest banks in Washington, and went to the Philippines as head of a commission to see what we could do to prevent the islands from going Communist.

He reports that the land reforms long promised by President Quirino have never taken place. Quirino is a friend of the big landowners, including Col. Andres Soreanos, a former aide to General MacArthur. So the big estates have not been broken up, and communism is spreading like wildfire among the peasants, many of whom operate under slave labor conditions.

Contrast No. 4—In southern Italy the situation is somewhat similar. There the chief weapon of the Communists is the vast landed estates, held by a few, while several million peasants are landless. For some time, Premier de Gasperi has considered land reform, but has been advised by American ECA officials that this would create a bad impression in Congress. Senator Taft, De Gasperi was warned, would feel toward Italy as he did toward the British Labor Party and its nationalization proposals, thus, ECA money for Italy might be jeopardized.

Yet, if there isn't land reform in southern Italy, it is fairly certain to suffer the same fate as northern Italy, now dominated by the Communists.

I doubt if George Washington would have agreed with our ECA officials in Italy.

Ghost Writers

Actually, it was writing one of his own speeches that helped to undo Louey Johnson as Secretary of National Defense.

Last December 7 Johnson spoke before the Congress of American Industry in New York. In his speech he said: "We shall make sure that no 4-o'clock-in-the-morning attack will leave us prostrate at 5."

A few nights later Johnson was scheduled to appear at the National Press Club, before the University of Virginia Alumni Association. His aides offered him a prepared speech. Johnson declined. Instead, he spoke off the cuff and said:

"If Stalin attacks at 4 o'clock, we will knock hell out of him at 5."

Actually, Johnson was trying to recall the prepared speech he had used a few nights before. But that's what happened to one Cabinet officer who tried to write his own speech.
